VETERAN OF FORTY-NINE SUCCUMBS

Capt. L. C. Almond Crossed Plains in Covered Wagon to Search for Gold

Capt. Lathan Carey Almond, 80 years of age, who set out across the plains from Indiana as a young man in 1849 with a team of oxen to seek gold in the California hills, died suddenly yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. A. Humphreys, in San Fernando, where he had resided for the last twenty-one years.

Traveling to Yreka in Northern California, Capt. Almond accumulated two fortunes in placer mining before returning to the Middle West in anticipation of the Civil War. He enlisted in an Indiana company and was quickly promoted to a captaincy, serving in several important conflicts.

Following the war he moved to Pueblo, Colo., and engaged in the real estate business. He donated to the city of Kingman, Ariz., the site on which the Town Hall is now situated.

Capt. Almond had retired from active business since coming to California in 1905. He had been a member of the Kingman (Kan.) lodge of Odd Fellows for seventy-three consecutive years, as well as the Sons of the Revolution.

Services will be conducted by Rev. H. H. Hocker, pastor of the San Fernando Methodist Church, Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Noble funeral chapel in San Fernando, followed by cremation at Hollywood cemetery under auspices of San Fernando Lodge of Odd Fellows.

Surviving Capt. Almond are two daughters, Mrs. W. B. James, Portland; Mrs. Humphreys, San Fernando; three sons, A. C. Almond, Costa Mesa, Cal.; D. B. Almond, Lyons, Kan., and L. C. Almond, Jr., Huntington Beach; a grand-daughter, Mrs. H. Westergaard, Seattle, and a nephew, F. A. Powell, of 5343 Lexington Grove avenue, Hollywood.

School Children to Receive Free Music Lessons

Seeking to elevate the cultural sense of Los Angeles' young, the board of directors of the Southern California Music Company yesterday afternoon adopted plans to provide free musical education for school children of the city.

The decision was the result of an investigation conducted by Fred Grannis, vice-president and general manager of the company, for the purpose of testing the opinion of various interested persons in the undertaking. He reported that the plan met with favorable comment from those interviewed.

The proposal of the company is to give piano, violin and other musical lessons to school children in Chamber Hall, 344 South Broadway, during the summer vacation. The instruments will be provided free and the instructors will be engaged by the company. Mr. Grannis declared the directors were moved to adopt the plan by a desire to improve cultural Los Angeles.

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, March 5.—Eight airplanes of the Four Hundred and Seventy-seventh Air Reserve Officers' Corps flew over Hollywood today dropping "bombs." Each "bomb" contained the finder, if a student at Hollywood High School, to a free course of training in aviation ground work. No actual flying will be included in the course, but the preliminaries will be given thoroughly.

The flight was commanded by Capt. Giffin and the officers taking part were Lieuts. Ewan, English, Hansen, Munchof, Brown, Kiens and Clark.

SERVICES TOMORROW FOR SEPTUAGENARIAN

Funeral services for Clinton B. French will be conducted at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Gates, Crane & Chapel undertaking establishment, 1700 North Highland avenue. Mr. French, who was 74 years of age, died Wednesday. He was a native of Missouri and had engaged in the grain business at Kansas City until coming to Los Angeles several years ago. He lived at the Yucca Apartments, Hollywood. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Katherine Wilson of Kansas City, and Mrs. Mildred Pitts of Hollywood, and a sister, Mrs. Wyan Robison of Kansas City. He was a cousin of Walter S. Dickey, editor of the Kansas City Journal.

LEAD REFORM

Pomona College Address Will Bring Better Era

Allen White, famous editor and publicist from the present generation of students, addressed a large audience in Holmes Hall, Pomona College, last night. He faced the sheiks and shebas and told them the world is on the eve of portentous events which will play a prominent part in their lives.

Contribution to Modern Civilization

"Just as the ballot was. The day of the industrial baron is past and a new day of man is coming to the fore with a new psychology and this psychology may be said to be one of high wages, mass production and low profit. In other words, business is becoming socialized to a certain degree."

OTHER LECTURES

Commenting on Socialism in government, however, the speaker expressed doubt that it ever can be accomplished.

Mr. White, whose presence at Pomona College was made possible by the Joseph H. Johnson Foundation, will speak again in Holmes Hall Wednesday afternoon; March 9, at 4:15 o'clock on "Propaganda and News." This will be a round-table discussion. On March 10 at 8 p.m. Mr. White will give another address, taking for his subject, "The Future of the Progressive Movement." Mr. White also will give an address before a group of Southern California librarians in Chaffey Union High School, Ontario, at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning.

CONGRESS DIES 'MAD'

Senate Fights to Bitter End

Vice President Passes Out Gracefully After Colleagues' War Bars Important Business

Deficiency Bill's Failure to Pass Brings on Tangle; Feuds Still Dueling

BY KYLE D. PALMER

WASHINGTON, March 4. (Exclusive)—With much of its important work completed the Sixty-ninth Congress passed into history at noon today under a cloud of rancorous debate and an outburst of partisan and personal animosity not witnessed in Congress since the tumultuous days following the close of the Civil War.

The malignancy of verbal exchanges in the Senate did not arise on the heat of the moment, nor can it be ascribed to men suffering from irritation or annoyance; they were deep-seated and unhealthy. Hatchets were buried across the chamber, the lie was passed in parliamentary parlance, words filled with bitter malice were hurled between Republican and Republican hate that seemed unquenchable as it was unreasoning filled the atmosphere.

Under similar circumstances young men would have come quickly and exchanged blows; the dignified Senate of the United States relieved its pent-up and smoldering feelings by the use of wordy insults that drained the blood from strained facial faces, but found no release in the clenched Senatorial fist.

QUIET IN HOUSE

The House by comparison, the House of Representatives dutifully attended to its business and gracefully submitted to oblivion.

The House was enmeshed in its own rules and self-imposed rules. Only once the Upper House of Congress been held in futile and acrimonious debate, while scores of bills of minor or lesser importance have been cast into the discard.

Much of the embarrassment occasioned by the failure of such important administrative measures as the deficiency bill, which, by common consent was driven down with it an appropriation of $200,000 for the protection of Imperial Valley lands, President Coolidge has called on Congress for a special session.

It is the opinion of Mr. Coolidge the action of the legislative branch of government may cause some inconvenience.

Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, March 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Don't ever tell us Friday is unlucky. Didn't Congress adjourn today? The Republicans died fighting to keep from being investigated. The voters would like to investigate both parties as to their sanity the last few weeks, and there would be no hung jury as to their decision.

RAP TAKEN AT SENATE BY DAWES

Vice-President Criticises Rules That Permit Long Siege of Filibustering

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—Vice-President Dawes today closed the final Senate session of the Sixty-ninth Congress as he opened it, with a lecture on its rules permitting filibusters.

With only one minute left, the Vice-President, who had sat silent during the three months session except to make rulings, stopped Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, who then had the floor.

"It is customary," Mr. Dawes said, to a startled Senate, that the Vice-President at the beginning and the ending of the Congress, address the Senate upon an appropriate subject.

"Comments I have to make on this occasion will be very brief.

"The chair regards the present legislative session as primarily due to defective rules of the Senate under which a minority can prevent a majority from exercising their constitutional rights of bringing measures to a vote.

"It is the only great parliamentary body in the world where such a situation exists. On this closing day of the second session of the Sixty-ninth Congress the chair commends to the Senate the remarks upon the Senate rules which he made on the first day of the present Congress."

DAUGHERTY SET FREE

Gives Thanks in Court Speech

Case Against Him Quashed When Jury Disagrees After Seventy Hours

Miller, Convicted, Faces Two Years' Imprisonment and Will Appeal

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—Col. Thomas W. Miller was convicted today of conspiracy to defraud the government, by a jury which failed to agree on a verdict on similar charges against Harry M. Daugherty. The case against the former Attorney-General was at once nolle prossed.

Miller, the Alien Property Custodian in President Harding's administration, and prominent in organization of the American Legion, faces a sentence of two years in Atlanta penitentiary and a $10,000 fine.

The cleavage caused by the jury's disagreement on Daugherty was completed when U. S. Atty. Buckner, who twice prosecuted the case, moved for quashing of the indictment and found Judge Knox complicant.

His voice husky with emotion as he vainly tried to smile, Daugherty faced the court and said:

ADDRESSESS COURT

"May it please the court, perhaps I am taking a liberty few men could take. I am the only Attorney-General, I believe, except one, that has ever been tried for a felony. I am innocent of this charge. I am grateful to the court for its courteous consideration during the performance of its duty, which was not easy. As far as Mr. Buckner is concerned, he has prosecuted me most vigorously, but by reason of the motion he has made, I have no complaint to make against him or anybody else, because I never claimed rights that every other American citizen should not be granted. I thank you all for your personal consideration."

They were the first words Daugherty had uttered aloud in the courtroom during the two trials. Neither defendant took the stand in either trial, and at the second trial Miller did not offer a defense, asserting the government had not proved its case.

Mal S. Daugherty, Washington Court House (O.) banker, grasped his brother's hand and the two left the courtroom. In another room, a few minutes later, Harry Daugherty broke into tears. He was comforted by friends. He said he would return to Columbus and take up his law practice as soon as he recovered from the strain of the trial.

Miller's bail of $5000 was continued pending appeal. Motions for a new trial will be made next Tuesday. Should they be denied, it was indicated, sentence may be imposed then. The maximum punishment is two years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

"I'm not through fighting," Miller said, a few minutes after the verdict was given.

RUPTURE APPARENT

The coolness between Daugherty and Miller noticeable during both trials was more apparent after the verdict. They did not offer congratulations or condolences in the courtroom.

Daugherty and Miller were charged with conspiring to defraud the United States of their honest and unbiased services in the allowance of claims for $7,000,000 proceeds of the sale of impounded American Metal Company shares. It was alleged they received part of a $441,000 fee paid to effect the allowance.

Much of the evidence in the case was the same for both Daugherty and Miller. The government called witnesses whose testimony showed that part of the fee had reached the Midland National Bank at Washington Court House. Records which the government contended would have shown to whose account this money was credited were burned by Harry Daugherty.

In Miller's case $40,000, proceeds of Liberty bonds bearing serial numbers of those paid as the major part of the "fee" were traced to his banking and brokerage accounts.

The jury in the first trial set a new record for the Federal Building by deliberating the case more than sixty-five hours. That record fell during the present trial, however, when the jury stayed out more than seventy hours.

COLD WAVE QUITS FLORIDA

Tender Truck Crops in Widely Separated Regions Damaged by Wintry Blasts

JACKSONVILLE (Fla.) March 4. (AP)—Florida tonight was recovering from a revived and unseasonable onslaught of winter. Tender truck crops of widely separated sections were damaged while others apparently were untouched.

Leaving the potato belt of the Hastings section almost untouched though the temperature at one time dropped to 30 deg. there, frost hopped far down the peninsula to wreck tender truck crops in the inland section as far south as Homestead, south of Miami. The Tampa section as far south as Homestead was a light frost.

In the Everglades the temperature this morning dropped to 28 deg., though Miami did better with 39.

Damage was believed to have been confined to the most tender of the truck crops, principally tomatoes of the Everglades farmers.

The bloom in the citrus belt felt the frost, but not to any great extent. Smudge pots were not used generally, although some nursery men brought them into play to protect the tender shoots.

CREW SAVED IN STEAMER FIRE AT SEA

Men of Spanish Vessel Picked Up Off New York; Four Ships Answer Call

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—The entire crew of forty men of the Spanish steamer Cabo Hatteras, reported afire 130 miles off New York, was picked up by the Spanish steamer Cabo Torres, Garcia and Diaz, New York agents of the ships, announced tonight.

Four ships announced that they were steaming to the aid of the burning vessel after her wireless call of distress was received here. While they were speeding to the scene a message came from the Cabo Torres that a lifeboat containing thirteen members of the crew had been picked up. Until this message came through it was not known that the Cabo Torres, which left New York yesterday, had gone to the aid of the Cabo Hatteras.

A later message to the agents said the entire crew had been rescued.

RADIO BODY LEFT IN AIR BY SENATE

Two Members Fail to Get Approval, Along With Many Other Nominations

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—Thirty-eight presidential nominations including two for the newly created radio commission, were still without the stamp of Senate approval when Congress adjourned.

The radio appointments of O. H. Caldwell of New York, and H. A. Bellows of Minnesota, died in the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, when a short while before adjournment, it refused to take action. They will go over "without prejudice" to the next session.

In the meanwhile, it is expected that President Coolidge will fill the two vacancies with recess appointments, probably designating Caldwell and Bellows. Three members, forming a majority of the commission, have been confirmed and it can function, but is without funds, due to the Senate's failure to pass the deficiency bill, carrying an appropriation for its maintenance.

Officer Dies in Vain Endeavor to Rescue Two

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—A policeman, Harry J. Farrell, gave his life today in an unsuccessful attempt to rescue a mother and her baby in a fire that raged through a five-story tenement in Spring street.

Scores Stake Claims in Nevada Mountains After Boys Tell of Rich Find

TONOPAH (Nev.) March 4. (AP)—Gold-rush scene, rivaling Klondike days in the enthusiasm displayed were being enacted on Lone Mountain near here today, with "fivvers" taking the place of dog teams, following reports of discovery three days ago of high-grade gold ore by Frank Horton, Jr., and Leonard Taylor, 19-year-old boys.

More than 200 experienced prospectors and four women braved rain and snow in searching for the location notices posted by the lads, but failed to find any trace of their claim. The crowd then turned its attention to the ground adjoining the Weepah group, owned by the elder Horton, and began locating there with hopes of getting close to the discovery. The two boys have remained silent about the location of their discovery and have stated that they will not reveal anything until Frank Horton, Sr., arrives from Los Angeles.

At daybreak today 125 automobiles were counted in the five-mile stretch adjoining the Weepah group.

Litigation has already loomed regarding the discovery, when W. E. Schmidt, a Western Union employee, put in a claim today for a one-third of the discovery, asserting that he grub-staked the two lads.

AMERICAN BEATEN IN NICARAGUA

Consular Agent Followed to His Home and Attacked by Unidentified Pair

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—An official report reached the State Department from Minister Eberhardt at Managua telling of an assault at Matagalpa on W. H. Desavigny, American consular agent.

Desavigny was followed as he returned home from the club at 1 a.m., the advices said, by two men, whom he could not identify, into his house, where they attacked him, apparently without weapons. He was discovered unconscious on the floor three hours later and found to be suffering from internal injuries the extent of which has not been determined.

Minister Eberhardt said the Nicaraguan government had promised to spare no effort toward the apprehension and punishment of Desavigny's assailants.

Desavigny, who is 67 years of age, is a native of Quebec and was naturalized as an American citizen in Ramsey county, Minnesota, in 1892. He has held the Matagalpa post since 1905.

NOTE RIDDLE UNSOLVED

Word to Mexico Still Mystery

State Department Continues Secrecy as Washington Puzzles Over Tangle

Official Denial of Reports on Tellez Recall Given by Southern Republic

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP) — The perplexing tangle of Mexican-American relations vied for public attention today with the passing of the Sixty-ninth Congress, but there was no sign of relinquishment in the attitude of officials who have cloaked developments with silence.

The subject of the recent mystery note exchanged between Washington and Mexico City was still a jealously guarded secret at the State Department. The strange comings and goings of Manuel C. Tellez, Mexican Ambassador, still lacked convincing explanation and even the State Department said officially it was unaware of the reason for his second start for Mexico City.

The White House contributed only the reiterated assertion that President Coolidge regards the question of confiscation of American-owned property in Mexico as the major difference between the two governments, all other sources of friction being viewed as incidental to that question. The President believes that settlement of the major dispute would solve, almost automatically, all lesser complications.

SILENCE IN REPORTS

Meanwhile, reports from Mexico City still insisted, but without indications of official origin, that the mystery note involved American protests against Mexican propaganda in the United States. The State Department remained silent on that point, although it began the day with an official denial by Acting Secretary Grew that recall of Ambassador Telles had been asked. The statement that the department was not advised as to the reason for the Ambassador's departure last week for Mexico City was included in that outgiving which came on the heels of a refusal last night to comment formally on Telles's reported recall.

NEW SURPRISE

A new surprise as to Telles's movements was sprung with word from the Mexican Consulate-General in New York that he had sent gems from Washington to that city last night to take a ship for Mexico, as reported at the Embassy, but had turned westward to make the trip by rail, via St. Louis.

A report that he had again turned back to Washington was circulated tonight, but found few takers. Its source could not be learned.

DENIAL ISSUED FROM FOREIGN OFFICE

MEXICO CITY, March 4. (AP)—Complete denial that the recent mystery note of the United States to Mexico protests asserted propaganda activities of Ambassador Manuel C. Telles or Arturo Elias, Mexican Consul-General in New York, and that it declares Ambassador Telles persona non grata, was made officially by the Mexican Foreign Office today.

At the same time it was denied that a break in the diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico was in prospect or was feared. Foreign Minister Saenz declared that these reports were not true.

The American Embassy continued silent as to the character of the note, but nevertheless it can be stated authoritatively that the note contains no mention of either Ambassador Telles or Consul-General Elias.

Ambassador Telles's visit to Mexico City is purely personal and is solely for the purpose of visiting his sick brother, the Foreign Office declared, asserting that the attribution of any

Half of Sea-Soldier Forces Will March Through Shanghai Today

SHANGHAI, March 5 (Saturday) (AP)—Fifteen hundred United States marines paraded through the principal streets of Shanghai today. The parade, which lasted two hours, was planned merely to afford exercise for the men and not as a show of force.

SHANGHAI, March 4. (AP)—Some of the American marines, who will have an opportunity to stretch their legs in a route march through Shanghai tomorrow, today had a preliminary call to duty in the international settlement.

A squad of Chinese soldiers took a Standard Oil Company launch and started to take it downstream. An American naval officer was notified and sixty marines were sent in pursuit. They overtook the Chinese soldiers after a chase of five miles and recovered the boat without any firing. The soldiers, although armed, quietly surrendered their prize.

Tomorrow's big march through Shanghai, which will be made by half of the marines now billeted aboard the transport Chaumont, will be for the sake of exercise, it was explained, and not as a show of force.

CHINESE PROTEST

While the military situation in the civil war continued to center around the Shantungese forces of Marshal Chang Tsung-Chang, who now is the chief defender of Shanghai, against the invading Cantonese, a strong protest was made to the senior foreign consul against the stationing of British troops outside the boundary of the international settlement. The protest was made by the Chinese Commissioner for Foreign Affairs in Shanghai, who asked immediate withdrawal of the troops.

Foreign observers, however, regard the protest as a matter of form prompted by the commissioner's desire to take a stand in accordance with Chinese nationalism and to keep in with the Cantonese.

TROOPS FOUR-IN

Meanwhile the Shantungese reinforcements continued to pour toward the Sunkiang front. Large numbers of Shantung troops arrived in the Shanghai area, some by train and others by sea from Tsing-tao. All of these troops are being rushed to the south as quickly as possible to replace the demoralized forces of Sun Chuan-Fang, no longer a power in Shanghai.

Alarming reports came from the Province of Anhwei, where Gov. Chen Ting-Yueh was reported to have declared his province independent and to have joined the Cantonese in a plan to cut the Tientsin-Pukow railway isolating the main Chihli-Shantung army from its bases. Thus far, however, this rumor cannot be substantiated.

SHANGHAI MAYOR ASKS HUGE AMERICAN FORCE

SHANGHAI, March 4. (Exclusive)—Efforts are being exerted to induce the United States to co-operate on an equal basis with Great Britain in China by sending 15,000 more American marines and soldiers to Shanghai. American military observers believe that if a conflict with the Chinese develops the United States inevitably will be drawn in.

Stirling Fessenden, Mayor of Shanghai, who is an American, today urged American Consul Gauss to request Washington to increase vastly the

FIVE DIE AS SHIP HITS BAR

Two of Crew Saved When Schooner Goes to Pieces Off Coast of Massachusetts

ORLEANS (Mass.) March 4. (AP)—A broken schooner spewing bundled laths and a long beach strewn with wreckage told tonight of another battle with the sea in which five men lost their lives and two were saved by the ever vigilant Coast Guard. The wave-swept vessel, with spars dragging in the surging water and only the stump of the foremast standing, was the Montclair of Parrsboro, N. S., Halifax for New York.

The two men taken through the surf on a breeches buoy just before the ship split in two, were Nathan Bagg of Cappahayden, N. F., and Garland Short of Bonavista, N. F. Tonight both were recovering from exposure.

CAPTAIN AMONG VICTIMS

Those lost were Capt. William McLeod of Parrsboro, Mate William Dowling of Gabarouse, C. B. J.; Cook Jerome Rutland of Alma, N.B., and Seamen William Stewart of Burgeo, N. F., and George Cains, of that colony.

Three of these, fighting overwhelming odds, clung desperately for two hours to wreckage, within sight but beyond reach of the watchers on the shore. The captain's body was picked up late today near the scene of the wreck.

Driven by a sixty-mile gale from the northeast, the schooner struck early this morning on the outer bar. The rising tide lifted her and the high rollers carried her in to the inner bar, a quarter-mile from shore. It was cold and terrible weather to the seven water-soaked men of the crew. It was a warm sunny day on shore.

COAST GUARD HELPLESS

Then a giant comber lifted the Montclair and smashed her down on the bar and her masts tumbled by the board. She split and her cargo of laths floated from the gaping hole. The remaining five men were swept away. Two died almost at once. The other three, clinging to the floating wood, were carried for two hours along the coast, gradually drifting out, while the helpless Coast Guard patrolled the beach.

CAPTAIN REPORTS SEAS MOUNTAIN-HIGH

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—The first of the New York-bound vessels to arrive after passing through the ocean disturbance on the Atlantic Coast Wednesday, put in today with forward skylights on the starboard smashed and seven cabins water-soaked.

The vessel was the Munargo of the Munson Line, whose captain, Thomas Simmons, reported having encountered forty-foot waves and ninety-mile winds. One wave spilled its crest on the ship's upper structure, smashing the skylights.

None of the passengers was injured.

STATE USURY LAW UPHELD

Supreme Court in Three Decisions Interprets Act as Limiting Interest to 12 Per Cent

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4. (Exclusive)—Settling a long controversy over the constitutionality of the State usury law regulating the amount of interest that may be charged by money lenders, the State Supreme Court today gave decisions in three cases upholding its validity.

In the decisions, the court stated the statute, as a whole, is "valid and without violence to any provision of the constitution and that it is the manifest intent of the act to forbid absolutely to the money lenders any profit whatever by way of commission, bonus or other kind of charge if, in so doing, the maximum rate of interest in the act is exceeded.

"If anything is made clear and plain by the act," the court stated, "it is that the maximum rate of 12 per cent per annum is the full measure of all profit to the lender and the lender has no right to compound interest unless it is so arranged that the compounded interest will not exceed 12 per cent."

In the event money lenders are found guilty of having violated the usury law, they must return to the borrower treble the amount of the overcharges made. In addition, the violators are guilty of a misdemeanor and must be fined not less than $25 nor more than $300 or serve a jail sentence of not more than six months, or both.

PROVES DRAWBACK

The principal problem occasioned by the failure of Congress to enact needed legislation is found in the necessity for meeting payments of pensions and conducting the affairs of the Veterans' Bureau. The failure of the second deficiency appropriation bill to pass has a far-reaching effect on the work of the Interior Department and involves appropriation items amounting to approximately $39,000,000.

The bill carried a $37,200,000 item for war pensions, this amount being necessary to complete the payments to be made during the fiscal year ending June 30, next. The present appropriation will be depleted about May 1, so that the department will be unable to pay during the months of May and June the 500,000 beneficiaries of pension legislation the amounts of which they are entitled under present laws. It will become necessary to suspend payment of pensions on May 1 until the appropriation for the fiscal year 1928 is available after July 1, 1927, at which time the accrued pensions for a three-month period will be paid.

MONEY LACKING

This deficit of $37,200,000 accrues largely from pension legislation enacted by Congress since the regular appropriation for the fiscal year 1927. Congress increased pensions to the extent of about $33,000,000 and through failure of the deficiency bill to become a law did not provide the money to pay the pensioners the amounts they have been receiving regularly each month.

The War Department had something more than $6,000,000 in the bill, rather more than half of which is in the items of pay, some being for an actual deficiency in this fiscal year. There is a possibility that the enlisted strength of the Army may have to be curtailed temporarily. At any rate, it will not be possible to bring the enlisted strength up from 110,000 men to 115,000 men by July 1.

On effect of the failure of the bill is to postpone the public building program. The money for the building of new postoffices, Veterans' Bureau hospitals and the like, for the ensuing fiscal year, was carried in this bill. Thus, there is no possibility of any money being available to carry on these projects much before January 1, 1928, instead of July 1, as would have been the case had the bill passed.

CHIEF PROBLEMS

President Coolidge thinks that the chief difficulties, although he does not regard these as insurmountable, that will be encountered, will be in paying the beneficiaries of the Pension Bureau and the Veterans' Bureau in May and June and in the matter of applying the new legislation for government loans on adjusted compensation certificates. Congress recently amended the adjusted compensation law to permit these loans to be made and the deficiency bill carried an appropriation of $25,000,000 for the purpose. President Coolidge thinks that now the first great pressure for loans and certificates has passed, the banking institutions of the country will be able to make all the loans really needed.

In this same conversation at the White House it developed that President Coolidge has not joined the considerable body of observers here who have been "cussing out" the Senate for its obstreperous behavior in these closing days of the session. Without singling out either house for praise or blame, he thinks Congress, as a whole, has done very good work, aside from the two or three bills which he felt it necessary to veto. In both sessions it has kept well within the budget recommendations and the financial record it has made is admirable.

MORE TROUBLES

In addition to the distress caused in some of the departments by the failure of the deficiency bill there are several matters hanging over from the Senate's angry finish that will cause irate disputation. One is the matter of the Reed special Senatorial investigating committee, the crux of the long filibuster. Senator Reed of Missouri, the head of the committee, who failed in his effort to obtain the adoption of his resolution continuing the committee's life announced after adjournment that the committee will go on anyway, and will proceed to open the Pennsylvania ballot boxes which have been brought to Washington in the custody of the Senate's sergeant-at-arms. He adopts the theory advanced by Senator Borah that the Senate being a continuing body, this committee also is a continuing body and may proceed to sit and do all the things that it has been doing.

Of course, if this theory is correct there was no necessity for the resolution of continuance which he offered and against which Senator Reed of Pennsylvania and Senator Moses of New Hampshire staged their stubborn and successful filibuster.

On the other hand, Senator Reed of Pennsylvania announced that the investigating committee now is dead, having died with the adjournment of the session; that it is without authority to do any act whatsoever, and that specifically the Senate sergeant-at-arms must not allow it to open the ballot boxes. Here is the beginning of another spectacular row.

DISPLAY OF ANGER

The closing scenes in the Senate, concluding with a short speech by Vice-President Dawes in excoriation of all filibusterers, Democratic and Republican, were not edifying. The last three hours saw the Senators wrought to a high pitch of anger, hurling insults at one another across the floor and blocking all attempts to do business, the fatal phrase, "I object," coming from the mouths of Republicans and Democrats alike.

From 9:30 o'clock on until the gavel fell at noon, the Democrats were conducting a counter-filibuster of their own, led by Senators Harrison of Mississippi and Walsh of Massachusetts. This led Senator Moses to shout across the chamber, "Massachusetts, Mississippi and Democracy make a good triplets."

When the Senate took its recess last night it was on an implied agreement that when it met this morning hostilities would be suspended to permit the passage by unanimous consent of the deficiency appropriation bill. But when the Senate did meet, after recess, it was impossible to carry out this agreement, although Senator Curtis, the Republican floor leader, protested that no recess would have been taken had not the understanding prevailed.

WRATH POURED OUT

The reason was that Senators Walsh of Massachusetts and Harrison were determined that no business whatever should be done unless the Reed resolution was passed. They were intent on fastening on the Republican party the blame for having Congress die without enacting necessary legislation. As they proceeded with their counter-filibuster, the objective of the Republicans was to demonstrate that the blame for the death of the bills must lie with the Democrats because there was yet time to enact them if the Democratic filibusterers would be good.

At the beginning of the morning session Senator Curtis, in pursuance of the agreement as he thought, asked unanimous consent to vote on the deficiency bill at 9:30 o'clock. Senator Reed of Missouri promptly offered the qualification that immediately thereafter a vote would be taken on his resolution continuing the life of his committee. Up came Senator Reed of Pennsylvania with violent objection, and the whole arrangement was upset. Through the morning Democratic Senators poured forth their wrath on the Pennsylvania Reed and Senator Moses, getting sharp retorts.

Relenting somewhat, Senator Reed of Missouri, mindful of last night's agreement, asked without qualification unanimous consent to pass the deficiency bill just as it had been reported by the committee. But Senator Wheeler of Montana and Senator Bruce of Maryland, Democrats, shrieked in unison "I object" and that failed.

After some further heated oratory, Senator Reed of Missouri again asked unanimous consent to pass the deficiency bill. "Is there objection?" asked Vice-President Dawes, and almost immediately added: "The bill is passed."

BARS PASSAGE

From Senator Howell of Nebraska, Republican, came a wild howl of objection. Senator Howell said that the President had vetoed the farm relief bill and that Congress had done nothing for the upper Missouri River. Inasmuch as there is nothing in the deficiency bill for the Missouri River, Senator Howell would not let it pass.

Patiently from time to time Senator Warren, the aged chairman of the Appropriations Committee, sought to save the bill, but without effect. The House in the meantime had adopted a resolution providing for the payment of the Pensions and Veterans' Bureau allotments and sent it to the Senate. This, to take the place of the appropriation bill, was offered, but the objections continued.

Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, delivering a speech in denunciation of the Republican filibuster, refused to heed the pleas of Senator Warren who had crossed to his side, to whisper to him. Walsh said that if the Democrats now permitted any business to be done, they would be showing a lack of courage and admit that they had been licked.

IGNORES APPEAL

In the last hour of the session Senator Harrison of Mississippi got the floor with the obvious purpose of talking until noon. He did but he was interrupted frequently. Senator Stewart, Republican of Iowa, a war veteran, but a tyro in the Senate, not impressed by the sort of politics that was being played, called across to him, "the Commissioner of Pensions says that if this bill does not pass he will not be able to pay the pensions to the widows of Civil War veterans, women 80 and 90 years of age, who are dependent upon these pensions for their living. Will you take the responsibility for denying them this money?"

Senator Harrison told Senator Stewart that he should address his remarks to Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, who had been conducting the filibuster for the last forty-eight hours and went on with his own speech.

In his unrestrained and contemptuous denunciation of the Pennsylvania Reed, Senator Harrison referred to him as the "little Lord Fauntleroy of Pittsburgh," then swiftly changing the figure, spoke of him as a corruptionist.

THUS IT ENDS

The tall, dignified Senator Shortridge made a point of order here that Senator Harrison was violating the rules in imputing improper motives to a fellow-Senator.

"So," bellowed Harrison, "I have convinced even the Senator from California—the tall sycamore from California."

This is the manner in which Senatorial courtesy was exhibited today. Senator Harrison was still reading from an interview attributed to Senator Reed of Pennsylvania a year ago, interspersed with his own comments, when Vice-President Dawes interrupted him at two minutes to twelve in order to make his own little speech, with its criticism of the Senate. As the Vice-President began to speak, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, lighted a cigar and leaned back with a satisfied smile on his face. And thus the session closed.

DRY BILL SIGNED AMONG MANY OTHERS

HOUSE SINGS ITS WAY INTO HISTORY

WASHINGTON, March 4. (Exclusive)—Political differences and factional discord all forgotten, the House greeted the gavel tap which sent the Sixty-ninth Congress into history at noon today with songs and cheers in a dramatic demonstration.

As Speaker Longworth pronounced "the second session of the Sixty-ninth Congress, in accordance with the Constitutional limitation, adjourned without date," a forty-piece Navy orchestra massed in the well before the rostrum struck up "The Star Spangled Banner," bringing the House and the hundreds packed into the galleries to their feet.

WILSHIRE BANDITS ROB GROCERYMAN

Two unmasked bandits entered the store of M. Fox, a groceryman, 4030 Beverly Boulevard and made off with plunder valued at nearly $500. Entering the store when Fox was alone, the bandits forced the groceryman to surrender a valuable watch at the point of their guns and then rifled the cash register of cash and checks totaling more than $400. Police of Wilshire division are investigating.

Immigrants have taken $7,500,000 into Palestine to invest mostly in land and building.

Review of Day in Congress

The Caldwell and Bellows Radio Commission and thirty-six other nominations failed of Senate confirmation.

The Senate adopted a committee report holding that Senator Gould of Maine was entitled to his seat.

TAX RELIEF CHIEF DEED

Congress Leaves Good Record

Perplexing Problems Remain But Many Worthy Acts Passed at Session

Senate Often Collides With Executive on Policies in Various Matters

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—In writing its legislative history, the Sixty-ninth Congress placed on the statute books a number of major laws, but it will pass on to its successor many perplexing problems. In its two years of office it eased the nation's tax burden by almost $400,000,000; approved foreign debt settlements aggregating $3,000,000,000 and expanded the country's defense forces both by air and by sea.

To the Seventieth Congress it will leave solutions of the long vexing questions of Muscle Shoals, farm relief, Boulder Canyon dam, merchant marine maintenance, coal-control legislation, alien property and railroad consolidation.

SITUATION CHANGES

Coming into office on the Coolidge landslide of 1924, the expiring Congress was generally in agreement with the President during the first and long session ending last July, but disagreed with him upon many questions in its last three months' reign.

At the outset a majority concurred in the views of the Executive against enactment of farm-relief legislation along the lines of the McNary-Haugen plan. In less than nine months, however, both the House and Senate reversed their positions, passing the bill and sending it to the President, who promptly returned it with his disapproval.

Again, at its short session, Congress once more found itself in disagreement with Mr. Coolidge on the advisability of proceeding with the construction of three additional scout cruisers. Over his expressed opposition, it appropriated funds for this purpose, but whether the President will consent to the use of the money thus provided remains to be seen.

TILTS WITH SENATE

In his relations with the Congress, the President encountered his greatest difficulty with the Senate, to which he had to turn for "advice and consent" in the matter of treaties and nominations. In the two major foreign policies upon which the Senate passed, it sided with the Executive in one—American adherence to the World Court—and disagreed with him in another, the Lausanne treaty for re-establishment of diplomatic and commercial relations with Turkey.

On the question of nominations the President had his first battle with the Senate at a special session which convened exactly two years ago. This resulted in the rejection of Charles Beecher Warren of Michigan to be Attorney-General. At the succeeding session the Executive withdrew the nomination of Wallace McCamant of Oregon to be circuit judge after public hearings before the Judiciary Committee. In the session ending today the Senate rejected the nomination of Cyrus E. Woods of Pennsylvania, former Ambassador to Spain and Japan, to be a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

PROHIBITION PLANS

While objections were raised to a number of other nominations, approval was given to appointees for the Tariff Commission, the Federal Trade Commission, the Interstate Commerce Commission, and to a number of other judicial and administrative offices.

Another point on which the Executive and the Congress failed to agree completely was on strengthening of the Prohibition Act. Administration measures to this end either were pigeonholed in committee or were left on the calendars, although one measure setting up a separate bureau of prohibition in the Treasury, and placing dry agents under civil service, was given final Congressional approval yesterday and sent to the President.

Prohibition occupied much of the attention of both House and Senate, with frequent discussions on the floors, and an extensive inquiry by a Senate committee before which some of the leading wets and drys of this country and Canada voiced their views.

Another inquiry by a Senate committee which attracted nation-wide attention was that into the Pensylvania, Illinois and Indiana Senatorial primaries. As a result of the disclosures, Frank L. Smith of Illinois was denied place in the Senate even temporarily under appointment by Gov. Small after his election, and a contest was initiated against the seating of William S. Vare, of Pensylvania, as a Senator in the next Congress.

Less spectacular in the proceedings of Congress were the passage of the Watson-Parker bill for amicable settlements of disputes between the railroads and their employees; measures for the expansion of the army and navy air services; and the rivers and harbors and public buildings authorization bills.

Other general legislation of importance which gained approval included that for radio control, for branch banking, for World War and other veterans and development of the public domain.

LOST IN SENATE

While hundreds of bills and resolutions died with confusion of the session, several had progressed to the point of maturity only to be nipped in the Senate blight.

Two public-bpiuldings measures required only Senate action. One would have provided more than $19,000,000 to carry out the first year's construction program. Another would have authorized an additional $100,000,000 of public buildings construction throughout the country. It also provided $25,000,000 for purchase of land in the capital.

Likewise, many a carefully-planned investigation went by the board as their sponsors waited patiently an opportunity to obtain the Senate's sanction.

Senator Borah's proposed inquiry into Latin-American affairs never was brought to a vote. A demand by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, for an investigation into the financing of public utilities received no attention. Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, failed to get approval for his proposed economic investigation. The proposed Federal patronage inquiry only reached the Senate calendar.

DRY PLAN BLOCKED

After months of fighting over farm relief the Senate didn't vote on whether to override the veto by President Coolidge on the McNary-Haugen bill. Several attempts to get action today were blocked by the closing ja mof last-minute orators.

Among the bills which got as far as the Senate's waiting list was the administration's carefully worked-out plan for settlement of German-American war claims and return of alien property. The request of Assistant Secretary Andrews, prohibition chief, for authorization to start replenishment of the medicinal liquor supply gained House approval but was lost in the Senate confusion.

Those who refused to answer the inquiries of the Senate's special Campaign Funds Committee escaped the threat of Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, to be charged with contempt as the Senate failed to reach his contempt motion.

Several old-time bills were trotted out for another trial during the session only to be returned to the stables for grooming and another test next time. These included measures to dispose of the Muscle Shoals (Ala.) property and the proposal to construct a dam at Boulder Canyon on the Colorado River. The latter died under the fire of the first Senate filibuster of the session.

RIDDLE OF NOTE STILL UNSOLVED

other motive was untrue and unwarranted.

Discussing the matter with a correspondent for the Associated Press, a high official of the Foreign Office said:

"The relations between Mexico and the United States are unchanged. The note about which such a mystery is being made does not alter the situation. It created no new crisis. We are very, very far from the breaking of relations. We are not surprised that the Department of State has denied that Ambassador Tellez's recall has been requested. Of course the Department of State denies reports that are completely untrue.

"The Foreign Office cannot reveal the contents of the note because it is within the proprieties that only the United States government, which sent the note, can publish it.

"The mystery of the matter, coupled with the coincidence that Ambassador Telles simultaneously happened to have a sick brother in Mexico City requiring his presence at home, has caused some journalists to proclaim a crisis, a threatened rupture of relations and to assert that Tellez's recall has been made. Let them justify their assertions. The Foreign Office says that they are unfounded.

"The facts, and the full facts, concerning Ambassador Tellez's visit to Mexico City are these: Telles received a telegram that his brother was very ill in Mexico City. He requested and was given a leave of absence to visit his sick brother. He started on the journey and near St. Louis received a telegram that his brother was better, whereupon he returned to Washington, where he later received another telegram saying that his brother had suffered a relapse. Accordingly, he has started to Mexico City again and is now en route.

"Will Ambassador Telles see Mexican government officials? Of course he will. We are not so impolite as to refuse to see our Washington Ambassador while he is visiting Mexico City. Doubtless he will see President Calles and other high officials, and it is reasonable to assume that the relations between the two countries will be discussed. It would be very strange if they were not. Nevertheless, I must repeat that it is difficult to conceive that the illness of Ambassador Tellez's brother should be a matter of gravity in the relations between the Mexican and United States governments."

American forces, numbering about 2000, who are now confined to ships in Shanghai harbor. Mr. Fessenden thinks that American marines ought to land immediately and occupy barracks, the same as the British soldiers.

Others disagree with Mr. Fessenden, believing that the 40,000 foreigners in Shanghai are not in immediate danger. Sufficient forces, they point out, already are available at Shanghai to suppress possible riots and the Cantonese are thoroughly overawed by the British demonstrations, which are making them reluctant to foment riots, as was done at Hankow.

Conservative American residents in China feel that Washington has assumed a wise policy in remaining neutral, while it has sufficient forces within reach to protect American lives.

But Mr. Fessenden, presiding over the Municipal Council, the majority of the members of which are British, has publicly announced that it is the duty of America to assume an equal responsibility with Great Britain. Mr. Gauss opposes Mr. Fessenden's suggestion and is advising the State Department that the Cantonese drive toward Shanghai is not sufficiently grave to warrant the United States in expending millions merely on precautionary measures. Admiral Williams, commander of the American Asiatic fleet, who remains aboard the flagship Pittsburgh, is informing the Navy Department daily concerning the progress of events. Impounding of Boxes in Pennsylvania Under Attack by Vare

Winners at Polls Get on Pay Roll With Report Papers Are Correct

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—Ignoring the failure of the Senate to vote on a resolution continuing its life during the recess of Congress, the Reed Campaign Funds Investigating Committee went ahead late today by ordering the impounding of the ballots in four additional counties in Pennsylvania.

Its order to the sergeant-at-arms of the Senate to take possession of boxes in Delaware, Lackawanna, Luzerne and Schuylkill counties was by unanimous vote of both Republican and Democratic members and was entered after formal notice had been filed with the Senate that William B. Wilson, the Democratic candidate, contested the election of William S. Vare, Republican.

How much further the committee will carry on its activities during the recess period was left to future determination, but Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, its chairman, holds the view that the committee has full authority to act in the Pennsylvania election-contest case under a resolution adopted by the Senate last January.

VARE AT VARIANCE

Vare has written the committee indicating an entirely opposite view and calling attention that the resolution, approved after the notice of contest by Wilson had been filed with the Senate, directed the committee to obtain ballot boxes for their preservation.

Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, who waged the successful filibuster against the resolution to continue the campaign committee, said after adjournment of Congress that the committee "clearly does not have the power to open the ballot boxes in Pennsylvania."

While the fight over the resolution to continue the committee was in progress in the Senate, Vare and Frank L. Smith of Illinois, whose primary campaign expenditures also have been under scrutiny, got on the Senate pay roll with the formal filing with the Senate of a report from the Elections Committee that their credentials were in proper form.

SEATING NOT CONSIDERED

While counsel for Smith advised him that this action gave him a seat, Senator Caraway of Arkansas, a Democrat on the Elections Committee, told the Senate that the question of seating Smith had not been considered during the examination of the credentials.

The Senator said he presumed that everyone would concur in the proposition that the seating of both Smith and Vare was a question for the Seventieth and not the Sixty-ninth Congress, and none of the Senator's present voiced disagreement with that view.

No contest against Smith has been filed by any of his opponents, and since his case as Senator-elect was referred to the Elections Committee after an investigation, which never was completed, there was no indication that the Reed committee would undertake to go into it, at least before the next Congress assembles.

Chairman Reed said after the meeting late today that the committee had taken no action with reference to any question except the impounding of the ballots in the four additional counties in the Keystone State.

This statement was in reply to inquiries whether the committee would investigate the last Senatorial election in Colorado as was suggested in the Senate during the filibuster against the measure continuing the inquisitorial body.

REVEALS LETTERS

After the session today, Chairman Reed made public correspondence which he had last Wednesday with Vare and counsel for Wilson at the time the filibuster in the Senate was getting under way. His asked whether either of the candidates desired to have boxes from any counties in Pennsylvania other than those in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh brought to Washington.

Vare replied that the resolution offered by the Democratic leader, Robinson of Arkansas, at the time he gave notice of the Wilson contest, "authorized your committee to secure ballot boxes merely for their preservation, so that they would be available in the event of a contest."

"I call your attention to the specific language of the resolution, which specifically provides that the committee be empowered to take and preserve all evidence, etc.," he added.

"I do not know whether your committee has the right to open the ballot boxes, nor do I know that it is within my province either to authorize such opening nor my privilege to agree or object to their opening. "I shall take up the matter immediately with my associates and advise you as soon as possible."

COUNT ASSAILED

Upon adjournment of the committee session, Senator Reed wrote Vare again asking if he desired the committee to impound ballots in any counties in Pennsylvania other than those from which the boxes already had been moved to Washington.

In the formal notice of contest filed with the Senate today by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Wilson asserted that there had been a failure to count many of the ballots cast for him and that a fair count would show that he had been elected.

Action on the contempt proceedings recommended by the Reed committee against Samuel Insull, Chicago public utilities operator, and other recalcitrant witnesses in the Illinois and Pennsylvania primary investigations will be sought at the next session of the Senate.

Chairman Reed had planned to have the Senate refer their cases to the Federal attorney for the District of Columbia, but deferred doing so because of the failure to act on the resolution to continue the life of his committee. He takes the position that the status of the contempt cases would not be changed by reason of the expiration of the Sixty-ninth Congress.

Washington University Senior Found in Strange Home Enters Plea of Lost Memory

ST. LOUIS, March 4. (AP)—Henry Edward Threlkeld, 23-year-old Washington University star athlete, was ordered taken to the City Hospital for medical examination when he pleaded temporary lapse of memory in overstudy after his arrest early today in the basement of a South Side home. He was held on a first degree burglary charge.

Threlkeld said he was working his way through school, and did not have much money, but he had "no reason to steal anything or break into anybody's home."

"I think the trouble is that I have been studying and working outside of school hours so much that it got me," he related. "I felt dizzy several times in the last couple of months."

EVOLUTION BILL NEAR COLLAPSE

Assembly Committee in All Probability Will Kill it at Hearing Soon

SACRAMENTO, March 4. (AP)—The death rattle of the Heisinger evolution bill was heard in an Assembly Committee on Education meeting today.

William Byrne of Los Angeles, chairman of the committee when setting the 15th inst., the date for the hearing, said: "I don't believe we should allow much time to this matter, because I believe there will only be one vote cast to pass the bill out of committee.

Other members of the committee concurred with Byrne that forty minutes should be given to hearing, twenty minutes to each side.

Heisinger after the meeting stated that it will be impossible to present his side of the case in that time allotted and, inasmuch as he has arranged for several speakers to be present, he will fight for his rights to have an ample hearing on his bill.

He declared that his opponents also had requested that the matter have a thorough airing.

"A committee shouldn't make up its mind until it has given a question fair consideration," Heisinger said.

Assemblyman Melville told members of the committee that he is opposed to a theater crowd hearing the discussion on evolution; that if it is given rope the Legislature will be ridiculed by persons all over the country.

SUFFRAGIST CITES BAN ON SHIRKING

English Husbands Expect Wives to be Mothers and Home-makers as Well

BALTIMORE (Md.) March 4. (Exclusive)—"The Englishman will not tolerate the shirking on the part of his wife that the American woman does for," Mrs. Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale, British suffragist, today told the girl student body of Goucher College. She was speaking on "What Price Woman's Freedom."

"Englishmen expect their wives to be home-makers and mothers—that is, to be real wives. They do not excuse shirking in such matters," Mrs. Hale declared.

A decrease in the mystery and allurement which formerly attached to women was cited by the speaker as another price of freedom.

"When our mothers, who were not so free as we are today, wore long skirts, the feminine ankle was an entrancing thing. Who looks at the ankle today?

"The fact is that mystery is essential to romance and when a man and wife are comrades there is no mystery," Mrs. Hale asserted.

"In this age of mobility, when activities is sought in locomotion rather than in family prayers, freedom is not enough. It must be wedded to self-control. Too often freedom for women merely means selfishness."

And the American flappers think might as well wear a Scotchman's kilts, as the little skirts they now have over the legs, said Mrs. Hale.

CRIME CODE AID URGED

People Asked to Back Revision

Backers of Tuller Measures in Legislative Appeal for Indorsements

Apathy Feared as New Spur to Determined Opponents of Needed Reform

BY C. A. JONES
"Times" Staff Correspondent

SACRAMENTO, March 4. (Exclusive)—Proponents of the Tuller measures to modernize the criminal procedure of California courts and to speed up the disposition of criminal cases today broadcast an appeal to the people of the State interested in the success of the program to write and telegraph their representatives urging early and favorable consideration.

The criminal procedure revision program is well launched on its perilous course through the California Legislature following a public hearing last night in the Senate chamber when Maj. Walter K. Tuller of Los Angeles, chairman of the commission for the reform of criminal procedure, presented his report and its companion measures to both Senate and Assembly committees. The Legislature has before it sixty-five bills and six constitutional amendments on the subject.

FOES WAITING

The expected opposition did not manifest itself last night and the proposed public hearing tonight was canceled. The fact that no speakers were present to answer Maj. Tuller's arguments, however, does not mean that the bills will have smooth sailing as a vigorous, determined lobby, financed by the interests rabidly opposed to any simplification or tightening of the archaic criminal laws of the State, already has made itself evident.

"It appears to me," said one old legislator who has gone through numerous sessions, "that the ordinary folks in California are strongly in favor of these bills. They make up about 95 per cent of the population; but they don't get all excited over proposed laws and jump all over their representatives and demand action. They believe the Senators and Assemblymen are perfectly capable of making up their own minds.

"The legislators are honest in trying to pass the laws their people want. But if the folks at home don't let them know their attitude, and if the legislators hear only the continual buzz and chatter of the lobbyists fighting the bills, why then they get the idea that the Tuller bills must have something wrong with them.

"As Maj. Tuller says, there must be something the matter when the city banks have to ship their money about the streets in an armored car that looks like a tank with a gang of men sitting in it with sawed-off shotguns."

HEARING SOUGHT

As the six constitutional amendments proposed by the commission are linked closely with the bills, it was proposed today by Senator Baker, chairman of the Senate Crime Revision Committee, to hold a joint hearing Tuesday night of his committee and the Constitutional Amendments Committee so the program might proceed evenly through the upper house. Senator Allen of Los Angeles is chairman of the Constitutional Amendments Committee.

Maj. Tuller said today that he will be present at the hearing to explain all the objects of the measures and to answer any question the legislators desire to propound.

It is feared in some quarters that a policy of delay will be adopted by the opponents of the bills, working through Assemblyman Hornblower of San Francisco, chairman of the lower house committee and the chief antagonist of the program. As companion bills were introduced in both houses, it will be possible for the Assembly committee to retard the whole plan by a systematized scheme of procrastination. This method will be particularly dangerous to the success of the revision program, as the Legislature has made surprisingly swift progress during the eight working days of the second half of the session, and early adjournment therefore is in prospect.

At the present time it appears that the only major feature of legislation which will delay adjournment is the revision program. Already April 8 is being discussed as a possible date for adjournment. This is two weeks earlier than adjournment in 1925 and more than a month earlier than adjournment in 1923, when the Legislature dragged its weary way long into May.

CURB VOTED ON DIPLOMA MILLS

State Senate Passes Bills to Prevent Fakes

Bovine Tubercular Test Measure Adopted

Heavy Grist of Proposed Laws Advanced

SACRAMENTO, March 4. (AP)—Fake diploma mills, medical and intellectual, and tubercular cows were bombarded by the Legislature today before the law-makers adjourned over the week-end. The Senate passed two bills, one to eliminate diploma mills and one to eliminate colleges and seminaries of learning created without any capitalization merely for the purpose of providing degrees for a consideration without proper matriculation, and the other to eliminate fake medical diploma mills.

Likewise the Senate passed and sent to the Assembly the measure of Senator Boggs of Stockton to provide a stringent bovine tuberculosis law that will place the same restrictions and regulation over tubercular cattle in California as in force in other cattle-producing States.

Sixteen bills went through the Senate to the Assembly, in addition to four urgent deficiency bills originating in the Assembly being sent to the Governor by the upper house. Among the bills passed were the following:

MEASURES PASSED

Taylor bill, providing for erection of permanent county fair buildings by boards of supervisors.

Ingram bill, fixing salary of probation officer of Sierra county at $35 per month.

Christian bill, providing court may issue alias writ upon loss of writ of attachment.

Two H. C. Jones bills, bringing reclamation districts within the laws relating to collection of property taxes and issuance of duplicate bonds, etc.

Crowley bill, providing that the State Board of Medical Examiners shall publish notice of meetings at San Francisco, Sacramento and Los Angeles and reducing the medical license fee from $3 to $1.

Ingram bill to create fire hazard areas by petition of 60 per cent of owners of areas not less than 25,000 acres and authorizing the State Forester to provide regulations for such areas.

Crowley bill, to authorize the State Board of Medical Examiners to reorganize certificates of examination by the national board.

Baker bill, raising salary of horticultural commissioner of Monterey county, $2000 to $3000; deputy, $1800 to $2000, and providing for five inspectors.

Johnson bill providing for continuance of joint highway districts for certain purpose after the highways are taken into the State system.

MAJOR ISSUE HEAD

Major issues of departmental reorganization, resumption of highway construction and the budget are all expected to be ready for action some time next week and the commencement of these measures through the houses will release a large flood of measures, which have been held up contingent upon passage of these matters.

Senate consideration of the State highway construction plan in the form of the Breed 1-cent increased gasoline tax, and the classification of highways, was delayed today at the request of Senator Breed of Oakland. He announced that it was desired to hold these measures on the third reading file of the Senate until the budget bill is passed. This was upon recommendation of the Attorney-General to conform to a legislative policy.

The departmental reorganization bills will go through first, then the budget bill and this will be followed by the gas tax highways bills.

Public hearing on the reorganization measures will be held next Tuesday afternoon by the committees of the Senate and Assembly to which the measures have been sent for consideration.

PROHIBITION AID

The question of putting new teeth in the prohibition law was advanced to the stage of readiness for action today. It is in the shape of a bill proposed by Senator Jones of San Jose to make the unlawful possession, ownership or operation of a still a felony.

The bill is on the second reading file of the Senate and Senator Jones expects to have it acted upon by the early part of next week, possibly by the middle of the week.

Under the Volstead and Wright acts, the unlawful possession and operation of a still is merely a misdemeanor. The Jones bill in making it a felony provides for imposing a fine of $1000 to $5000 in addition to a prison sentence of from one to five years.

Establishment and maintenance of public airports would be permitted under a bill by Senator Lyon of Los Angeles which was approved today by the Senate Committee on County Government. The measure would make it permissible for Boards of Supervisors to establish public airports by purchase, lease or gift of land.

VETERAN BILL

Veteran soldiers would be given peddling licenses under two measures also approved by the committee. These measures by Senator Inman would strike from the present law the provision which makes disability of the veteran necessary to obtain the license.

After an hour of debate, the Assembly passed a measure that would allow an executor, administrator or guardian to execute a deed of trust. In answer to arguments that such a bill would give an executor too much latitude, proponents of the measure declared that it merely placed him on the same basis as an individual in transacting business for the estate. The bill passed by a 53-to-16 vote.

DAMROSCH TAKES RAP AT PITTSBURGH

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—If Walter Damrosch could hear a Sunday afternoon symphony concert in Pittsburgh it would make him forget "the disagreeable by-products of the sources of Pittsburgh's wealth." He has spent many a Sunday afternoon there and found the city "dull, dirty and listless." The conductor of the New York Symphony Orchestra wrote his views to the Pittsburgh symphony because protests by ministers caused cancellation of Sunday concerts.

BIGAMIST BOASTS EXPLOITS

Bay City Don Juan, Confessing Fourteen Marriages, Hints He's Genuine Heart-Breaker

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4. (Exclusive)—Calmly but visibly alive to the attention he attracted yesterday by confessing at least nine marriages in various parts of the country to women whom he discarded as rapidly as he had obtained their pecuniary wealth, John W. Kearny, bigamist, burglar and safe cracker, gloried today in the reflection of himself on a figurative Don Juan pedestal as he told reporters and detectives how he did it.

He prefaced his remarks with the observation that he had been a bit conservative yesterday, when he named nine as the number of unsuspecting women who had fallen prey to his "system," and said the number should have been fourteen. He declined to give the names of the new ones.

CONFESSES KILLING

As if to impress his hearers with the thought that he really is a "bad guy," Kearny deprecatingly admitted that it was he and not Willard Shannon, ex-convict and jailed murder suspect, who killed Harold Lage, former Stockton automobile sales manager, whose mysterious disappearance and slaying attracted the attention of the entire West several weeks ago. The "confession," however, did not carry much weight with those familiar with the Lage case and later, when confronted with several discrepancies between his story and known facts, Kearny hastily repudiated the "confession."

"I am not immoral," Kearny said, fixing most of his attention on a girl reporter, "merely unmoral." The young woman looked at the ungainly, unkempt speaker and shuddered. Kearny smiled and continued:

"I don't drink, smoke very little and attend church affairs, conducting myself like a model man. I go to a church social or a whist party. 'sheiks' overlook them, thereby missing a rich field of available women. When I see one I like, I obtain an introduction and dance with her. I'm a good dancer. From then on its just a matter of small but steady attentions and considerations."

MARRIED FOURTEEN

Kearny modestly admitted he never actually proposed to a woman, although he married fourteen. Some of his former wives have since remarried and have families in various parts of the country.

He just marries the women who fall in love with him, Kearny observed.

Asked what he would do if he ever got out of jail again, he replied:

SEASICK BRIDE FAVORED COURTSHIP

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4. (AP)—Police Detective Sergeant Tateham today revealed details of how John W. Kearney, confessed bigamist, and ex-convict, wooed and won Florence Torgenson, 26 years of age, of Woodland, Wash., and how she, the most recent of the numerous wives he has listed for the authorities here, eventually learned that her husband was well on the way to the world's husband championship. Kearney is in jail here on a burglary charge.

When Kearney met Miss Torgenson he was on his honeymoon with Rose Lee, 44, whom he had married in Vancouver, Wash. November 22, 1926, after a whirlwind courtship. He had escaped from a sheriff in Utah while awaiting sentence on a burglary charge in October, 1926.

Kearney told police that Rose Lee had considerable money. Her liberality was proved by their spending $1000 of what police described as the bride's money on the honeymoon trip, during which Kearney was courting Florence Torgenson.

Miss Torgenson, once married and divorced at the time, was en route south to dispose of a carload of Christmas trees for her father, a produce merchant at Woodland. She met Kearney while they were fellow-passengers on the steamer.

BRIDE WAS SEASICK

Kearney spoke to Miss Torgenson regarding his bride, but instead of saying she was his wife, he depicted her as a maiden aunt. The bride was seasick, and although the bridegroom devoted time to her to impress Miss Torgenson with his kindness to his elderly relative, he still found time to woo his new flame with ardor.

By the time the boat reached Los Angeles, Kearney and Miss Torgenson were on excellent terms. In Los Angeles Kearney told both women that he had a great deal of business to transact. He represented himself as a bond dealer, and declared that he had large sums owing him which he wanted to collect.

The business made a good excuse for leaving the bride alone in the daytime. Then he continued wooing Miss Torgenson. At night he visited the bride, describing the trouble he was having to collect the bills.

Police said Kearney deserted Rose Lee at Los Angeles, telling Miss Torgenson his aunt had returned home. They were married at Long Beach last New Year's Eve.

Kearney and his bride came to San Francisco for their honeymoon. The bride was known at a local department store because she had sold a wholesale quantity of Christmas trees there, and the bridegroom induced her to introduce him so that he could get some checks cashed. They cashed four $50 checks, and then Kearney sent his bride home to her father, telling her he would follow when his business permitted.

The bride presently received a letter from the store where the checks had been cashed, announcing that the checks were worthless. Then she received another letter from Kearney, confiding to her that he was in jail, "on a most ridiculous charge," and would she please hurry to his aid.

Miss Torgenson came to San Francisco, but instead of calling on her husband at the City Jail she visited detective headquarters.

SIXTH BABY SUCCUMBS IN BLUNDER

CHICAGO, March 4. (AP)—The sixth of ten babies accidentally administered boric acid instead of sterile water died today while the Coroner continued to try to fix responsibility.

The bodies of four of the infants, which had been interred without post-mortem examinations, were exhumed and a necropsy was ordered in the case of the sixth baby today, with an inquest into its death tomorrow. One other baby is near death, but the condition of the others gives no cause for alarm.

At today's session of the Coroner's inquest it developed that the chart of Baby Galita's last hours was not the original, but one that had been prepared when it became known that for the first time in many months an original chart had been lost.

Through testimony of Miss Irene Schwartz, student nurse in the Columbus Memorial Hospital, who mixed and boiled the fatal solution of boric acid, it was brought out that the original chart was made out by Miss Margaret Cuff, the nurse who poured the acid solution into a container used for drinking water.

Miss Schwartz also testified that the bottle had been emptied of the solution when its nature became known, refilled with sterile water and labeled.

All the babies ranged from one to two weeks in age.

Dr. Martin H. Ritter of the executive committee of the hospital told the Coroner's jury that steps to prevent such a mistake again had been taken, and that publication of the report in medical journals would stimulate hospitals throughout the country to take similar precautions.

COURT SURVEY FINDINGS FILED

Judicial Council Reports on State Conditions

Los Angeles Leads in Civil and Criminal Cases

County Credited With Nearly Half of Divorce Suits

SACRAMENTO, March 4. (AP)—The first report of the Judicial Council, which must be submitted to Gov. Young and the Legislature under the amendment creating the council and approved by the voters last November, went to the State Printer today.

The document is expected to be off the presses within the next few days and will be presented formally to Gov. Young and the Legislature when the council meets here the 14th and 15th inst.

Chief Justice Waste of the State Supreme Court, chairman of the council, with Grant Taylor, clerk of the court, conferred with the Governor before sending the document to the printer.

CRIMINAL CASES FILED

The report will show that during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, there were 7200 informations and indictments filed in criminal cases in the various counties, of which 2516 were recorded in Los Angeles, 778 in San Francisco, 434 in Alameda county, 412 in San Diego county and 408 in Sacramento county. These five counties made up two-thirds of this phase of the courts' work.

Approximately the same ratio was maintained in the 59,800 civil actions, probate and guardianship matters, but in divorce suits, Los Angeles county filed nearly half the total. In the civil filings Los Angeles recorded 27,803 cases, San Francisco 7177, Alameda 4213, San Diego 2141 and Sacramento 1382. The probate and guardianship total was 21,000, the juvenile cases, half of which were in Los Angeles, 11,797, and divorces 21,300. Los Angeles' total in these was 9160, San Francisco 4197 and Alameda 3043.

In the Superior Courts as of December 31 there were 1500 criminal and 42,900 civil actions awaiting trial, while in the three branches of the Appellate Court and the Supreme Court there were 2000 appeals awaiting settlement.

STATISTICS SHOWN

The report will show the following statistics:

A survey of the judicial business of the State by counties, together with a complete tabulation of the business passing through the courts, particularly the trial branches, during the fiscal year of 1925-26 and the first half of the present year as a means of determining how much time the judges of the smaller counties can spend in assisting in clearing the calendars of the larger tribunals.

A compilation of the number of filings by counties and a resume of the time required to prepare the cases for trial and the time spent in disposing of them after they are ready for hearing, which has been found to average from two to fourteen months.

A group of the counties to facilitate the assignment of judges in such a manner that there will always be a sufficient number in the district to transact all business expeditiously.

A resume of the assignments made by Judge Waste since the Council was created, which number 155 in all.

GERMAN CABLE LINK RESTORED

Coolidge and Hindenburg Exchange Greetings

System Now Operating Sets Transmission Record

Service Interrupted Since Start of World War

EMDEN (Germany) March 4. (AP)—Direct cable communication between Germany and the United States was restored today after being interrupted since the Allies cut the direct cable at the outbreak of the World War.

The new Emden-Azores cable, connecting with the Azores-New York lines, was opened this afternoon. Messages of congratulation were exchanged by President Coolidge and President Von Hindenburg, and by General Managers Kent Cooper of the Associated Press and Dr. Heinrich Mantler of the Wolff Bureau of Berlin. The exchange of messages between President Coolidge and Von Hindenburg was completed in eleven minutes, it was stated at telegraph headquarters.

TWO SIMULTANEOUS MESSAGE CAPACITY

BERLIN, March 4. (AP) — The Emden-Azores cable, which was opened today by an interchange of messages between President Von Hindenburg and President Coolidge, connects the United States and Germany by what is asserted to be the latest cable system yet devised. The experiments which followed the laying of the last stretch on October 2, 1926, have shown that it is easily possible to transmit 1500 letters per minute.

This fact in itself would be of little practical value, as no operator can work so fast, were it not supplemented by the further fact that the Emden-Azores-New York cable will permit the sending of five simultaneous messages. This is a new record. Cables like that connecting the United States with the Orient are duplex cables—that is, one cable message can be sent in one direction while a second message is going in the opposite direction.

EXECUTIVES CITE HOPE FOR GOOD WILL

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—Reciprocal greetings and wishes for better understanding and good will between the United States and Germany were expressed by President Coolidge and President Von Hindenburg of Germany in opening communication today across the new cable between Germany and the United States.

President Coolidge's message said:

"It gives me great pleasure to take advantage of the occasion of the opening of direct cable communication between the United States and Germany to send to Your Excellency my cordial greetings and to express hope that this additional means of communication will promote mutual understanding and good will between the two countries."

President Von Hindenburg said:

"I welcome with satisfaction the re-establishment of the direct cable connection between Germany and the United States, and it affords me special pleasure to express to you, Mr. President, and to the American people, my sincerest greetings on the occasion of the opening of the new Emden-Azores-New York cable. It is my confident hope that this new telegraphic communication, which has been built jointly by American and German companies, will always contribute to, promote and maintain the good understanding between our countries and their economic interest."

SLAUGHTER OF DOGS ON IN QUEBEC

Canines Running Loose Being Killed at Rate of Sixty a Day

MONTREAL (Que.) March 4. (Exclusive)—Dogs are being destroyed in this city at the rate of more than sixty a day in an effort to bring an end to the prevalence of rabies, a condition on the Island of Montreal existing now for more than a year.

Twelve Federal officers, equipped with four automobiles, began an intensified campaign Monday, in conjunction with city police, to free the streets of all dogs without the prescribed muzzle or leash. By noon yesterday a total of 220 dogs had been destroyed. A staggering total for the month is predicted. Last month 561 dogs were destroyed.

Agitation was started by the Anti-vivisection League of Canada and the League of Justice to Animals when it was reported that city policemen received instructions to take a percentage of the dogs caught to McGill University.

Dr. C. F. Martin, dean of the medical faculty at McGill, said:

OTTAWA, March 4. (Exclusive)—With an amendment which will include widows who were British subjects prior to marriage, Canada's proposed old-age pension bill was given final approval in the Commons today and sent on to the Senate for ratification.

No date for the whipping was set.

LORD PICKS OUT OWN FLEAS

Leaping Freckles Keep Him Busy as Hobby and He Buys Them on the Hoof and Does Own Chloroforming; Gainford Relaxes With Embroidery Work

WONDER HOW IT FEELS TO BE AN ARISTOCRATIC FLEA!

WILL THE FLEAS FLEE WHEN THE NEWS IS SPREAD AROUND?

LONDON, March 4. (AP)—Flea collecting is among the queer hobbies of some of London's notables.

The fad had its inception years ago, one of the most enthusiastic of collectors being the late Baron Rothschild, who, at his death, left a priceless collection from many parts of the world, which is now on view in the British Museum.

Among prominent persons to take up this hobby of late is the Hon. Ivor Montagu, son of Lord Swaythling. In this eccentric relaxation the Hon. Montagu goes Baron Rothschild one better, as the banker collected only dried-up fleas, but he buys them dead or alive, and chloroforms the live ones himself.

Prince Arthur of Connaught is fond of visiting showrooms of the modiste's. Whenever Princess Arthur buys a new gown, the Prince always accompanies her, taking much interest in all the models his wife inspects and purchases.

An odd hobby is that of Lord Gainford who finds relaxation in crewel-work. He always carries a piece of embroidery to pick up in a train on his many journeys between London and the north of England.

Ernest Thesiger, cousin of Viscount Chelmsford, too, does a pretty piece of needlework in his odd moments, and his tapestries are the admiration of all his friends.

MICE TESTS GIVE DATA ON CANCER

Experiments Declared to Prove Conclusively That Disease May be Inherited

CHICAGO, March 4. (Exclusive)—Elaborate experiments with mice—80,000 of them—over a period of eighteen years, have convinced experts at the University of Chicago that susceptibility to cancer is definitely inherited. Dr. Maude Slye, assistant professor of pathology, who has studied 5000 cancerous mice, is considered an authority on this subject. She has between 12,000 and 15,000 mice in her laboratory all the time. Her business is to keep them alive as long as possible, because, as in man, cancer does not develop in them until middle or later life. She finds their span of life runs from six months to many years.

"In the case of cancer," says Dr. Slye, "the occurrence of this disease is the same as in man. The kinds of cancerous growths are the same, they occur at corresponding periods of life and bring about death in the same way.

"Whenever, in my laboratories, two cancerous mice have been mated, it has been possible to obtain 100 per cent cancer families, except for those mice that die in infancy. Occasionally one of these diseased strains will develop a cancer when only two weeks old, although six months is an early age for mice to develop cancer. This corresponds to about the age of 32 in man, which is an early cancer age in humans.

"Where cancerous and noncancerous mice have been mated the disease has proved itself to be uniformly inheritable. The type of cancer and its location in the system where it is likely to appear, also have been proved inheritable."

Joint Committee on State Water Presents Report

SACRAMENTO, March 4. (AP)—The joint legislative committee appointed in January to investigate into water resources of the State and water laws presented its report to both houses of the Legislature today. The necessary legislation to carry out its recommendations is being formulated in the Legislative Counsel Bureau.

The recommendations of the committee included creation of a State Water Judicial Commission, creation of a permanent joint committee to investigate the water laws for the next two years and report to the Legislature in 1929, and that the State proceed to file on or withdraw from filing by private parties water rights to be utilized or required under the general co-ordinated plans for State-wide water conservation projected by State Engineer Bailey.

Headsman Now Fights in Court to Save His Own

PARIS, March 4. (Exclusive)—The former official executioner of the Czar's army, an Armenian named Dikran Menohikian, 42 years of age, will appear in the Assize Court at Grenoble, France, tomorrow, to try to save his own head for decapitating his wife, Satony Kehwedjian, 23, last November.

The Armenian has been a shoemaker since the Red revolution forced him to flee from Russia, and married an Armenian girl in Marseilles in 1923.

Last November, Menohikian, in a furious fit of jealousy, beheaded his wife with a hatchet and then threw the head out the window among a group of neighbors who had been listening to the fracas. The Czar's former headsman then tried to kill his stepdaughter and hang himself, but the police arrested him.

HUNT WINS IN WINSOR BILLS VETO

Aides in Senate Save Governor's Face During Fight Over Measure

PHOENIX, March 4. (Exclusive)—With the assistance of an administration band of seven in the Senate Gov. Hunt again has scored against the legislative majority. He was sustained in his veto on two of the Winsor purity of elections bills, which prohibited political assessments on State, county or city employees and which demanded publicity for the receipts and disbursements of clubs and organizations that may support candidates. The veto would have been overridden had not Hunt received the support of Senator Akers of Maricopa. The Governor's action was not unexpected for the Winsor bills were understood to be the basis for an attempt to prevent further executive control of primary and general elections, possibly with State-paid employees and funds by them contributed.

With declaration that legislators are entitled to at least as much pay as a bricklayer, especially in view of the high cost of living at the capital, the House today voted an increase in salary from $7 to $15 a day. There was suggestion that a better class of legislators might be attracted by better compensation.

With only five working days ahead, the House this afternoon started consideration of the general appropriation bill with assurance that the Governor will veto a number of items that have been pared down from his estimates and with prospect of much debate on the subjects of highways and National Guard. Statement was made by the Adjutant-General that the lack of consideration given the guard already had caused threat of resignation of many officers.

Murder Quiz in Princess' Death Four Years Ago

WARSAW, March 4. (AP)—A sensation was caused today when the body of Princes Marie Lubomirski, who died four years ago, was taken from the catacombs of the Holy Cross Church for an autopsy in an attempt to determine the truth of persistent rumors that she was poisoned by some one interested in gaining control of her property.

The Princess, one of the richest heiresses in Poland, was a sister of Prince Lubomirski, who is regarded by the monarchists as pretender to the Polish throne.

Run Started by 18,000 for Rich Diamond Field

POTCHEFSTROOM (Transvaal) March 4. (AP)—Eighteen thousand runners engaged in a diamond rush to the Grasfontein farm today.

The race was on promptly at noon with the falling of the flag signifying that the reportedly rich area again was proclaimed public diggings after last week's false start. There was tremendous public interest in the event.

Everything passed off without a hitch. One runner was offered $5000 by a syndicate, but refused to sell his chances.

WORD HALTS ADDRESS

Use of "Lie" in Title of Meeting Causes Cancellation

BERLIN March 4. (AP)—The word "lie" prompted Prof. James T. Shotwell of Columbia University, New York, to refrain from makin a promised speech at a meeting in the Reichstag Building last night.

He accepted the invitation to address the gathering, arranged by the working committee of the League of German Societies, in the belief that Germany's foreign policy as regards the World War was to be the general subject, but when he learned that other speakers were to talk on the "war guilt lie," he felt he was justified in seeking release from his promise.

RUM-SHIP CASE TO GRAND JURY

Federal Body Will Review Federalship Capture

Canadian Ownership Shown by Attorney's Threat

Panama Disinclined to Lend Aid to Smuggler

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4. (Exclusive)—A special session of the Federal grand jury has been called for tomorrow morning to consider evidence against the asserted rum-runner Federalship, its captain and the nineteen members of its crew, shelled into submission 300 miles at sea last Tuesday morning with 12,500 cases of liquor valued at $1,000,000 or more in its hold. Much of the future action of the United States District Attorney and Federal prohibition officers will depend on the grand-jury action, it was said tonight.

In the meantime, C. S. Arnold, who announced himself as the attorney for the Canadian-Mexican Shipping Company, Ltd., of Vancouver, B. C., and declared the Federalship is the property of that company, appeared in the office of United States Marshal Escia and informed that official that the British government will be asked to protest to the United States against what he described as "the unlawful shelling and seizure" of the ship. The company which Arnold represents is a subsidiary of the Consolidated Exporters, Ltd., also of Vancouver, the great majority of whose officials already are under indictment in the United States for violation and conspiracy to violate the Eighteenth Amendment, according to government authorities.

Capt. S. Stone, master of the ship, was formally placed under arrest today on a warrant which has been pending against him since November 30, last, in connection with another smuggling case, which charges conspiracy to violate the prohibition and tariff acts of 1921.

Stone, obviously British, termed the seizure a "blasted outrage" and described the trailing of the revenue cutter Algonquin for four days and nights as so "positively annoying it was exasperating." He has been "seriously discommoded," he said and considers the entire affair "an abominable act of war, that's what."

Capt. Stone was voluble and frank in many respects. He readily answered a question about the ship's activities with the reply that he already has transferred 20,000 cases of liquor to Tahiti from Vancouver. The Federalship's papers on the present trip were made out to Buena Ventura, Colombia. Conspiracy complaints against the first and second mates also were filed this afternoon.

PANAMA INDICATES "HANDS OFF" POLICY

PANAMA, March 4. (AP)—Officials of the Panama government today declined to comment on the seizure off the Pacific Coast of the steamer Federalship, whose captain, now under arrest, has appealed for aid from the Panaman government, under which the Federalship was registered.

The Panaman officials said they were awaiting official information from the Panama Legation at Washington and added that a memorial from the ship's agents in Panama urging steps to obtain the ship's release had been received.

The Federalship was registered by the Panaman consulate at Vancouver on April 23, 1926, and the registration was confirmed by the Panaman government on August 25, 1926.

It was semiofficially stated that the operators of the Federalship previously had been warned that the registry would be canceled unless certain operations were ceased and that recently the Panaman consulate at Vancouver had refused to issue clearance papers in view of the cargo carried.

It also was said semiofficially that it was likely the seizure of the ship was beyond intervention by the government of Panama, under a law enacted in December, 1926, stipulating that all vessels under Panaman registry lose their rights when they traffic "habitually in contraband, illegal commerce and piracy."

Immigration Man Taken on Charge of Narcotic Plot

SEATTLE, March 4. (AP)—Edward W. Stetson, a United States immigration inspector here, was arrested late today on a San Francisco Federal grand jury indictment accusing him of conspiring with five Chinese to smuggle narcotics into this country.

Stetson protested innocence and declared he did not even know the persons named with him in the indictment. He was lodged in the County Jail in lieu of $15,000.

A preliminary hearing of the case against the accused officer will be held tomorrow afternoon before United States Commissioner H. S. Elliott.

ATHLETICS HELD BAD FOR WOMAN

Asserts Man Thrives With More Activity

Carnegie Institution Doctor Explains Findings

NEW YORK, March 4. (Exclusive)—The basic difference between male and female is that the male in all stages of life exidises his food and liberates energy at a higher rate than the female, Dr. Oscar Riddle of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, department of genetics, told members of the American institute in an address on "Sex Research."

Recent biological and chemical studies of sex indicate that avoidable increases in the metabolic rate may be the cause of increasing sterility of women and that man is not physically constituted for a quiet, restful life nor women for an active, overstimulated life, Dr. Riddle said.

"The metabolism of human beings, young or adult, is temporarily much influenced by such things as occupation, habits, diet and disease," he continued. "Long periods of increased metabolic rate in females, or of depressed metabolic rate in males, may therefore be expected to affect an one or another degree the sexuality of the individual. Extremes in athletic training of girls and women are from the standpoint of these discoveries indefensible and probably harmful."

The complete reversal of sex in frogs, doves and fowls has been obtained by experimental methods, according to Dr. Riddle, who said the surgical removal of the single left ovary of young chicks is followed by the growth of active testes spurs, comb and all the distinguishing marks of the male bird. A normal female fowl thus treated becomes a typical rooster when full grown. This sex reversal is accomp. nied by specific changes in the metabolism of the transformed fowl, he pointed out.

Experiments with the anterior pituitary body located at the base of the brain have demonstrated that the time of sexual maturity is not decided by a prescribed age, but by the appearance of a chemical substance prepared by this organ, Dr. Riddle said. The repeated implantation of this pituitary substance from adult mice into infantile mice caused the latter to commence to produce eggs while still in the infantile age.

Similar results have been obtained in experiments upon rats, he asserted. Dr. Riddle recently returned from Europe where he attended the first international congress for sex research at Berlin and inspected European laboratories devoted to the study of sex.

Only the best equipped laboratories in Europe and the United States are making the important discoveries in biochemical and biological science, he declared. In urging the need of great financial support for American research laboratories. American investigators on these lines are facing an emergency, he asserted, pointing out that the increasing complexity of research and cost of apparatus without a corresponding increase in funds has curtailed the number and quality of assistants and the amount of equipment available in the laboratories.

Pastor Honored With Check for Long Service

PHOENIX, March 4. (Exclusive)—Signal expression of esteem was given Rev. Bertrand R. Cocks on the occasion of his fiftieth birthday, in the twentieth year of his service as head of St. Luke's Home, an Episcopal sanatorium here, with branches at Tucson and Prescott. He was guest at a dinner at the Arizona Club with 265 townspeople participating, and was tendered a check for $2000, with suggestion that he and Mrs. Cocks take a vacation in Europe.

Dwight B. Heard was toastmaster and addresses were by Bishop Walter Mitchell, Archdeacon J. R. Jenkins, Mayor Frank A. Jefferson, E. S. Clark and Charles Adams of Los Angeles.

Resolutions of the board of trustees of St. Luke's declared: "The lives of both Rev. and Mrs. Cocks have been lives of service, of the kind that money cannot buy, because it has been a service of love for humanity."

His sons fought in the Spanish-American War and his grandsons and great-grandsons in the World War.

SUIT FOUGHT ON CUSTODY OF BARNETT

Federal Officials Join Battle to Prevent New Guardian for Indian

OKMULGEE (Okla.) March 4. (AP)—George Riley Hall, Henryetta publisher and poet, met with determined opposition from the Federal government and two other guardians when he asked the Okmulgee county court today to appoint him as guardian for Jackson Barnett, wealthy Indian.

R. B. Drake of the Interior Department and United States Probate Attorney Peter J. Deichman, appeared for the government. Mrs. Anna Laura Lowe Barnett, wife and personal guardian of Jackson Barnett, appeared with Leslie R. Hewitt, Los Angeles guardian of the Indian's property.

The opponents of Mr. Hall told County Judge Orland Swain that he has no jurisdiction over the Indian. They said the Creek county court, on February 28, appointed C. B. McCullum as guardian for Barnett, despite protests, and that under Oklahoma laws McCullum is guardian for everything Barnett has in Oklahoma.

Mrs. Barnett and Hewitt charged Mr. Hall with being in a conspiracy to keep the Barnett estate in litigation. They said litigation resulting from this conspiracy now is pending in New York, Washington, Kansas, California and Oklahoma.

FORMER ASSOCIATE OF MORSE SENTENCED

DR. H. P. JUDSON DIES SUDDENLY

Famous Educator Victim of Heart Disease

As President Emeritus of Chicago University

Funeral Services Will be Conducted Monday

CHICAGO, March 4. (AP)—Dr. Harry Pratt Judson, president emeritus of the University of Chicago, died suddenly of heart disease in his hotel apartment home here today.

He had been ill five days, but no one had been told. He was 72 years of age. Dr. Judson was president of the University of Chicago from 1907 until he retired in 1923. Mrs. Judson was with him at the time of his death. His daughter, Mrs. Gordon Stevenson, hurried from her home near Chicago but Mr. Judson was dead when she arrived.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday afternoon in Joseph Bond chapel of the University of Chicago, with Rev. Charles Gilkey, pastor of the Hyde Park Baptist Church in charge of the services. The university, in which Dr. Judson was born in Jamestown, N. Y., the son of Rev. and Mrs. Hezekiah P. Judson. He achieved his bachelor of arts degree at Williams college in 1870, and 1883 gained his master's degree. After his student days, Mr. Judson was awarded honorary degrees by many universities and colleges in the United States and Canada.

Dr. Judson came to the University of Chicago from the University of Minnesota, where he was professor of history. Next to his attainments as an educator, Dr. Judson was known as the author of many books on educational subjects. He was a director and active in the affairs of the Rockefeller Foundation, and had served as a member of several Federal government commissions.

Following his retirement as active head of the University of Chicago, Dr. Judson has remained in touch with university affairs and from time to time has been called in to advise upon determining policies of the institution.

ANTI-VASTY ACT PROVES COSTLY TO MAYORESS

Wyoming Town's Feminine Chief Executive Penalized for Raid on Dry Aide's Home

CODY (Wyo.) March 4. (AP)—Wyoming's only woman Mayor lost today in a $10,000 damage suit brought against her by an Indianapolis citizen who asserted illegal seizure of liquor.

The jury in District Court here was selected by Judge James E. Burgess to hear the plaintiff, Mrs. Ora Stevenson, and to fix the amount of money to be paid her by Mrs. Elizabeth Wiley, 46-year-old wife of Greybull, population, 1920.

Mrs. Wiley, who is serving her second term as mayor, testified, as did Sheriff Burgess, that she was attempting to make a raid on a "dry" den. She said she knew the place had been making frequent visits by Mrs. Olson-Stevenson's home and had a justice of the peace issue a search warrant. The warrant, she said, failed to specify the place to be raided or the purpose of the search, and when the justice and police officers arrived at the place they found the Sheriff there, they found liquor.

Mrs. Wiley said the warrant was defective and the warrant Judge Burgess instructed for the raid.

Judge Burgess testified that the warrant issued by Mrs. Olson in fact was helpful to keep the town in the wide open from being wide open. He said that frequent trips to her home and she had been giving information about Greybull generally.

ANTI-VASTY ACT CHARGES FILED IN WRIGHT CASE

MINNEAPOLIS, March 4. (AP)—One count in the romance of Frank Lloyd Wright, the architect, and Olga Milanoff, his erstwhile secretary, was dissipated here today when Mann-Act charges against him were dropped. "Inadequate evidence to warrant a conviction," was the reason given by Lafayette French, United States District Attorney, for dropping the charges, which were instituted tomorrow to a Federal grand jury here.

ASTY ACT COSTLY TO MAYORESS

Wyoming Town's Feminine Head Penalized for Raid on Dry Aide's Home

CHEYENNE (Wyo.) March 4. (AP)—Wyoming's only woman Mayor lost today in defending a $10,000 damage suit brought against her by an indignant citizen who asserted illegal liquor.

A jury in District Court here was instructed by Judge James Burgess to find for the plaintiff, Mrs. Thelma Thomson, and to fix the amount of money to be paid her by Mrs. Elizabeth Wiley, 46-year-old mother of Obrpull, population, 1920, 1,200.

Mrs. Wiley, who is serving her second term, as did Sheriff Burgess, was attempting to make a raid. She said she knew the place had been making frequent visits to Mrs. Olson-Stevenson's home and had a justice of the peace issue a search warrant. The warrant, failed to specify the place to be raided or the purpose of the raid, and when the justice and police officers arrived at the place they found the Sheriff there, with liquor.

Because the warrant was defective Judge Burgess instructed for the defendant.

Sheriff Burgess testified that the raid on Olson in fact was helpful to keep the town in the wide open form being wide open. He said he frequent trips to her home and that he had been giving information about Greybull violations.

Son Numerosos los Niños de Visión Defectuosa

WASHINGTON, Marzo 4.—Una cuidadosa investigación que se extendió por todos los Estados Unidos, hecha por la Comisión Nacional contra la Ceguera, ha revelado que uno, por lo menos, de cada doce niños tiene visión suficientemente defectuosa para dificultarle su educación. Uno de cada quinientos la tiene tan gravemente imperfecta, que no puede educársele con éxito en un grupo de niños de visión normal.

Tales son las declaraciones hechas por Lewis H. Carris, director ejecutivo de la comisión, en alocución pronunciada ante el departamento de superintendentes de la Sociedad de Educación Nacional. Hizo observar asimismo el señor Carris que cuesta diez veces más educar a un cieguito que a un niño de vista normal, de lo que puede colegirse que el problema de lo que debe hacerse con los niños de visión anormal es de bastante importancia, considerado como problema nacional.

Dice un Perito Médico que el Atletismo es Malo para la Mujer

NUEVA YORK, Marzo 4.—La diferencia básica entre el varón y la mujer es que el primero, en todos los períodos de su vida, oxida su alimento y produce energía en proporción mayor que la mujer. Tales fueron las palabras del doctor Oscar Riddle, del departamento de genética del Instituto Carnegie de Washington, ante los miembros del Instituto Norteamericano, en una conferencia sobre "Investigaciones Sexuales."

Agregó el doctor Riddle que, según indican recientes estudios biológicos y químicos sobre cuestiones sexuales, parece ser que la creciente esterilidad de las mujeres se debe a un evitable aumento de rapidez en las funciones metabólicas. Indican también, esos estudios que, al paso que el hombre no está físicamente constituído para una vida quieta y descansada, las mujeres no lo están para una activa y con exceso de estimulación.

Sudcalifornia Ya No Es Meramente una Región de Turismo

Las ciudades de Sudcalifornia, que largo tiempo se contentaron con ser meramente estaciones de recreo para turistas, y sitios donde construir pintorescas casas están convirtiéndose rápidamente en centros manufactureros y haciéndoselo saber a todo el mundo.

Es, muy particularmente, el caso de la región de Glendale y Burbank, y de la que rodea a las poblaciones playeras de Redondo y Hermosa. Una y otra región están exhibiendo sus productos en la Exposición de Fabricantes de Sudcalifornia, en el Southwest Building, Broadway, 130, limitando los artículos exhibidos a los fabricados en las citadas regiones. La variedad de esos productos industriales ha sido una sorpresa hasta para aquellas personas que más familiarizadas parecían estar con ellos.

NATIONAL CITY PLANNERS MEET

Oakland Convention Attracts Country's Builders

Urban Conditions Held Most Important Problem

Angelenos Given Prominent Place on Program

OAKLAND, March 4. (Exclusive)—City planning experts called from the entire United States, city and county officers, representatives of real estate boards and chambers of commerce, club women and property owners from more than 200 California cities and towns began a two-day session here today with "Build Better Cities" as the dominating guide post.

The conference is under the joint auspices of the California Real Estate Association and the League of California Municipalities and is being held in the Hotel Oakland, although an entire separate building has been rented to display maps, charts and diagrams of various city plans.

IMPORTANT ENTERPRISE

Fred E. Reed, chairman and first vice-president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, declared that "city planning is the most important thing in national life today" because more than half the population lives in large cities and environment has more to do with molding character than heredity.

His plea for recognition of plans which provide breathing space, sunshine, green grass and shrubbery for children to grow up in, was echoed by John Nolen of Cambridge, Mass., president of the American City Planning Conference. Education of the people to the importance of these things is a prime essential, Nolen declared, as the ordinary taxpayer shies from high bond issues if he or she is not fully acquainted with the great benefit to be derived.

The works of Paine, Voltaire, Darwin, Huxley and Ingersoll are displayed as "free thought chops," and Dante's "Inferno" and Milton's "Paradise Lost" are "heated dishes telling who is going to be the cook in the next world."

RAILWAY WAGE PARLEY OPENED

Federal Mediator Launches Settlement Steps

Meets With Western Roads' Managers at Chicago

Rail Unions' Delegates Go Over Arguments

CHICAGO, March 4. (AP)—First steps toward a peaceful settlement between Western railroads and their conductors and trainmen in the dispute over the employees' demand for a 7½ per cent wage increase were taken today at meetings here.

Edwin P. Morrow, former Governor of Kentucky and member of the Federal Railroad Mediation Board, arrived and went into immediate conference with a committee of managers representing forty-three roads operating more than 90 per cent of the mileage west of Chicago. This committee is headed by W. M. Jeffers, general manager of the Union Pacific.

Meanwhile, in a near-by hotel, L. E. Sheppard of Cleveland, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, W. N. Doak of Cleveland, acting president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and more than 100 delegates of their organizations from all parts of the West, were preparing their arguments in favor of their wage demand. Mr. Morrow will meet with them tomorrow. Following this preliminary meeting, he said, there will be a series of other conferences with both sides in an effort to arrive at an acceptable adjustment.

All the meetings are behind closed doors and no information concerning the discussions can be given out under the provisions of the railway mediation law, until they are concluded. Previously, however, the railroad managers had stated that the increase asked would involve nearly $18,000,000 a year, and that the railroads in their present financial condition would not meet this burden. The brotherhood men have stated that this estimate is too high and pointed to the fact that wage increases of the same amount have already been granted on Eastern and Southeastern roads.

COAST BOARD REPORTS COMPROMISE FINDING

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4. (Exclusive)—A report granting a 6 per cent general wage increase to railway signal men on Western railroads was filed in United States District Court today by the local board of three members appointed by the National Railway Arbitration Board. The recommendation is a compromise between the 70-cents-an-hour minimum and 81½ cents maximum asked by the trainmen and their present rate of 67 to 77 cents an hour.

[Copyright, 1927, Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, March 4. (Exclusive)—The problem of fetteering nature for electric power, which has concerned scientists for generations has partly been solved, according to the claims of two professors of the Berlin Technical High School, Prof. Meinecke and Dr. Ernst Brauer, who assert the difference in the temperature of the upper and bottom layers of the tropical seas can be used to generate electric power.

They have worked on a plan formulated by a Frenchman, but assert they have perfected it to a point where it will be commercially exploitable and they plan large experimental undertakings.

The plan is to establish pumping stations along the coasts of the tropical seas, where the temperature of the sea on the surface is above 66 deg., Fahr. Cuba is mentioned as a particularly good place. The system is to pump warm sea water from the surface into a power station and with the water's heating power and from the lower strata's cooling power transform liquid carbonic acid to gas and back again, generating thereby power without any additional heating or cooling means.

Stanford Dean Appraises 'Babe' at Low Value

PALO ALTO, March 4. (AP)—Dr. David Starr Jordan, chancellor emeritus of Stanford University, declared in a lecture here last night that "Babe Ruth is worth about $800 a year, so far as his services to the world are concerned, but that a salary of $200,000 a year would not be excessive if he could get it and the people were willing to pay it."

Dr. Jordan declared it proper for professional football players to make large money while they can, but said he did not expect professional gridiron games to hold the public favor. He declared success of professional football would ruin the game as a college sport.

Fourteenth Annual Automobile Show Closes Tomorrow After Record Attendanc

INCREASE MADE DURING STORM

Fourteenth Annual Show Closes Tomorrow Night

Air Mail Campaign Success is Recognized

Machines to Remain in Tents Until Monday

Assurance was given the officials of the fourteenth annual automobile show that the expected attendance records at the show will materialize in spite of the rain when the official count of the visitors at the event Thursday revealed an increase of 4200 people over the number passing through the gates last year on the sixth day of the show. The rains Thursday brought fears that the attendance might fall off so much that the mark of 100,000 people would not be reached.

The show closes tomorrow night. The 425 machines in the exhibit will not be moved out of the tents until Monday. None of them can be moved until released by the show committee, who will not issue the releases to take effect before Monday morning, according to Reeve Gartzmann, chairman of the committee.

There has been great success in the campaign of the Chamber of Commerce in educating the public with the use of air mail, according to attendants at the booth. Because of the fact that the planes in the service are carrying capacity loads it has been necessary to open the booth at which booster letters may be sent out by air mail from the auto show at only intervals during the day. With an average of over 10,000 people visiting the place each day the number of letters being sent out over the Western Air Express by the chamber has been gratifying.

STOCK FRAUD DENIED

Rolph Hansen Pleads Not Guilty to Embezzlement Charge

Rolph Hansen, 35 years of age, said to be the president of the Universal Silicate Stucco Company, yesterday pleaded not guilty in Judge Craig's court to a charge of embezzlement preferred against him in connection with an asserted stock deal.

Hansen is charged with having obtained $3800 worth of stock in the Union Mortgage Company of Denver from Miss Lucy Evans, a schoolteacher, in exchange for an equal amount of stock in his company with the understanding that she could re-exchange the stock at any time or get her money back. Miss Evans stated she later demanded the return of her original stock, but was advised it had been sold.

Hansen's trial was set for April 6. The accused man was represented in court yesterday by Attorney S. S. Hahn.

STORK SAVES WOMAN

Ex-Bank Aide Sentenced to Prison Gets Probation Instead

Approach of the stork yesterday gained freedom for Florence Patton, former bank escrow clerk, who was under sentence of from one to ten years in San Quentin penitentiary for the embezzlement of $1140 from the Western-avenue branch of the Hellman Bank.

The woman was sentenced last week by Judge Craig and was awaiting transportation to prison when she informed one of the matrons of the County Jail of her condition.

News of the expected visitation of the stork was conveyed to Judge Craig, who yesterday ordered Miss Patton brought before him. When officially informed of the status of the case, Judge Craig ordered the prison sentence he had imposed on Miss Patton suspended and placed her on seven years' probation.

HENRY KROHN VISITOR HERE

Timing his visit to the Pacific Coast that he might be in attendance at the Fourteenth Automobile Show of the Los Angeles Motor Car Dealers' Association, Henry Krohn, vice-president and general sales manager of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company, is in Los Angeles.

Mr. Krohn has what might almost be called an obsession to attend automobile shows. This is the twelfth he has visited—not once but several times—since January 1.

Attending the shows is not a hobby with him, as hobbies are generally accepted. He does so for a frank business reason. Within a few hours after he had registered at the Biltmore he was at the booth of the Paige Company of Southern California, the local branch organization of the Detroit concern, mingling incognito with the salesmen and visitors who stopped. He engaged the latter in conversation. He finds that folks who go to automobile shows have the most critical tastes in motor vehicles. They know what they want to find in the car they are contemplating buying and say so when they go to the shows.

Mr. Krohn frankly was surprised at the extent of the Los Angeles show. "In setting, in decorations, in extent of exhibits, in attendance and, in short, in everything that makes an automobile show a success; the Los Angeles show is the best I have seen this year," he said.

"There are two what might be termed 'official' shows a year—the one at New York and the one at Chicago. These are arranged for the most part for the distributors by the manufacturers. There are shown the latest creations and there the dealers from all over the country go.

"The Los Angeles show, however, is for the buyer—the one who makes or breaks a company. Its appeal is distinctly to the potential owner. They are the ones in whom I am interested."

STATE ROAD REPAIR BIDS CALLED FOR

Highway Commission Asks Tenders for Restoration in Southern California

SACRAMENTO, March 4. (AP)—Repairs of the damage to California's highways resulting from the recent storms, tentatively estimated at $500,000 by R. M. Morton, highway engineer, will be started by the Highway Commission here Wednesday, when informal contracts will be let on two Southern California projects which are expected to cost in the neighborhood of $110,000.

One of the contracts will call for construction of a 900-foot bridge across the Santa Ana River on the Oxnard-Capistrano highway between Huntington Beach and Newport bridge. This is expected to cost approximately $50,000. The other is for the relocation of two miles of the highway along Myers Creek between San Diego and El Centro. This will cost approximately $60,000.

The new bridge over the Santa Ana River was made necessary when the river left its channel and cut a new waterway and in doing so swept out an 850-foot fill in which the highway was located. In order to speed the project the commission will let the contract on a day labor basis for most of the work.

In relocating the southern highway the route will be taken from along the creek bank and moved up the mountainside to eliminate the wash which caused the damage to the two miles of pavement. The work now contemplated is the grading, the paving work to be let later on.

NEW DEVICE CUTS COST OF GASOLINE

Frenchmen Find System to Produce Fuel for Autos from Lignite

PARIS, March 4. (AP)—Synthetic production of gasoline on a commercial basis at two-thirds of present cost is announced as achieved by two French engineers, Albert Prodhomme and Eugene oudry. Development of their method was supervised by an engineer for the Mines Commission of the Chamber of Deputies and is declared to be of national interest.

A small plant is said to be actually extracting five gallons of gasoline, four of fuel oil and valuable sulphur from a ton of lignite. There is estimated to be enough lignite available to supply France with gasoline by this method for 150 years.

The process consists in distilling lignite gasses from which the various products are extracted by chemical processes already known. These processes, however, are modified by introduction of metal particles which facilitate the chemical action to a degree hitherto unattainable.

Arnheim will make a special study of traffic in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Kansas City, Chicago and Detroit.

SIDELIGHTS AT AUTO SHOW

BY AL PARMENTER

An explanation of the cause for the crowds attending the automobile show here, greater in numbers than those attending the display in San Francisco, which is a factory show, while the local show is put on by the dealers' association, is obviously that the show here must offer a greater appeal. In addition, Los Angeles is distinctly a motoring population.

The extent to which the dealers have gone to arrange the exhibit is somewhat more readily realized when it is known that one dealer paid a sum of $1500 for his space in the tent in which his product is exhibited. This is not the best location in the show nor does this dealer have the largest space, so it may be assumed that there are others paying more. This is only an initial expenditure. There is the expense of dolling the cars up, keeping attendants in the booth, the investment in the cars themselves, the expense of bringing special exhibits such as cutaway chassis to the show, all these things indicate that the displays have to be worth the visitor's time to justify the expense. In spite of this cost, the attendance charges at the local show are less than at any other show in the big cities.

A. R. Reedal, manager of the Greer Robbins Company, is effervesing over the two-door brougham six-cylinder Hupmobile. This is the latest addition to the Hupmobile family, the line distributed here by Greer Robbins. At that, the brougham furnishes a reason to effervesce a little. Its excellent coloring and graceful lines make it a car good to look upon.

Someone else that is bubbling enthusiasm, Reeve Gartzmann, is not so busy being head of the show committee that he cannot stop to talk about the new Pontiac. This is the six-cylinder model. The sport roadster, fully equipped, and with a rumble seat that has foot room—a triumph in itself.

Among the more prominent visitors here during the past week, one that was overlooked early in the week was Fred Pabst, Northern California manager for Done Lee, Cadillac distributor.

Also of the Cadillac family is J. William James, Jesse James, director of publicity at the Cadillac factory. James came here in company with the factory engineers, who drove the two new LaSalles here on a test run from Detroit in about 69 hours running time.

The Chrysler, another car for which Greer Robbins is a distributor here, is showing in its display an unusual number of models. The Chrysler factories turn out three sixes and a four-cylinder model. All of them in various body-types are exhibited. The Sportif, a four-passenger model, is a new model that is different. The tonneau is so fully equipped with mirrors and other little things for the comfort of its passengers that it is hard to believe it is a motor car.

There is a cut-away chassis of each model to be seen working—all moving parts being exposed to the view of the visitor.

More than $5,725,000,000 was spent for motor cars, trucks, tires and replacement parts by the people of the United States in 1926, according to a report emanating from Chicago. That means that there will probably be over six billions of dollars spent in the same market this year. Those cars sold last year and the year before will swell the fund along with the great expenditures to be made for the new models which will be sold this year. Truly it is America's greatest industry.

GEORGE MIDDLETON WILL CONTEST FILED

The $100,000 estate of the late George Middleton of South Pasadena is the subject of a contest filed yesterday in behalf of Frank Rea Middleton, his 13-year-old grandson, by C. Sherman Anderson, as guardian. The contestant is a grandson of the decedent by his first wife, and it is asserted that the will was drawn while Middleton was unduly influenced by his second wife, Ruth K. Middleton, for whose benefit most of the estate was left in trust. Middleton died February 14, 1926, at the age of 74 years.

CIVIC SITE FAVORED BY GOV. YOUNG

Suggests, Though, That Angeles Donate Land for State Building

Gov. Young, in a letter sent yesterday by President Wardell to the City Council, declared himself satisfied that "the present Board of Control believes that the State building at Los Angeles should be located in a civic center which Los Angeles is building up." The Governor said that the board "would be pleased to see a suitable site donated by the State for the State Building to be done in the case of the State building at San Francisco."

The Governor's letter was in response to resolutions adopted by the Council, on motion of President Chapman protesting against any attempt to locate the State Building in Exposition Park. The proposal to locate the building at Exposition Park, the Governor said, emanated from the former Board of Control.

CEMENT PAVING AWARDED

The paving of Vineland avenue from Ventura Boulevard to Riverside avenue, with six-inch cement concrete pavement was yesterday requested of the City Council by city owners.

A New Straight Eight for Less Than the Better Six

Auburn has written the latest chapter in the history of automobile progress.

Written it, not as a forecast for "some day," but as an actual attainment, available now.

Written it, not as an experiment, but as a proven product. All possibility of dross has been removed by the white heat of experience. Only 100% unalloyed value remains. Proof of unequalled performance and excessive wearing quality is abundantly provided by irrefutable owner-evidence.

This new kind of automobile introduces a decided difference over contemporary types of cars.

Contrasted with the old-style high, top-heavy, clumsy designs of over-priced sixes it marks a new era as distinctly advanced as any fundamental improvement since the industry began.

Future improvements must date from this Straight Eight.

Therefore, the extra advantages and satisfaction in driving this "pattern car" now, which others must imitate next year.

In appearance its distinction is undeniable; long, low and smart! No other car like it. You express your individuality.

In ease of handling, and in the way it performs, only a drive at any speed you choose can convey its truly remarkable difference over any car you ever drove before. We make no exceptions. The reasons for these claims are built into the car itself. Drive it—and if it does not sell itself, you will not be asked to buy.

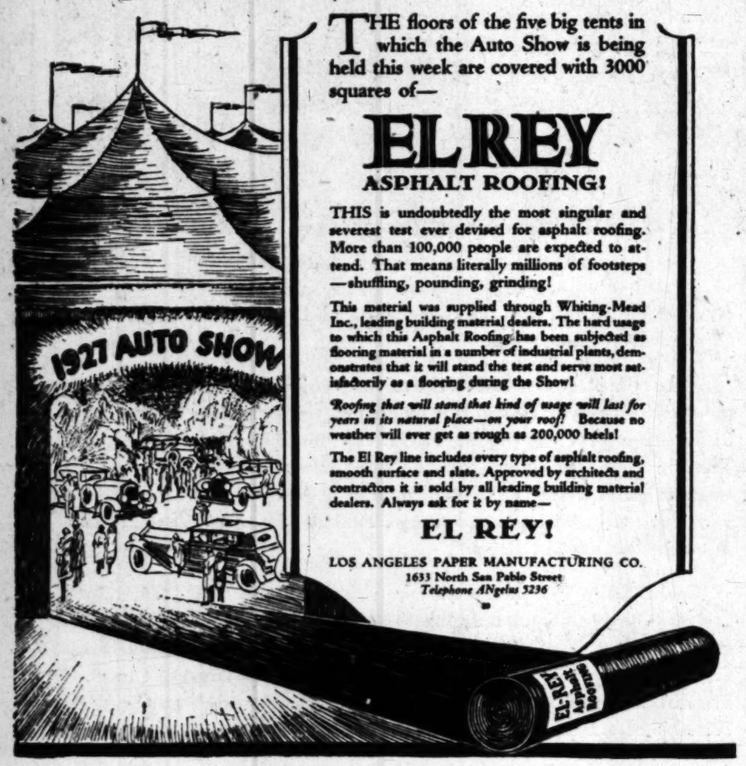
100,000 Auto Show Visitors Will Walk Over This Roofing



THE floors of the five big tents in which the Auto Show is being held this week are covered with 3000 squares of—

EL REY ASPHALT ROOFING!

THIS is undoubtedly the most singular and severest test ever devised for asphalt roofing. More than 100,000 people are expected to attend. That means literally millions of footsteps—shuffling, pounding, grinding!

This material was supplied through Whiting-Mead Inc., leading building material dealers. The hard usage to which this Asphalt Roofing has been subjected as flooring material in a number of industrial plants, demonstrates that it will stand the test and serve most satisfactorily as a flooring during the Show!

Roofing that will stand that kind of usage will last for years in its natural place—on your roof! Because no weather will ever get as rough as 200,000 heels!

The El Rey line includes every type of asphalt roofing, smooth surface and slate. Approved by architects and contractors it is sold by all leading building material dealers. Always ask for it by name—

TRIO OF MEETS ON CARD TODAY

Conference Cinderpathers in Important Track Duals

Pomona Sagehens Entertain Strong Bruin Outfit

Favor Caltech Squad to Win Over Pipal's Tigers

Undaunted by the damp weather six Southern Conference track teams are slated to swing into action today. Pomona entertains U.C.L.A. at Claremont, Occidental faces Caltech at Paddock Field, Pasadena, and Redlands and Whittier hook up on the Bulldags' oval. All three meets will be held unless additional rain falls this morning.

HARRY TROTTER

Pomona and the Bruins go into their engagement on even terms. Last year Harry Trotter's boys upset the dope and trimmed the Sagehens. This time Bob Strehle appears to have more stars than Trotter but the Bruin mentor counters with more material. It might come down to the relay and in that event the Sagehens ought to win for the Bruins are a bit short of quarter-milers.

Steve Turner, Pomona captain, is counted on for ten to twelve points. He performs in the hurdles, high jump and shot put. Other Sagehen aces are Hezmalhalch, hammer; Hall, discus; Bell, high jump; Maxwell, javelin, and Lillibridge and Baird, pole vault.

BANKS ON STARS

Trotter banks on Capt. John Terry hurdles and sprints; Schmidt, half-mile; Miller, mile and two-mile; Waite, two-mile; Keefer and Huber, high jump; White, pole vault; Drummond, discus, and Widmer, broad jump.

Caltech is a slight favorite to defeat Joe Pipal's Occidental outfit. The Engineers have established themselves as a powerful team, defeating the Hollywood Athletic Club, Whittier and winning via the forfeit route over Redlands. Occidental's strength is an unknown quantity. The Tigers may be good enough to beat Caltech but they haven't indicated as much yet.

Murray Schultz is doped to win both sprint events for the Engineers, while Capt. Irvin Tanner ought to cop the two hurdle races for Occidental. Schweizer of

NEWPORT SPEED BOAT BEATS EASTERN RACERS

Dick Loynes Drives Local Hydro to Beat Spitfire Team in Annual Palm Beach '151' Regatta

TAMPA (Fla.) March 4. (AP)—A new world record for Class 151 hydroplanes was established in the annual Tampa Bay regatta this afternoon when Miss California, owned and driven by Dick Loynes of Long Beach, Cal., won the first five-mile heat of the race in 5m. 52⅗s.

Miss California's time, which was faster than 81 miles an hour, was 1 3-5 seconds better than the former record held by Miss Spitfire Fifth, which finished second in 6m. 23 3-5s.

Miss Spitfire was driven by her owner, J. H. Rand of Buffalo, N. Y. Her record shattered today by Miss California, was made last winter at Long Beach, Cal. Miss Spitfire Sixth, driven by Chris Wennock, Buffalo, N. Y., was third, finishing in 7m. 51s.

DICK LOYNES

Miss Spitfire Fifth, driven by J. H. Rand, Buffalo, N. Y., won the 510 hydroplane class race of five miles in 18m. 20 3-5s. Undeniable, driven by Percy Bassett of Winterhaven, Fla., was second, in 13m. 35 4-5s, and Miss Spitfire Sixth, driven by Chris Wennock, was third in 15m. 54s.

Will Portias of Tampa, was rescued by near-by craft when his hydroplane Pathfinder III turned over while passing a buoy in the 510-class race. The boat was only slightly damaged and was towed to shore.

California Five Wins Over Oregon Basketeers to Grab Coast Championship

EUGENE (Or.) March 4. (AP)—The Golden Bears of California, won the Pacific Coast Conference basketball championship title here tonight by defeating the University of Oregon, 33 to 21, after winning the first game of the series by a 35-to-29 score last night.

The southerners displayed an all-star combination that takes rank as one of the best quintets developed on the Pacific slope in years, coaches who saw tonight's game declared. The Golden Bears were especially adept at long shooting, and checked fast and hard. The score was 13 to 5 at half time.

"NIBS" PRICE.

The Webfoots fought hard, but could not compete with the brilliance of the southerners, who rained field goals from all angles. The Oregon team was visibly weakened by the loss of Gordon Ridings, star forward, who fractured an ankle in Thursday night's conflict.

Cobrin of California was high-point man, making 10 counters. Tonight's game concluded the competition of Dixon and Watson, California stars, and Okerberg, Gunther and Westergren of Oregon. Each of these men has been picked on an all-Coast selection during his college career.

Jim Delaney Answers Last Battle Gong

Jimmy DeLaney

He succumbed to an attack of blood poisoning occasioned when an infection set in from a shattered elbow. Delaney hurt his arm in a fight with Maxie Rosenbloom in Cincinnati three weeks ago. Paying no attention to the injury, he engaged in another bout at Buffalo a few days later.

He returned to St. Paul to have X-rays taken of the injury, and two operations followed, but to no avail. He was 25 years old. Eddie Long, his manager, was at his bedside when the boxer died. He had fought Gene Tunney, the heavyweight champion, twice, and met such well-known fighters as Young Stribling, Martin Burke, Tom-Loung Stribling, Martin Burke, Tommy Loughran and others.

TRAUNG APPROVES OF DOYLE REGIME AT OLYMPIC ARENA; TENDLER-WILLS BATTLE OFF

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4. (AP)—Charles F. Traung, Northern California member of the State Boxing Commission, announced today that he had approved a contract by which Jack Doyle, Los Angeles promoter, would put on contests in the Olympic Auditorium there. Traung telegraphed his decision to Seth Strelinger, one of the Southern California commissioners, after having the contract inspected by attorneys here.

JACK DOYLE.

When applying for a permit to hold boxing in the auditorium, Doyle told the commission that he would use 60 per cent of his profits to reimburse creditors who hold a $300,000 lien on the premises.

Action was held up at Traung's request, but he said today he was in favor of granting Doyle a temporary permit to hold a bout on the 8th inst. while the matter of putting on weekly fights would be taken up at the next regular meeting.

DOLYE POSTPONES TENDLER-WILLS BOUT

The on-again, off-again, Lew Tendler-Young Harry Wills bout was postponed yesterday by Promoter Jack Doyle until after the meeting of the State Athletic Commission at San Diego the 10th inst.

Doyle said he preferred to have the commission thresh out his request for staging weekly fights before holding any bouts in the Olympic Auditorium.

At the time he made the announcement he had not been apprised of Commissioner Charles Traung's approval of a temporary permit for the 8th inst., when the Tendler-Wills bout was scheduled for presentation. Doyle could not be reached last night, but he had indicated strongly earlier in the day that he be-

CULVER CITY RACE STILL ON

Promoter Halbriter Says Track Uninjured by Rain; Speed Trials on Tap for Today

"The rain isn't stopping us for a minute, and we're all set for Sunday afternoon's classic once the skies clear. We'll qualify the cars tomorrow morning, or even Sunday, if we have to."

This was the verdict given last night by P. H. "Puss" Halbriter at his headquarters in the Sun Finance Building, where race attaches were enmeshed in the thousand and one last-minute details in connection with Sunday's spectacular 250-mile championship classic at the Culver City speedway.

FRED WAGNER

"The weather dope is that the sprinkling is to stop in plenty of time," Halbriter continued, "and the water has made the big mile-and-a-quarter bowl perfect for Sunday's speed battle by the eighteen famous pilots who pass the rigid qualifying trials. The cool track will mean just one thing—the race will be even faster than we had anticipated, because there will be less tire trouble after the drivers start skidding their cars through the steep curves at 140-mile gaits."

FANS EAGER FOR ACTION.

Race fans of Los Angeles and throughout the State haven't been even considering the rains, as shown by the continuous streams of patrons at the ticket booths in the B. H. Dyas Company store, the Halbriter, Inc., store, and at the main offices of the Automobile Club, which is receiving thousands of requests at its out-of-town branches.

"We're all set to go ahead with the qualifying today, starting at 10 o'clock," Fred J. Wagner, official starter for the big classic, said, after conferring with Art Klein, assistant starter, upon the arrival from San Francisco of Hal Weller, who will be the official representative of the A.A.A. contest board, the supreme authority for the 250-mile contest.

The huge racing plant was in excellent condition late yesterday afternoon, with the immense infield showing no signs of water and the big entrance tunnels kept dry by the battery of large electric pumps. This morning the scores of race employees will begin the big task of putting up the hundreds of direction signs, ready

The tourney will mark Miss Wills's second appearance on Southern California courts. She will play the best women players in Southern California.

Big Ten Cage Teams Tangle in Five Games

CHICAGO, March 4. (AP)—The same four teams that tied for the Big Ten basketball title a year ago, start down the home stretch tomorrow in a "blanket finish" with Michigan holding the slender advantage of one game.

Indiana, Purdue and Iowa, close upon the leader, still have an outside chance to tie for the title again. Only Indiana and Purdue have beaten the Michigan squad of six-footers, and the Wolverines broke even with them in the return games.

Tomorrows games are: Illinois at Wisconsin, Iowa at Ohio, Purdue at Minnesotta, Michigan at Chicago and Northwestern at Indiana.

WHITTIER CAGEMEN DEFEAT ARIZONANS

TUCSON (Ariz.) March 4. (Exclusive)—Leo Calland's Whittier College basketball team of California defeated the University of Arizona quintet here tonight by a score of 23 to 20.

EBER AND FILIPINO DRAW

Staging a hammer-and-tong finish to a nip-and-tuck fight, Young Nationalista, the Filipino rubber ball, and "Bad News" Eber fought a ten-round draw at the Hollywood Legion last night.

Both boys did some fast and clever stepping, with Eber getting off to a good start by taking the first two rounds. Eber rocked Nationalista to his ankles in the first with a hard right to the chin, but the Filipino came back and had Eber in bad in turn, taking the third and fourth periods. Eber was feeling bad in the fourth, but weathered the session and came back strong, winning the fifth.

The speedy Nationalista carried off the sixth, seventh and eighth, but ran into a flock of lefts in the ninth that gave Eber that round by a wide margin. The boys seemed to be a bit het up in the tenth and when it was over Referee Freddie Gilmore figured the pair had tied.

Billy Harms easily walloped Mike Hester in the six-round semifinal, having Hester on the floor twice in the third round for counts of five and nine, respectively. Harms lacked the wallop to rock Hector to sleep, however, and the go went the limit.

Thompson is Easy Winner Over King Tut

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4. (AP)—Young Jack Thompson, flashy negro boxer of Los Angeles, continued his sensational advance in the lightweight ranks when he scored a clean-cut ten-round decision over King Tut of Minneapolis at Dreamland Rink tonight. It was a gruelling battle, with both boys exchanging punches steadily. Tut took a bad beating to the body, and both eyes were nearly closed when the final gong rang.

The Minneapolis boy went down from a right to the jaw in the third round for a count of nine. He weathered the storm, however, and came back strong in the fourth and fifth rounds, to capture them by a slight margin.

ATTENDANCE AT BOUTS SHOWS INCREASE OVER LAST YEAR

SACRAMENTO, March 4. (AP)—Followers of the manly art of self-defense in California continue to turn out in record numbers for the matches staged in various cities, according to figures released here today by Walter A. Yarwood, secretary of the State Athletic Commission covering the attendance, gate receipts and total 5 per cent tax to the State during February.

His report also gave figures for February, 1926 and 1925.

The attendance total last month was 128,731, an increase of 8700 over February, 1926, and more than 45,000 over February, 1925. The receipts for the month was $185,249, against $179,977 in February, 1926, and $170,379 two years ago. The State's share which totaled $11,278, while showing a gain of slightly less than $100 over the receipts of a year ago dropped $7100 from the February, 1925 figure.

Thus far this year the athletic commission has collected $24,469, as its share of the receipts from all but American Legion bouts, bringing the grand total since the commission was created up to $317,534. This fund must be expended in improving the State's Home for Veterans of the Wars.

LA BARBA SIGNS FOR REMATCH WITH JOHNNY VACCA IN EAST

FIDEL LA BARBA

BOSTON, March 4. (Exclusive)—Fidel La Barba, flyweight champion of the world, and Johnny Vacca, sensational Boston youth, will meet in a return bout here on March 21, it was announced today. Vacca recently astounded the fistic world by beating La Barba in a ten-round bout, including four knockdowns during the engagement, although the champion, by rallying all his ring generalship, managed to last the route. Vacca, a comparative unknown when he signed for the first fight with La Barba, became a national sensation through his victory. The coming bout will be at 117 pounds, well above the flyweight limit, over a distance of ten rounds.

POSTPONE COLIMA-HUDKINS GO

After a survey of the water-logged ground at Wrigley Field last night, Dick Donald announced that the Ace Hudkins-Bert Colima bout had been postponed until Tuesday night. Yesterday afternoon's rainfall turned the already soaking field into miniature lakes and Donald figured no amount of sponging would put the place in shape for a fight tonight. Donald said he had secured permission from Commissioner Seth Strelinger to hold the fight Tuesday night. Calling off of the Tendler-Wills bout at the Olympic clears the track for Donald's show.

OLYMPIC MAT SHOW OFF

Due to an injury sustained by Frank Judson, the former Harvard wrestling coach, who was scheduled to wrestle Nick Lutze in the main event, Promoter Lou Daro yesterday postponed his show for next Wednesday night at the Olympic Auditorium.

Judson sustained a pulled ligament in his left leg when he threw the 310-pound "Masked Marvel" two weeks ago. He went on with his training for the Lutze match and believed the injury would heal. Infection set in, however, and yesterday Dr. Lloyd Mace of the State Athletic Commission declared that Judson would be physically unfit to go on with the match.

LIFE SAVER IN LONG SWIM FOR HIMSELF

BOSTON, March 4. (AP)—Richard A. Lonergan, 42, for twenty years a life saver, has just completed a twenty-five mile swim in the Y.M.C.A. tank. He covered the distance in nineteen hours but took two days. Yesterday he did nine miles in seven hours and the day before negotiated sixteen miles in twelve hours. There was no prize.

Rickard's Heavyweight Tournament Nears End; Sole Maloney and Sharkey Survivors

FIGHT FOR GO WITH DEMPSEY

Tex Books Semifinalists to Clash in May

Boxers After Title Shot at Tunney's Crown

McTigue Says He is Still Going Strong

NEW YORK, March 4. —Now that his heavyweight elimination tournament has narrowed down to Jimmy Maloney, the South - Boston fish huckster and Jack Sharkey, the chesty Lithuanian also from Boston, Tex Rickard today made the only move possible under existing conditions, and both lads have agreed to fight for the right to meet Gene Tunney for the world's title the latter part of May in the Yankee Stadium.

JACK DEMPSEY.

No papers have been signed. But Rickard let it be known that the match is "in" and that the actual signing now is merely a formality that will be attended to within the next few days. The pen-slinging was deferred to give the promoter a chance to consult his weather chart and pick out a nice, balmy evening for the fight.

In all probability the boys will sign for fifteen rounds. Rickard stated that the winner of this match will be hooked up with Jack Dempsey in the event the former champion signifies a willingness to do some more fighting.

"Both Maloney and Sharkey have done everything I asked of them," said Rickard today.

Maloney fought his way into the semifinal round of the tournament by licking Jack Delaney in ten rounds several weeks back. Sharkey's victory last night over Mike McTigue qualified him for a meeting with Shamus.

The fighters have had three brushes to date. Maloney won the first on a decision in ten rounds. Sharkey copped the second on a foul in nine rounds after being on the floor eight times, and he won the third fight on a decision in ten rounds.

McTigue today said:

"Am I through fighting? Why should I quit now when I have most of the boys on the run? Sharkey got a great break, that's all"

Mike explained one of his store teeth on the left side of his upper jaw worked itself loose from a pivot and ruptured a small blood vessel, bringing about an early ending of last night's bout.

Oxy is favored in the quarter, with Atwood Scovel a good bet to annex both the mile and two-mile events for Pipal's team.

Nickell of Caltech should win the hammer, while Anderson and Hoover are figured for eight points in the javelin by "Fox" Stanton.

DEPEND ON WEBB

From an Occidental standpoint, much depends on the performance of Harold Webb, sophomore star. If Webb is going good he may win the meet for the Tigers. He performs in the shot, where he will be favored to win, hammer, high jump, javelin, discus and high hurdles. It will not be surprising to see Webb annex the discus and hammer in addition to the shot.

In case the relay decides the meet Caltech is better fixed than the Bengals, although Pipal might even be able to cop this event by using Scovel, who can run any distance from a quarter-mile to two miles.

FONTANA FIVE AFTER TWO LEAGUE TITLES

FONTANA, March 4.—Having defeated Claremont, Upland, San Bernardino night school, Smith Sporting Goods and other teams in this community, the Fontana Athletic Club's basketball five bids fair to win the laurels in two league games in which it has been playing on regular schedule. The team at present is at the top of the ladder in both leagues. E. J. Hauser, former Cornell athlete and basketball star, is coaching the Fontana quintet.

SPRING TRAINING CAMP NEWS

ATLANTA (Ga.) March 4. (AP)—The humming of machinery in major-league baseball camps of Florida, Louisiana and Texas grew louder and more regular today.

The Boston Red Sox had their first workout of any consequence when Bill Carrigan led the American Leaguers to the New Orleans lot and started them off. The weather was ideal, and it was hoped that the candidates would be in full swing within a few days.

Manager Harris rounded off a few rough edges at Tampa as he put the Washington Senators through their last drill before crossing bats with the Boston Braves tomorrow. A number of regulars will start in both line-ups. Rookie pitchers will fare forth in each case, however, with Harris's choice standing between Bradley, Crowder, Pisenbee and Burke, while Dave Bancroft will choose from Mills and Horn, with a possibility that Edwards will be called upon for a little work.

It will be the first exhibition game of the season.

Tyrus Raymond Cobb spent another day at Sarasota and again witnessed the workout of the New York Giants before proceeding to Fort Myers to join the Athletics Sunday. He predicted the Giants as National League pennant winners, and added they would have Connie Mack's force to contend with in the big classic.

Bill Terry put in a belated appearance at McGraw's training grounds. Cleveland's Indians showed more snap and pep today than at any time since they got together. Joe and Luke Sewell, who have been detained in Alabama, wired they would be in camp Sunday.

Wayland Dean, pitcher, and John McKan, outfielder, have arrived in the Philadelphia Nationals' camp at Bradenton, but the entire squad is not expected for a couple of days.

A practice game was played this afternoon at Avon Park between two nines chosen from the Cardinal squad. The work of Frankie Frisch and Frank Snyder pleased Bob O'Farrell, who is still worrying some over the absence of Flynn Rhem and Tom Thevenow, two of his stars.

Jack Hendrix kept his Cincinnati Reds down at hard labor, a sentence which they have been under since reaching Orlando.

Nothing but drill was the order at St. Petersburg and Fort Myers, respectively, where the Yankees and Athletics are training.

Rain fell slightly at San Antonio.

Three new arrivals came in during the day, Jackie Warner, third baseman; Devireros, shortstop, and W. T. Shields, rookie outfielder. Heilman was expected but did not get there.

CUBS WORK OUT IN DANCE HALL

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

AVALON (Cal.) March 4.—Another large order of rain descended on the Cubs' ivory ranch today and interfered a bit with the progress of such athletes as are desirous of attaining the proverbial pink. However, the day was not a total loss because the men did a little throwing in the morning despite the rain and in the afternoon they turned over a stretch of labor in the dancing pavilion which is large enough to permit of anything short of batting practice. Despite the conditions some of the pitchers actually got a good workout. They had to cut loose and work to keep from contracting shivers.

The indoor drill in the afternoon was marked by more frivolity and horse-play than usually is permitted by Mr. McCarthy. The chief form of exercise was a basketball game in which a tin pail and a wooden box served as baskets.

Shortstop English, until recently a holdout, is expected to reach the island Sunday noon but nothing definite has been heard from Percy Jones, the left-hand T. & P. freight brakeman. Percy will probably turn up unannounced in a few days and after a winter of juggling box cars he will need only a little work to get himself in readiness for his summer's toil.

Infielder Clyde Beck took the afternoon boat for Los Angeles. His wife, boy and father were in an automobile smash-up and he went home to get first-hand information. Their injuries were not serious.

SEALS TAKE WALK AS RAIN TUMBLES

BOYES SPRINGS, March 4. (AP)—Rain prevented the San Francisco Seals from playing a practice game today, so Manager Nick Williams had the boys throwing the ball around and finally chased them out on a long hike.

Eddie Mulligan, regular third-baseman, arrived today from St. Louis. Williams also announced that "Cocky" Roach, a recruit from San Francisco, had been given his release.

ALDRIDGE SHOWS CLASS TO BUCS

PASO ROBLES, March 4. (AP)—Despite rainy weather last night and this morning, the Pittsburgh Pirates chalked up another snappy workout today. Fielding practice was limited, however, the wet grass being regarded as dangerous to work on.

It was rookie day in pitching, to the batters, and Vic Aldridge was the only regular to toil on the mound. The Terre Haute schoolmaster had plenty of nip on his fast one straight overhand. In direct contrast was the twirling of Byron Speece, underhand thrower, whom Manager Donie Bush had with him at Indianapolis. Starting the ball as low down as Aldridge did high up, Speece's shoots kept the batters bewildered, and they found it almost impossible to connect squarely.

SACRAMENTO BACK IN OLD HOME TOWN

SACRAMENTO, March 4. (AP)—The Sacramento Senators returned to their home diamond for the polishing-up exercises after a ten-day training siege spent at Richardson Springs. Manager Buddy Ryan believes his squad will enter the Coast League race in better physical condition than any of the other seven contenders. Outside of Rudy Kallio, pitcher, the club's only holdout, the boys are well along toward perfection. Practice today was held up by showers, and was the only workout missed since the squad assembled ten days ago.

PORTLAND TOILS ON MUDDY FIELD

SAN JOSE, March 4. (AP)—Portland's Beavers engaged in a light workout today on a muddy field and most of the toiling was confined to batting practice. Royce Washburn, utility infielder, arrived today from his home in Los Angeles and was in uniform.

Hy Everding, Portland sportsman, will arrive here next Monday with Abe Reuben Wolfe, a pitcher who can throw either left-handed or right-handed.

Cameron, playing from the parallel barranca short of the green, carried over into the rough beyond the hole. Yesterday's victor laid into two beautiful woods—was home in three and down in two putts for a par 5 to win the eighth and was leading, 3 up, when she stepped upon the ninth tee.

STARTS DRIVE

Miss Cameron dropped into her rightful stride and won the tricky ninth with a par 5. Mrs. Pressler won the tenth, the eleventh was halved and then Miss Cameron started a drive that came within an ace of successfully defending the representative title she won from Mrs. George M. Lewis, last year.

Miss Cameron dropped her third shot dead on twelve and won the hole with a par 4. The Arlingdale golfer also won the long thirteenth, and played from the inside on the short fourteenth, but Mrs. Pressler dropped a fine putt for a par 3 and a halve.

Mrs. Pressler won the sixteenth with a perfectly played par 4, dropping a six-foot putt for the hole. Mrs. Pressler missed her third shot going to sixteen and was barely on the green, from a trap, in four. Miss Cameron, forty yards short in two, played safe to win the seventeenth hole with a par 5. The seventeenth was halved in 4s.

Miss Cameron missed her drive to eighteen, the ball carrying into the side of the hill and rolling back to the road and she was forced to play a full mashie shot in two to was just even with Mrs. Pressler's whose beautiful tee shot carried well over the hill that hides approach to the elevated eighteenth green.

Mrs. Pressler was 100 yards short of the green in two, while Miss Cameron's third carried just short and to the left of the green, behind two deep traps and about sixty yards from the hole. Miss Cameron played a bold pitch for the flag and left herself a six-foot putt for a par 5 that would have won the hole and squared the match. Mrs. Pressler, playing safe, missed a 5, but was dead for a 6 to halve the hole and win the best match of the season, 1 up, when Miss Cameron was unable to hole her tricky try for a par.

RAIN FALLS

The final match yesterday, played over a course generously dotted with casual water, beneath threatening clouds that continued to drip precipitation in a manner warranted to discourage less worthy contestants, marked a fitting close to the most successful midwinter event ever sponsored by the Beverly organization.

The two-ball mixed foursome affair, belatedly announced in connection with the Invitational, and scheduled for yesterday was called off. Very few local golfers were acquainted with the fact that a mixed event was to be staged by invitational authorities and inclement weather added the last contributing factor that caused the affair to be forgotten.

Qualifying on the south course, title-fight contestants staged match play over the long north course, while lower bracket golfers competed on the older layout. All finals matches were on a par with the brand of golf exhibited by Miss Cameron and Mrs. Pressler yesterday and the fine gallery that accompanied the championship contestants would have enjoyed any one of the three other final clashes decided yesterday.

Complete final results were as follows:

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT

Mrs. Harry Pressler defeated Miss Margaret Cameron, 1 up.

SECOND FLIGHT

Mrs. Gus Rosendal defeated Mrs. Sydney Glassman, 3 and 1.

THIRD FLIGHT

Mrs. H. S. Browne defeated Mrs. H. F. Collins, 6 and 5.

FOURTH FLIGHT

FIFTH FLIGHT

TWO NEW PARTNERS FOR LENGLEN PARTY

PARIS, March 4. (AP)—Suzanne Lenglen's new American manager, Baldwin M. Baldwin, announced today that he expects to convert two French tennis players to the professional game tomorrow. The Lenglen party will leave for the Riviera to complete plans for a professional tour of Europe this summer, similar to Suzanne's recent tour of the United States.

Rumors continue to circulate that Baldwin may obtain a divorce and marry the French tennis star, but no confirmation is forthcoming from either of them.

DILLON WHIPS PELKEY IN FIRST AT TACOMA

TACOMA, March 4. (AP)—Harry Dillon of Winnipeg, claimant of the Canadian light-heavyweight boxing championship, knocked out Ray Pelkey of Oakland, Cal., in the first round of the scheduled six-round main event of the boxing card here last night. A short right to the chin sent Pelkey down for the full count in the latter part of the round. Frankie Britt, Tacoma feather, and Bud Thomas of Los Angeles drew in six rounds.

SAN JOSE CAGERS COP PENINSULA LOOP TITLE

SAN JOSE, March 4. (AP)—San Jose High School's 130-pound basketball team won the Peninsula Athletic League championship at Redwood City last night when it took the third and deciding game from South San Francisco, 22 to 18. Palo Alto High won the unlimited P.A.L. championship when it defeated Santa Clara at Campbell, 36 to 21.

GOLF SHOW WILL OPEN TONIGHT

First West Coast Venture to Draw Fans; Loos Signs Pasadena Contract

The first annual Pacific Coast golf exposition will open with a putting contest for ranking local amateurs, staged indoor club course, the largest covered miniature layout in the country, in the Metropolitan Building, 315 West Fifth street, this evening.

EDDIE LOOS

Hal Benton, in charge of what promises to become an annual feature in local golf circles, has allotted seventy-five booths, signed for a kilty band—prize drawings, symphony orchestra concerts, professional driving and putting exhibitions and has also lined up additional features that will appeal to members of the golf fraternity.

The exposition will continue through next Sunday with appealing features scheduled daily. Tuesday will be "professional day," and will be turned over to members of the Southern California Professional Golfers' Association. Benton has lined up some very interesting exhibits and the affair should be a success—starting with the amateur, get-together putting tourney this evening. Admission cards may be received from club professionals or at the door.

LOOS SIGNS AT PASADENA

Eddie Loos, Lakeshore Country Club (Chicago) stylist, has signed a one-year contract with the Pasadena Golf Club and will start work with the club's playing membership Monday. Loos will spend the winter season in Pasadena, returning to Chicago each spring. Eddie could be one of the best golfers in the country but loves to teach. In fact, Loos rarely touches a club in competition during the summer months, and as a result is not in shape to cope with Hagen, Barnes, Cruickshank and others. Eddie came very close to getting started in the last $10,000 Los Angeles open. Like Dudley at Hollywood, Loos will be a most welcome addition to the local pro fraternity for Eddie started his golf career at the Pasadena club several years ago.

CALIFORNIA-BRENTWOOD CLUB PLAY CALLED OFF

RAIN DELAYS RIVERSIDE PLAY

Rain yesterday caused the postponement of the Victoria club invitational event, scheduled for the Riverside course. The annual affair will be staged next Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Hagen Third in Open Golf Play in South

SANFORD (Fla.) March 4. (AP)—Displaying a wonderful putting game, having nine one-putt greens, Bill Burke, Clearwater caddymaster, this afternoon at the end of the third round in the Central Florida open, led the field with a score of 215. This morning he had a par and two birdies in a row to turn in a 72.

Al Espinosa, Chicago, was second with 221.

SPANISH RULER TO FACE YANKEE FOUR

MADRID, March 4.—Final arrangements are being completed for polo matches between a crack team of Spanish aristocrats, captained by King Alfonso himself, and a group of leading American players.

The American group includes Stephen Sanford, J. Hay Whitney of New York, and others, who are bringing their own ponies, some of which already are in English stables.

The matches will take place at Casa Del Campo, a private estate adjoining the royal palace at Madrid, and will be preceded by a number of receptions and balls in honor of the Americans.

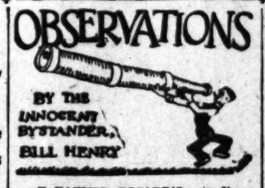
BEAR NINE FACES ST. MARY'S TODAY

BERKELEY, March 4. (Exclusive)—Pre-eminence among members of the State College Baseball Association will be at stake tomorrow afternoon when St. Mary's and California varsity baseball teams meet in the first game of the annual series of three contests. House who defeated the Bears in the opening contest last season, is favored to start as pitcher for the Saints, while Nemechek, the most experienced twirler in Coach Carl Zamloch's pitching stables, will no doubt be called upon to defend the Blue and Gold flag.

CLAIRE CASSEL WINS FLORIDA TENNIS TITLE

PALM BEACH (Fla.) March. 4. (AP)—Miss Claire Cassel, veteran New York net star, won the Florida State women's tennis championship today for the third time by vanquishing Mrs. B. F. Stenz, her fellow townswoman, 6-1, 6-4.

OBSERVATIONS



BY THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER. BILL HENRY

IF FATHER RICARD'S predictions for the rest of the month are as good as they have been for the first three or four days, it looks like a bad month for the athletes—barring channel swimmers, of course. While most of the promoters of outdoor sports for the week-end refused to be downhearted at a late hour last night and were still hoping for clear skies today, it has the appearance of being a damp week-end. Some of the contestants may be pleased and others may not, but it is a cinch that the track and field men would be as well satisfied not to run if they have to perform on a sloppy track. A hurdle race on a wet track is a wild and woolly event.

• • •

The Culver City show for tomorrow is one event that need not be called off until the very last minute for the board speedway dries quickly and nothing short of a pouring rain during the actual hours of the race will force the postponement of the event. Oldtime fans around here will remember a lot of good races at Beverly and Culver City that were run after a young flood and they were some of the best races ever held. On several occasions it has started to rain during the course of the race and the racers have continued on their merry way as though nothing had happened.

• • •

The death of Jimmy Delaney, the St. Paul scrapper removes one of the best-looking lightheavyweights the country had a few years ago. A protege of the Gibbons brothers, Delaney's lightning left hand was a treat to the old-timers and he appeared to be far and away ahead of the rest of the men of his weight. However, Delaney's physique never equaled his courage and he persisted in going into the ring on occasions when he was far from the top of his form with the result that he lost a lot of fights on condition that he never should have lost. Tough luck to get bumped off just as he was getting his big chance against his namesake, Jack Delaney.

• • •

Jimmy was a boxer of the old school, like Mike and Tommy Gibbons. He was fast on his feet, had a fast left hand, slipped a punch without raising his arms and hit reasonably hard, although he wasn't noted for his ability to lay 'em away with a single swat. He was extremely courageous and, according to reports, it was his nerve and belief in his own strength, that kept him alive for several days after the doctors had given up hope for his recovery.

HOCKEYITES CLASH AT PALACE TONIGHT

Two teams which look like very possible champions and which are now tied for first place in the league standing will face each other in combat tonight at the Palais de Glace, when the Maple Leafs meet the Palais de Glace outfit.

Both outfits have nice forward lines and it will be up to the respective defenses to hold these sharpshooters in check or else large scores are apt to be run up.

TROJAN ALUMNI UPSET OVER CRAVATH'S "STIMULANT TALK"

JEFF CRAVATH

Jeff Cravath, captain of the 1926 U.S.C. football team, has created quite a stir in Pacific Coast grid circles by his "Stryc h n i n e Speech," delivered Thursday night at San Pedro. In the course of his talk Cravath is said to have stated that a nationally known football coach follows the practice of giving his athletes a strong stimulant between halves. Cravath is said to have named strychnine as the stimulant administered.

Trojan alumni in Los Angeles were said to be considerably upset by Cravath's reported address before grid athletes of the San Pedro High School. Jeff is to act as an assistant to Howard Jones, head football coach, next fall.

Cravath did not name the coach, but declared that he was known all over the country. The stimulant, Cravath added, made the coach's teams play like supermen in the second half and generally brought victory.

Cravath was said to be surprised at the furore created by his talk. "I didn't name any coach," declared Jeff.

O'LEARY TO CIRCLE BASES ONCE MORE

Dan O'Leary, the perennial pedestrian, avers mud is no obstacle to a real hiker, and will attempt his stunt of circling a regulation baseball diamond base path twelve times in ten minutes at Huntington Park tomorrow. The White Mysteries are meeting the Republic Supply Company at that time, providing rain does not stop the contest.

Grid Rulers Gather Today in New York

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—Facing a prolonged debate over the shift and huddle, with an apparently wide divergence of opinion on whether either should be curbed or eliminated, members of the National Football Rules Committee started a two-day session today.

Suggestions to apply forward-pass rules to the lateral pass, and change the scoring system were slated for discussion along with the verbal tussle over requests that the shift be purged of its illegal tendencies by enforcement of a two-second stop before the ball is snapped. Majority opinion apparently was opposed to any radical step which would hamper the game's attacking features.

Before locking the doors on the discussion, the committee re-elected E. K. Hall of Dartmouth, chairman, and W. S. Langford of Trinity, secretary. Findings of the rule-makers, Hall said, will be announced tomorrow.

Maroons Show New Spirit in Hockey League

As a result of their sensational victory over the Richfield Oilers Thursday night the Winter Garden Maroons loom as a real threat in the second half of the pro-hockey race. Knocking their rivals for an 8-to-4 count, the Maroons captured the roughest battle staged here this year. Police were called in to halt the fighting among the players.

Monday night the Globe outfit meets the Richfield club in what should be a great struggle. The two clubs have met seven times with four victories going to the Globe team.

Richfield, Globe and the Maroons are now tied for first place in the league and a terrific fight looms for top honors.

BANK BOWLERS IN EXTRA-GAME RACE

The team of the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank Tuesday night won the final and deciding game of the American Institute of Banking bowling tournament. The teams of the Pacific-Southwest Bank and of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank were tied for first place honors and the special match was on the Bristol alleys between the two teams. The winning team receives the Bristol trophy. Following are final standings of the teams in the Bankers' Bowling League: Pacific-Southwest Bank, the Farmers' and Merchants', Merchants' National, Federal Reserve, California Bank, Bank of Italy and American Commercial.

VITT PLANS TO PITCH ROOKIES

Will Shoot Young Hurlers Against Cubs

Fitterer, Holleron and Murphy to Twirl

Face Chicago Batters in Friday's Game

BY BRAVEN DYER

If Leo Fitterer, George Holleron and Bill Murphy continue to show the stuff they have been exhibiting in practice Manager Ossie Vitt plans to use them in the league opener with the Cubs at Wrigley Field. This is the first time in a series of exhibitions with Joe McCarthy's Chicago Nationals that Vitt has named a starting pitcher for any game.

JOE McCARTHY

Fitterer, Holleron and Murphy wound up the season with Hollywood last year, all showing great promise. The young pitchers have been exceptionally good this spring, and with the extra instruction given by Walter McCredie, veteran manager and coach, Holleron was the only known of the lot last fall, turned in some exceptionally brilliant work. This spring Fitterer has been showing great guns and if he maintains his present pace he's a cinch to be a part of next Friday's game with the Bruins. The three hurlers are all right handers. Elmer Yoter and John Joseph Malley are three young Hollywood hurlers who look good, too.

Manager Joe McCarthy has a sweet hurling prospect named Lefty in Luther F. Roy, last year with the New Orleans Pelicans. He is, of course, has had more experience than any of the Vitt pitchers. He will be 25 years old in July and is regarded as one of the most likely looking pitchers on the Cub roster.

In Sunday's game against the Bruins, Vitt plans to use Fred Fitzlenback, Curtis Fullerton and Harry Mulcahy. The first two are veterans while Mulcahy rates as a rookie although he has been with the Stars several years. Phil is expected to work the second game of the series with Joe McCarthy's Nationals, the Sunday's game being the first league game on Sunday, the 13th.

Vitt is beginning to get tired of showers. His athletes did not work again yesterday. Between downpours Oscar sent the boys out of the Ambassador Hotel in Hollywood and put them to chasing each other around the block.

If it is damp again today the athletes will probably go to the Hollywood Athletic Club for their gymnasium drill. Chief Drillmaster Sheehan has had the authority to act during the past two days and is yearning for a chance to unlimber his tonsils again.

DOG COURSING EVENT FEATURE RANCH SHOW

The office of the secretary of the Baker Ranch Stadium is being swamped with entry blanks for the dog coursing events which will be regular Sunday features of the Saugus turf program.

Al Wilson, national secretary, who has charge of the coursing events, Wilson reports canine entries have been entered from remote localities as Montreal, Portland and other distant cities, promises a season of thrilling coursing events for Southern California that will be on a par with those staged any place in the country.

for the parking of the thousands of cars in the free parking spaces within the outer fences under the special system laid out by the traffic experts of the Automobile Club, which will completely solve the congestion problem, officials declared.

TRIALS ON TODAY

After the slight rainfalls of yesterday made inadvisable the running of the qualifying trials until today, the drivers began with renewed vigor on their endless tasks of tuning and adjusting their powerful motors. Down in Frank Elliott's special garage on East Thirty-third street he was busy interrupting a radio concert, coming in on the set he built himself, with thunderous blasts from his motor as he kept trying out the intricate supercharger on his $18,000 front-wheel drive race car.

Frank Lockhart and Peter DePaolo, whose cars are on different floors of the big Howard automobile building, were still clothed in their castor oil-smeared coveralls at midnight and showed no signs of calling it a day for hours. Lockhart and Ernest Olson, his Swedish chief mechanician, were making some special calibrations of their supercharger speeds and camshaft lifts with a tangle of test tubes and other apparatus that looked as if it belong to the outfit of a high-class bootlegger.

DePaolo and Tony Gulotta, his countryman, the driver who gave up his own chance for victory in Sunday's classic that his famous Italian compatriot might have a mount, were absorbed in some sort of calculations with compression dials and other paraphernalia. Both are expert automotive engineers, and De Paolo's genius with gasoline engines has been recognized by leading American factories even before he won the A.A.A. championship in 1925.

"My car is ready, and there isn't a thing that I can do to it now," was the declaration of Harry Hartz, the debonair reigning champion, but he and Riley Brett, his chief mechanician, were still tinkering with the gleaming car late last night just the same. "The race is sure going to be plenty fast," Harts said, "and the winner will have to go through without a stop, as I dope it."

Displaying a world of power, Coach Landreth's Long Beach High School five easily defeated Orange, 38 to 14, in a quarter-final game for the Southern California interscholastic basketball championship at Whittier last night. The strong San Bernardino quintet trounced Keno, 18 to 15, in another quarter final tilt on the same court.

Reynolds proved to be a big star for the Jackrabbits and his defensive work was a feature. As a result of their fine showing, Long Beach will be favored to win the championship. The were at half-time was 15 to 7, in favor of Long Beach.

San Bernardino picked a tartar in Keno, and the Gate City boys had to play their best to win. Houser of Keno was high-point man for the evening with seven digits.

VITT PLANS TO PITCH ROOKIES

Fitterer, Hollerson and Murphy to Twirl

Face Chicago Batters in Friday's Game

BY BRAVEN DYER

If Leo Fitterer, George Hollerson and Bill Murphy continue to show the stuff they have been exhibiting in practice, Manager Ossie Vitt plans to work the trio of young hurlers against the Chicago Cubs in next Friday's game at Wrigley Field. The first encounter opens the spring series of exhibition contests with Joe McCarthy's athletes, the Stars meeting the big leaguers again on Sunday. Mr. Krug's Angels fill the Saturday date one week from today.

Fitterer, Hollerson and Murphy showed up the season with Hollywood last year, all showing great promise. The young pitchers have looked exceptionally good this spring, while with the extra instruction supplied by Walter McCredie, veteran scout and coach, Hollerson was the best known of the lot last fall, turning in some exceptionally brilliant games. This spring Fitterer has been going great guns and if he maintains his present pace he's a cinch to win part of next Friday's game against the Brutus. The three hurlers are all right handers. Elmer Philley and John Joseph Malloy are the other young Hollywood hopers. They look good, too.

Manager Joe McCarthy has a sweet hurling prospect himself in Luther V. Roy, last year with the New Orleans Pelicans. Roy, of course, has had more experience than any of the Star youngsters. He will be 25 years of age in July and is regarded as one of the most promising looking youngsters on the Cub roster.

In Sunday's game against the Bruins, Vitt plans to use Frank Shellenback, Curtis Fullerton and Pid Mulcahy. The first two are veterans while Mulcahy rates as a youngster although he has been with the Stars several years. Phil is figured as the most promising pitcher of the bunch. The latter and his wife will be watched with more than usual interest.

Vitt is beginning to get tired of the showers. His athletes did no work again yesterday. Between downpours Oscar sent the boys out of the Del Monte Hotel in Hollywood and told them to chase each other or themselves around the block.

If it is damp again today the athletes will probably go to the Hollywood Athletic Club for their calisthenic drill. Chief Drillmaster Lefty Sheehan has had no authority at all during the past two days and he is yearning for a chance to unlimber his tonsils again.

STONEHAM AND RUPPERT DENY RICKARD AFTER BALL CLUBS

NEW YORK, March 4.—Charles A. ...leading stockholder of the ...Giants today denied printed stories that Tex Rickard had offered him $2,500,000 for his holdings which are about 65 per cent of the stock.

"That is an annual yarn," he said, "and besides the circus is due in town in two weeks."

Mr. Stoneham declared that he had been approached about two years ago by John Ringling, associated with Madison Square Garden, and then $2,500,000 for the Giants. The offer was turned down.

"Nor is the New York Club for sale now," Stoneham added.

Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees denied he had sold or was contemplating selling the club.

"Of course, I have had offers," he added, "but none of them ever got so far as to amount to negotiations."

He was reported to have refused an offer of $4,000,000 from the Rickard-Ringling interests for the New York American League Club, but to be considering still a bid of $2,000,000 for a half-interest.

In the face of the denials, however, Rickard said;

"My deal for the outright purchase of 51 per cent of the New York Giants for $2,500,000 is 'still pending,' but I am no nearer a consummation of the deal than I was when I first started negotiations about six months ago."

RABBIT PUNCHES

by PAUL LOWRY

JAMES JOSEPH TUNNEY may be regarded as a cheese champion in some quarters, but he seems to be turning his vaudeville engagement on the Coast into a popularity tour. Up in Portland, for example, the good citizens arranged an impromptu luncheon at which James Joseph was the honored guest. It wasn't just an affair with a heavyweight fighter who happened to be champion of the world and a few hungry sports writers sitting around, but a real occasion in which everybody of prominence from the Governor of the State, members of the Legislature, Mayor of Portland, editors, etc., were either present or accounted for by a personal representative of importance.

Gene made a neat speech in which he said he didn't believe in capitalizing the finer and sweeter things of life, referring to a visit he made to the Shrine home for crippled children when he refused to let newspaper men or photographers accompany him. The idea for the luncheon came from Mister James J. Dougherty, sometimes known as the "Baron of Leiperville," one of the few men who selected Tunney as the winner over Dempsey before their battle last September. Mister Dougherty happened to be in Portland at the time with a couple of his pugilistic stable and made the suggestion to one of the Portland boxing commissioners which resulted in the heavyweight champion being smeared under a flood of oral bouquets. Tunney has since taken San Francisco by storm and will move in on Los Angeles in the near future.

At the behest of Herr Frederick Clifton Ross, who knows something of automotive advertising but little of fistic reputations, I am constrained to say something for Phil Verde, a newcomer in our midst. Herr Ross has no yen to bust into the art of managing box fighters, but he is striving to give a matchmaking friend a boost along the way.

It seems that young Verde is here for the express purpose of flattening any and all comers in the bantamweight division. Listed in the Rochester boy's accomplishments, according to his handbills, are victories over Chick Suggs, Carl Tremaine, Tommy Ryan, Young Montreal, Jackie Johnston and Pete Zivic, and 'tis said he has also boxed successfully Bushy Graham, Eddie Shea, Bobby Garcia, Jack Rosen, Danny Kramer and many others. If "Wad" Wadhams and Tom Gallery insist upon more information I will have to refer them to Herr Ross, who in turn can refer them to his manager-friend, whose name, unfortunately, is not in my possession.

Whether Johnny Hawkins, erstwhile professional football player and storm center in the year that brought "Gloomy Gus" Henderson's resignation as head football coach at U.S.C., winds up with the Giants or the St. Louis Cards in his baseball peregrinations he has the fighting spirit that should send him far in the diamond world.

In addition to his ability as a first baseman and a walloper with the willow Johnny has the old battle blood that would endear him to John J. McGraw were he to stick with the Giants. In this respect he is almost the counterpart of "Swede" Risberg when the now blacklisted White Sox star was playing for the late Hap Hogan's old Vernon Tigers. "Swede" came off the sandlots to the Tigers and he was one of the scrappiest ball players that ever played in the Coast League. He fought for everything that came his way a second base and he would fight anybody at the drop of the hat. Hawkins is of the same fiery disposition. It was his bellicose spirit that got him into trouble with Henderson after the California-U.S.C. football game in 1924 and eventually led up to the "Gloomy" one losing his job at the local institution.

Southwestern Trims Trojans in Ice League

U. C. L. A., and Southwestern were victors in the double-header staged by the university hockey teams on the Palais de Glace ice sheet yesterday afternoon. In the first game Southwestern staged the big surprise of the day by beating Southern California and doing it by 8 goals to 0, but the second game was close and hotly contested, the Bruins having a hard time to defeat Occidental, 3 to 2.

This victory puts U.C.L.A. on top of the heap, as the Bruins beat Southwestern a week ago. Southwestern and Southern California have won one and lost one each, while Oxy has dropped both games to date, both by close counts.

"Kid" Kunsman, who plays with the Palais de Glace team in the amateur league, was again the big noise for Southwesterns. He and Goalkeeper Cantillon were the chief reasons why the little hill-street college knocked the Trojans.

Doug Hamlin was the busiest player in the second game and was almost continually rushing the rubber up the ice for the Bruins. Frogley was the chief scorer, however, netting two in the first period. The line-ups:

BEAR GOLFERS WORK FOR STANFORD MEET

BERKELEY, March 4. (Exclusive) If the sun will manage to show its brilliant face for a few successive days, California's golf team, anxiously waiting for dry links, will again take up its practice toward the approaching Stanford series. Just as soon as the golfing terrain in this vicinity is in suitable condition to entertain niblick handlers, Manager Felton Turner will arrange a series of matches to put the Bear golfists in trim for the Red battles.

Although California has one of the strongest fairway combinations in seasons, the Stanford strength shows up more favorably with each passing month. Capt. Lloyd Thomas and his nine associates will have to exert themselves to their best performances if the Palo Alto Indian is to be forced to eat fairway dust. Such are the growing indications.

BEAR FROSH WIN AWARDS

BERKELEY, March 4. (Exclusive) Numerals have been awarded to eight men on Coach Clint Evans's freshman basketball team at the University of California by the students' executive committee. The rewarded octet consists of Capt. Willis (Whitey) Nealson, George Eahmann, Jim Grace, Joseph Marini, Grant Smith, Jacob Smelensky and Walter Weber.

California in Poor Shape to Play St. Mary's

BERKELEY, March 4. (Exclusive)—Already entered the win column of the State College Baseball Association, California's varsity nine was today in the midst of heavy practice for the St. Mary's contest on West Field tomorrow afternoon.

Since the Bears had such a difficult time in nosing out the comparatively weak Santa Clara team last Saturday afternoon and the Saints toyed through their contest with Stanford, the Californians are favorites to take a walloping.

Because of the heavy rains and the resultant poor condition of the diamond, Coach Carl Zamloch has been unable to bring his California squad to the high level of efficiency at which he aims.

Inasmuch as the Saints probably comprise the most dangerous team which the Bears will meet this season, it is not likely that Zamloch will switch his star battery of Gus Nemechek and "Whitey" Wiatt in favor of some of his promising but less experienced twirlers such as Jacobsen and Shaefer. Nemechek was credited with his first league win last Saturday. California enthusiasts look for Gus to make a name for himself in the course of the season's games.

RIVERS WINS BOUT FROM MANILA BOXER

SACRAMENTO, March 4. (AP)—Georgie Rivers, Los Angeles, won a ten-round decision over Alfredo Imperial, Manila, in last night's main event here. Rivers was just too much class for the stiff-punching little Filipino and won handily. They are bantamweights. Frankie Novey, Sacramento bantamweight, and Tommy Palacio, battled four rounds to a draw in the semi-wind-up. The crowd booed Referee Bottaro's decision, consensus being that Novey won by a big margin.

IKE WALTONS STILL FOOLING CLUB TROUT

Despite stormy weather, the Rainbow Angling Club was visited by a good many fishermen during the last week, announces Manager Leigh Garnsey. Among the fishing parties were L. H. Denny, L. H. Jones, G. C. Burnell, George Carter, G. H. Letteau, H. W. Sander and T. H. Lowry.

Al Treloar, physical culture instructor at the Los Angeles Athletic Club was among the fishers last week also. He joined the club along with L. B. Hamel and John J. Mitchell of New York City.

JACK KIRK DROPS GO TO JOHNNY ENO

STOCKTON (Cal.) March 4. (AP)—Johnny Eno took a clear-cut six-round decision over Jack Kirk of San Francisco in the main event of a card consisting of five 6-round bouts here last night. Reno took every round and was never pressed. In the semi-windup Kid Reese broke Sailor Kekler's nose in the fourth round and the referee was asked to stop the fight.

TILDEN COPS TENNIS PLAY IN THREE SETS

MIAMI, March 4. (AP)—William Tilden defeated Francis Hunter, former Olympic doubles champion, 6-1, 6-0, 6-0, in the semifinals of the singles round in the South Florida tennis championship tournament today. Tilden will meet Manuel Alonzo of Spain's Davis Cup team Sunday for the championship.

HUNTER ENTERTAINS EXPERT

DEL MONTE, March 4. (AP)—Dr. A. Mackenzie, British golf-course architect and golf writer, is spending several weeks with his friend, Robert Hunter of Pebble Beach. While here he will plan the "shore course" of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club and the new eighteen-hole Cypress Point course. In the British Isles he has constructed more than 300 courses.

Pathan Easily Takes Feature at Tia Juana

TIA JUANA RACE TRACK, March 4.—Pathan, carrying the colors of Mrs. H. D. Cox, won the Winnipeg Claiming Handicap, a mile-and-an-eighth affair, feature of the program here this afternoon.

Derby colts on the whole were kept in the barn today, trainers figuring their hopes are in the best condition possible for the $45,000 added stake, which will be decided Sunday.

Mud is assured for the race, unless the sun shines plenty hard tomorrow. The track was muddy this afternoon and occasional showers gave no chance for drying out.

First race, four furlongs, maiden colts and geldings, purse $800—Heather Sage (Tapiln) won, Cellini (Baker) second, Coronel (Deprems) third. Time, 0:49 4-5.

Second race, five and one-half furlongs, claiming, fillies and mares, 3 years and up, purse $800—Lady Berrildon (McDaniel) won, Miss Emerson (Jones) second, First Pulled (Tapiln) third. Time, 1:06.

Third race, mile and seventy yards, claiming, 4 years and up, purse $800—Remorseful (Peterson) won, Thea (Hyria) second, Zealot (Jones) third. Time, 1:46.

Fourth race, one mile, claiming, 3 years and up, purse $800—Rob Roy (Pendergrass) won, Seattle (Edwards) second, Suspicion (Austin) third. Time, 1:43 2-5.

Fifth race, five furlongs, claiming, 4 years and up, purse $800—Burke's Boy (Neal) won, La Fonica (Peternel) second, Prodigal (Huntaner) third. Time, 1:01 4-5.

Sixth race, mile and one-eighth—Pathan (Baker) won, Shasta Love (Mannes) second, High Prince (Peternel) third. Time, 1:54 3-5.

Seventh race, five and one-half furlongs—Shasta Lad (Austin) won, Ramshine (Edwards) second, Sweepstakes (Dye) third. Time, 1:07.

Eighth race, clubhouse course—Musketeer (Austin) won, Royal Princess (Peterson) second, Valley Joe (Carter) third. Time, 1:37 3-5.

Tennis Squads in Conference Matches Today

With but two more rounds to go, the Occidental Tigers of Eagle Rock lead the Southern Conference tennis teams to date. Three more dual contests are on tap for today when the Tigers, now conference favorites with a victory over the crack U. C. of L. A. Bruins, five-time conference champions, journey to San Diego to oppose the San Diego Staters on the Aztec courts; Pomona and Whittier will battle on the Sagehen courts at Claremont, while the Caltech Engineers journey to the Vermont-avenue courts of the Bruins.

Pomona College, with a formidable array of rackeiers, was put out of the running at the start of the season by the Bruins, but will make a strong bid for second honors now that the Bruins suffered defeat at the hands of the Tigers. The Aztecs have very little to offer the invading Oxy stars and should fall easy prey to the leading circuit team. Pomona will have little trouble with Whittier unless the dope is given a severe jolt, while the Bruins should dispose of the invading Tech stars with ease.

Pomona	2	1	.667
Caltech	2	1	.667
Bruins	1	1	.500
Whittier	0	1	.000
Redlands	0	2	.000
San Diego	0	2	.000

LAST WEEK'S RESULTS

Occidental beat U. C. Bruins, 4-3.
Caltech beat Redlands, 4-3.

BENGAL BABES START BASEBALL WORKOUTS

Occidental College will boast a strong freshman baseball squad as well as a varsity threat in the approaching Southern Conference diamond season. With his basketball duties now completed, Coach Bill Anderson has assumed the burdens of frosh diamond mentor, and he finds a fine array of former prep stars in the catching department he has the former Compton star, Marcus Gartner, who will be ably assisted by Ed Bobbe, football captain and cage star. For hurlers are Harry Muntz and Alfen De Hoag. In the infield there are Arthur Kussman, second baseman; Tom Moser, Roy Gill, Louis Singer, Kenny Howe and Frank Denman. The outfielders are Nathan, Leo Manual and Jeff Davis. Lawrence Smith has been appointed manager of the Bengal Babes.

BULLDOG PUPS HAVE GREAT CAGE RECORD

REDLANDS, March 4.—Pomona College freshmen basketball team has a perfect right to claim the mythical freshman championship of the conference on the basis of not having lost a game, but the University of Redlands freshman team, which landed in second place, claims some credit for having come through a tough season with a good record.

The only game Redlands lost was the first game of the season, lost to Pomona. At that time Lee, captain of the Redlands team, was out of the game, not being eligible until the second semester. Since then Redlands has defeated the freshmen teams of Whittier, Occidental, San Diego, Caltech and U.C.L.A.

SAN DIEGO CAGERS COP CASABA TITLE

SAN DIEGO, March 4.—Coach Dewey Morrow's San Diego High School Class B basketball quintet won the coast prep league championship here today by defeating Coach Norman Barker's Long Beach Jack Rabbits, 21 to 17. The squads were tied for the laurels until today's battle.

San Diego (21)		Long Beach (17)
Otsuka (3)	F.	Merrill (9)
Schreibman (3)	F.	Marshall (4)
Johnson (11)	C.	Wasson (1)
Snider (3)	G.	Wilkinson (2)
Yamagudo	G.	Landis

Substitutions — San Diego: Dobbins (2) for Schreibman. Long Beach: Tucker for Merrill, Voorhees for Wasson.

BEAR VARSITY TRACK TEAM TO MEET ALUMNI

BERKELEY, March 4. (Exclusive)—Should the very somber and menacing blackness of the sky change into a cheerful blue in the next several hours, California's 1927 track Varsity, the first serious challenger for the I.C.4A title since 1924, when Bill Neufeld captained a formidable Christie team, will make its seasonal entry into the sports picture tomorrow afternoon against the alumni all-stars.

MONKS WILL BE WEAKER

Bill McCarthy, Mission Prexy, Has Not Replaced Bert Cole, Star Southpaw, and Ike Boone

BY BOB RAY

Unless William H. McCarthy, the Pacific Coast League's war president, who now acts in the capacity of prexy of the Mission baseball club, lines up some more and capable ball players between now and opening of the 1927 campaign, you can count the Monks out of the pennant-running right now.

Last season Walter McCredie, Walter Schmidt and "Wild Willyum" Leard, who took turns at managing the Mission outfit, piloted the Monks to third place in the local baseball steeplechase. The Monks had a pretty fair ball club last year, but their two outstanding stars, Bert Cole and Ike Boone, will be among those missing this season. Cole, who turned in more than twenty-five victories for the club, was sold to the Chicago White Sox, while Boone, whose bludgeon was one of the most feared in the loop, was drafted by the same major league aggregation.

BERT COLE.

Now had Mr. McCarthy replaced these two individuals with a couple of capable performers the Monks might give the rest of the Coast League clubs a lot of trouble, but so far the Mission prexy has failed to do that very thing. Mr. McCarthy tried but southpaws like Bert Cole and outfielders who hit like Ike Boone are not picked up every other day so it isn't wholly his fault that he failed.

GOT RID OF MURPHY

The Monks also got rid of Catcher Denny Murphy and First-sacker Jimmy McDowell, who came to the Hollywood Stars for the waiver price. Murphy is a better catcher than any at present on the Mission roster, which would make it appear that Mr. McCarthy ought to be chalked up with an error some place.

Rod Whitney, who was farmed out to the Western League last season and batted around the .350 mark, is being counted on as the first-string catcher, with Al Walter, a veteran, in reserve. Unless Whitney has improved a lot since he was with Vernon, the Monks are not going to be at all strong behind the plate.

To take McDowell's place at first Mr. Whitney purchased one "Chili" McDaniel from the Oklahoma City club of the Western League. McDaniel was rated as quite a slugger and a good fielder in the Western loop, but, as has been remarked before, the Western League is not the Pacific Coast League. McDaniel may or may not do.

The rest of the Monk infield will probably find Mickey Finn at second, Gordon Slade at short, unless Bill Leard is still peeved because Slade reported to spring training camp carrying a set of golf clubs, and Bobby Jones at third. Bill Rodda and Wes Griffin will probably be carried for utility purposes. There's nothing classy about that infield, and it certainly doesn't compare to the inner works of the Angels.

FOR THE OUTFIELD

For the outfield the Monks will have Evar Swanson, Bob Gillespie, Tommy Oliver and a lot of other athletes who have not yet proved their ability in class AA ball.

Clyde Barfoot, who doesn't pitch as effectively in San Francisco as he might elsewhere because of the chilling breezes, Jimmy Christian, Wee Ludolph, Herman Pillette, Buzz Eckert, Ed Bryan, Nick Dumovich and Phil Weinert will no doubt do the bulk of the hurling for the Missions. Dumovich and Weinert are supposed to take the place of Cole. Weinert was a flop with the Angels and Vernon and was out of baseball last year. Dumovich, who was with Kansas City last season, has never been very effective since his big year with the Angels that caused the Cubs to grab him before he was ready for the big time.

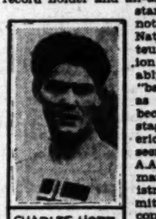
Card Swimmers Picked to Win Over Bear Team

BERKELEY, March 4. (Exclusive)—In this case it is not an example of the lamb being led to the slaughter, but rather the butchering of the Bear. The advertised mayhem will be committed tomorrow afternoon in the outdoor swimming pool at Palo Alto, when the freshmen and varsity swimming teams of California meekly accost the powerful natators of Stanford University. These past many years have witnessed the mangling of the Bear in the water and simply because this season happens to be a wet one, there is no reason to believe that it will prove the exception to history. That the varsity will go down to merciless annihilation has long been a foregone conclusion. The frosh, however, who have not yet learned how to salute and die, may put up a better front.

On Stanford's varsity are such water-going fellows as Wallace O'Connor, Olympic champion in 1924, national intercollegiate distance titleholder and Pacific Coast distance champion; Carl Stevenson, expert 220 and 440 swimmer; Bob Williams and Van Denakker, sprinters; Lawson Thurlwo, backstroke and overhand star, and a multitude of others. California's abbreviated talent consists of Don Gilson, Ivan Sullivan and Arthur Castelazo. What this trio will do does not aggregate very much.

Hoff Declared Ineligible as Pro in Report

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP)—Charley Hoff, famous Norwegian pole vault record holder and all-around athletic star, has been notified by the National Amateur Athletic Union that he probably will be "barred forever as an amateur" because of his stage work, Frederick W. Rubien, secretary of the A.A.U., and chairman of the registration committee, which has conducted an exhaustive hearing into Hoff's case, announced today.



CHARLES HOFF.

Hoff was declared ineligible last May by the A.A.U., after failure to compete in an A.A.U., meet at San Francisco. Alleged expense account irregularities figured in the charges against him at that time.

His subsequent vaudeville engagement, however, is the basis of action expected to professionalise him. The definite decision, although now forecast by a majority opinion of the registration committee, will not be reached for some time, Mr. Rubien said.

Sheik Soccer Team to Play Scots Eleven

Soccer fans who crave to indulge in their favorite pastime will find an attractive bill at Loyola Field tomorrow afternoon, where the Scots and Hollywood tangle in the feature event, with the Sons of St. George and Thistles putting on the preliminary show. The opener starts at 1 p.m. and the afterpiece at 3 p.m.

In the preliminary, the Sons are a ruling favorite to annex the full quota of points from the Thistles. The Wasps have failed to impress all season and they are not rated as an opponent strong enough to stop the fast-climbing Scots.

Different conditions will invest the game between the Scots and Hollywood. The Scots have traveled a rocky road during the league race, but they have at times played sterling football. Should they display the brand of football of which they are capable of playing, they will be a worthy opponent for the Sheiks.

OPEN NEW FIGHT ARENA

CALEXICO, March 4.—Members of the American Legion post here have announced the opening of their new $15,000 boxing arena on the 10th inst. with a card that includes Roughhouse Nelson of Phoenix and K. O. Brown of Los Angeles as the main attraction in a ten-round bout.

U.S.C.-OXY BALL GAME POSTPONED

Two Diamond Contests Are Halted by Rain; Will Meet Tuesday Afternoon

Rain caused a postponement of the opening of the local collegiate baseball season yesterday, when it dampened the Bovard Field diamond sufficiently to call off the Trojan-Occidental hostilities. The tilt scheduled for today also was postponed, but a contest was arranged to be played on Bovard Field Tuesday afternoon. The date for a second game will be arranged later, according to Manager Henry Segretti.

Coach Sam Crawford has pared his squad to twenty-four players. This will be sliced further in the near future to bring the actual total to twenty performers. The faculty athletic committee is now investigating eligibility.

The twenty-four still on the squad are Capt. Leo Guischard, Sahlberg, Gormsen, Schults and Guild, pitchers; Gibson, Coffman, Mikesell and Barnes, catchers; Manlove, Caballero, Gorman, Maloney, Krieger and Al Welch, infielders; Badgro, Dillon, Gellindo, Harris, Hatstand, Dibel, Cochran, Bevington and Floyd Welch, outfielders.

Crawford plans to use Schultz in Tuesday's encounter. Capt. Leo Guiechard will doubtless be saved for the Santa Clara series. The Bronchos appear on Bovard Field Friday and Saturday of next week to assist the locals in opening the California Intercollegiate Baseball League.

Edward Johnson

Edward Johnson, Celebrated Tenor

Why he recommends smoking Lucky Strike —because "It's Toasted"

When smoking, he prefers Lucky Strikes because they give the greatest enjoyment and throat protection.

Lucky Strikes are smooth and mellow—the finest cigarettes you ever smoked. They are made of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process in treating the tobacco.

Smoke Lucky Strikes—you'll like them.

WEST COAST CHAIN GETS LASKY MAN

H. B. Franklin Resigns to Take Over Presidency of Theater Circuit

Hugh B. Franklin, executive of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation and vice-president of the Publix Theaters Corporation, has resigned to assume the presidency of the West Coast Theater chain, it was announced yesterday.

Election of Mr. Franklin to head the theatrical chain on the Coast was made public after a meeting yesterday of the board of directors of the West Coast Theaters, Inc.

Mr. Franklin was a director and member of the executive committee of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation as well as vice-president of the Publix Theaters. Under his direction, the Famous Players-Lasky string of theaters grew to be one of the most important theatrical circuits in the nation. During the past years, he financed, designed and directed the building of more than seven houses in the Publix Theaters circuit.

S. Gore, who has acted as president of the West Coast Theater circuit in his inception, will become chairman of the board of directors under the new arrangement. Mr. Franklin is expected to arrive here from the East to assume the presidency of the West Coast Theaters within a few days. He severed his connection with Famous Players-Lasky Corporation on the 1st inst., after accepting the offer from the local corporation.

Stutsman Asks Authority for Valley Court

Presiding Municipal Judge Stutsman yesterday requested Chief Justice Waste, head of the California Judicial Council, for authorization to establish a branch division of the Municipal Court at Van Nuys and the Department of Justice of Peace Court of San Fernando temporarily vacant.

Judge Stutsman's action was taken during the regular monthly meeting of the twenty-four municipal judges Thursday night when the majority of the jurists indorsed the creation of the new division.

Under the plan he authorized by the Judicial Council and the necessary appointment made, Judge Stutsman stated yesterday that the first sessions of the new division in all probability will be devoted to handling a large number of civil cases now pending in the Municipal Court arising from the San Fernando Valley.

As indicated, criminal actions originating in the valley also will be handled by that division.

TOURIST CENTER PHASE PASSING

Southland Communities Use Exhibit Space to Show Factory Growth

Cities of Southern California, long content to be merely tourist resorts and pleasing home places, rapidly are becoming manufacturing centers—and telling the world so.

This notably is the case with the Glendale-Burbank region, and that centering about Redondo and Hermosa. Both these regions are placing combined displays in the Southern California Manufacturers' Exhibit, 130 South Broadway, and are confining their showings entirely to goods made in their respective communities.

The variety of these has proved a surprise even to those seemingly most familiar with their products.

"We feel," said one representative Burbank factory executive, "that our community will benefit largely by a general showing of the variety of things made there, and that we individually will benefit equally. We will have our exhibit on the floor also, in its own space, but the fact that Burbank will be emphasized as a factory center justifies the community display as well. I think the other communities feel the same way about it, and that it is a fine opportunity to exploit our basic work."

COUNCILMAN ASSAILED ON ZONE PLEA

Request for Business Classification of Wife's Property Held Hindrance

Councilman Barnes was subjected to an attack at yesterday's meeting of the City Council by Councilman Randall in connection with an application for the business zoning of property owned by Mrs. Barnes, the Councilman's wife, and located on Hyperion avenue. Councilman Randall said that to zone Mrs. property for business would create an obstruction to traffic at the entrance to the new Glendale-Hyperion bridge, soon to be built, was opposed by adjacent home owners and was unnecessary, as there was too much property in the district now zoned for business.

"Councilman Barnes has done good work for the Glendale-Hyperion bridge," said Councilman Randall, "and should not ask that business buildings be placed on the Barnes property, which will have the effect of narrowing the roadway to the bridge."

Councilman Barnes absented himself from the Council during the discussion of the zoning matter and was not present when the roll was called on the ordinance changing the zoning of the Barnes property to business. Because of the objections of Councilmen Allan, Randall and Jacobson, action on the ordinance was postponed one week.

ALIENIST ON STAND FOR DEFENDANT

Strange Antics of Man Being Tried on Girl Charge Told by Witnesses

Antics of a man who was said to be known in his own home as the "monkey man," who climbed trees and jabbered at people as they passed and who refused to eat at the family table, were described yesterday in Judge Burnell's court during the trial of Henry Leroy, 27 years of age, on trial on a charge of committing an offense against a 14-year-old girl.

Beginning the defense, Attorneys Cantillon and Hamilton placed the young man's father, James Leroy, a cowboy and former Arizona deputy sheriff, on the stand to tell of the asserted peculiar actions of his son.

Dr. Victor R. Parkin, alienist, testified that he had examined the defendant and found his features resemble those of a monkey, that he lived in caves and climbed trees and, when he was at his home, carried his food to the barn, where he ate it.

Tearfully the father told of how the young man used a black stocking to represent a monkey's tail. He also said he refused to adorn himself with new clothes. Dr. Parkin said the defendant is an imbecile and does not know right from wrong. The young man was a recluse, it was stated.

STUDENT CHORUS TO SING AT AUDITORIUM

Selection of the 100 men and women students of the University of California to appear as a chorus with the Philharmonic Orchestra in a rendition of Beethoven's "Missa Solemnis" has been completed, it was announced yesterday by Squire Coop, head of the music department at the university. The chorus will appear twice with the orchestra at the Philharmonic Auditorium on the 24th and 25th inst. The concert will be in the form of a Beethoven Memorial program to mark the 100th anniversary of the composer's death.

TIRE SHOP ROBBED IN DAYLIGHT HOLD-UP

Two armed bandits obtained $350 from W. M. Fambro, owner of a tire shop at 852 Central avenue, in a daylight robbery yesterday. At the point of a gun Fambro was forced to open the safe, which the men rifled. They escaped in a car parked outside the shop. Neither bandit was masked and Fambro was able to give police accurate descriptions of them.

DISMISSAL SOUGHT IN FRAUD CASE

Defense Attorney's Plea Taken Under Advisement by Municipal Judge

With nearly fifty witness called during the four-day preliminary hearing for E. H. and Mildred Chew, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, involving the asserted bilking of a loan company by the sale of fraudulent open accounts, the prosecution yesterday closed its case before Municipal Judge Ballard.

Former Judge Thomas P. White, representing the Chews, immediately opened arguments on points of law and asked the charges be dismissed on the ground that the deals which resulted in the felony charges were in the nature of loans rather than direct sales as charged. Attorney White contended that any action to be taken against his client should be in the nature of a civil suit.

The defense further contended that the Credits Finance Company, with which the Chew business dealings were conducted, had charged a usurious rate of interest, as the money was advanced to the defendants at 1½ per cent discount, while the law allows but 1 per cent interest charges.

Before taking up the case involving the asserted fraud, Judge Ballard dismissed a charge of issuing checks without sufficient funds to cover them against Mr. Chew.

On the defense motion to dismiss the false-pretense charges, Judge Ballard took the matter under advisement, and set the 21st inst. for decision.

New Grievance Committee for Bar Association

The grievance committee of the Los Angeles Bar Association for the ensuing year was appointed by President Kemper Campbell yesterday morning. Raymond S. Taylor, who will be chairman of the committee, has previously served on this committee for five years. Clement L. Shinn, Earle Daniels and Gabriel Duque, who served last year, have been reappointed. New members are John Keogh, James Roche, William W. Orme, Henry Bodkin and Clifford Hughes.

The recommendation of President Campbell to increase the size of the committees and divide it into four separate departments was adopted by the board of trustees. Those who will be asked to act as associate members to handle the increased work of the association are Joseph Smith, Frank Belcher, Charles C. Montgomery, George H. Moore, Albert Pearce, A. G. Ritter, Loren V. Andrews, M. J. McGarry and Thomas Berkebile.

Child Health Week Will be Held in City

National Child Health Week, or National Baby Week, as it is sometimes known, will be observed by the City Health Department May 1, next, on the eighth floor of the Broadway Department Store, it was announced yesterday by City Health Officer Parrish.

Demonstrations in the care of children, discussions of child welfare and radio addresses will be features of the day. The demonstrations and lectures will be open to the public.

The meeting will be in no way a baby show, but merely a series of demonstrations and conferences that will assist mothers in caring for their children, according to Dr. Parrish.

Commitment of O'Connor Asked by Prosecutor

As the first official act of his new office, City Prosecutor Lickley yesterday asked Municipal Court Clerk Martin to issue a commitment ordering Cyril J. O'Connor, into custody to serve sentence on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses in connection with the disposal of cabin sites near Big Bear Lake.

When he was chief trial deputy City Prosecutor several months ago Lickley conducted the O'Connor trial and obtained a conviction. When he learned yesterday that the Superior Court had denied O'Connor's appeal Lickley asked Martin to have O'Connor, who has been released on bail pending a final disposition of his case, taken into custody.

GIRL ACCUSES POLICE

Suspension of Student Detectives Follows Assault Complaint

Officers L. M. Philbin and Paul S. Winnie, student detectives at Central Station, were suspended temporarily by Chief of Detectives Cline yesterday pending an investigation of charges by Adell Knapp, 26 years of age, that the two policemen had assaulted her. The young woman gave her home address as 1911 West Forty-first Place.

Inspector of Detectives Pinlinson, who was assigned to investigate the charges, refused to discuss the case.

Both officers denied the charges of the young woman, who is said to have admitted having been drinking and to have given a false name when she registered her complaint to Cline.

CONTRACTS LET FOR CITY HALL FINISHING

Contracts for the marble, tile and finish hardware for the new City Hall, which is scheduled to be completed October 1, were awarded yesterday by the Board of Public Works. The marble and tile contract was awarded to the Musto-Keenan Company, which bid $315,563. The Union Hardware and Metal Company received the contract for the finish hardware, which will cost $30,994. The hardware contracts awarded yesterday are for $16,276, and the remainder of the material will be purchased later under unit price bids contained in the Union Company bid.

LOCAL TANKER IN SEA RESCUE

California Petroleum Skipper Reports Incident

Rescue of fifteen Japanese from a sinking fishing boat 200 miles off Yokohama by the Los Angeles tanker Cape Ann of the California Petroleum Corporation, was reported by Capt. G. K. Bergman, master, on the ship's return from Yokohama, yesterday.

The Cape Ann was a day out from the Japanese port bound for Los Angeles, February 11, last, when the crew sighted a motorized fishing smack wallowing helplessly in a heavy sea. Her engines had broken down and she was shipping water and about to sink.

Led by Second Officer Menton, a life boat was manned, but launching proved impossible, and Capt. Bergman took the big tanker alongside the sinking craft and hoisted the men aboard. The smack was abandoned.

The tanker proceeded nine days this way with the rescued men before they spoke the O.S.K. liner Hawaii Maru, recently at Los Angeles, and then bound for Japan. Menton again manned the lifeboat and in a heavy sea delivered the fishermen to the liner amid cheering from hundreds of passengers aboard the latter.

The tanker was on her first trip for the California Petroleum Corporation, having been bought recently on the east coast with three other oil carriers for trade out of this port.

JANUARY CATCH OF FISH BELOW NORMAL

Fish delivered to canneries and wholesale markets at Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors totaled 26,069,042 pounds during January, 1927, according to compilations just released by H. L. Williamson of the Fish and Game Commission. The total, while slightly exceeding January, 1926, which totaled 24,904,538 pounds, and trebled December, last, with 8,974,361 pounds, still was far under the normal catch for January. Shortage of sardines was chiefly responsible.

Sardines in January, last, totaled 34,929,713 as against 24,187,689 pounds a year ago, and against 35,000,000 pounds in January, 1925.

Rock fish, with 301,172, led the thirty varieties caught during January, this year, followed by 197,316 pounds, and barracuda, 193,399 pounds. Sixty-four pounds of devilfish trailed the lists.

More than 500 passengers are due on the Panama Pacific liner Finland the morning of the 8th inst. from New York, several days late, due to a turnback near New York with mechanical trouble. Among the passengers are W. Rufus Abbott, head of the Bell Telephone System of Chicago; Commander G. R. Sailsbury, U.S.N.; Col. W. W. Crosby of Baltimore, location engineer for the Pennsylvania Highway Department; Eugene S. Willard, treasurer of the G. W. P. Construction Company of New York; E. E. Bauer, writer, of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Ruth Collier of Hollywood, personal manager for screen stars and an agent for short-story writers. Mrs. Wilson recently signed Lois Wilson for a picture for First National with Bob Kane. The Finland will make a quick turn-around this voyage, returning from San Francisco and sailing from here the 15th inst. at 5 p.m. for New York to fit into her revised schedule.

The Dollar globe-circling liner President Polk, which left New York with the sign "standing room only," and disappointed many unable to obtain accommodations, is due at Los Angeles the morning of the 7th inst. on her sixty-eighth cruise around the world.

Among the travelers aboard are James Orr Denby, secretary of the American Legation at Peking, accompanied by Mrs. Denby; Mrs. Horace E. Dodge, Jr., of Detroit, whose matrimonial affairs are recently received a national airing; former Judge Samuel D. Ordway of New York, and several members of the Lippincott and Biddle families of Philadelphia.

The liner will embark sixty-three passengers here before she sails for San Francisco and the Orient at noon the 8th inst. More than fifty of them are members of a world cruise party booked by the D. F. Robertson Travel Bureau.

A general exodus of big fishing boats from Southern California for Cape San Lucas, 900 miles south, is expected following the return yesterday of the big tender Nisshin with thirty tons of yellowfin tuna. It is the first such shipment since early December, and it is interpreted by the fishing fraternity as proof that the season has arrived in the Mexican waters. Halfhill Packing Company of Long Beach is reported to have bought the offering at a figure considerably more than $100 a ton.

Headed by Maj. S. A. Lang, a party of ex-service men, according to the Marine Exchange, has purchased the former subchaser 209, renamed her the Intrepid; equipped her with Diesel engines, and entered her in the vegetable trade from Mexico to California. She sailed south February 23 for San Jose del Cabo and is due back early next week. The craft has a capacity of more than 100 tons of freight, and a speed of fifteen knots.

The steamship Calawaii, due at Los Angeles Harbor late this afternoon, will not reach port tomorrow when she will dock at Wilmington at 9 a.m., according to radio advices received from Capt. A. A. Sawyer by officials of the Los Angeles Steamship Company.

With her first-cabin accommodations filled to capacity and more than 200 Philippine and Hawaiian laborers for coast packing-houses, orchards and canneries, the Calawaii is bringing a total of 410 passengers.

Listed in her cargo of island products are fourteen tons of Hawaiian honey, 38,000 cases of canned pineapples and a considerable shipment of crates of fresh pineapples for local commission merchants.

Although injured almost two years ago, and awarded accident damages nine months ago, Capt. T. T. Tallaksen, former municipal port pilot for the city of Los Angeles, still is awaiting the case remittance and now must fight his case over again in the Appellate Court.

He was injured in line of duty May 7, 1925 when he fell from a ladder on a wharf to the pilot boat. His left shoulder and hand were permanently injured and he was dropped from the city's employ.

Carrying his claim to the State Industrial Accident Commission he was awarded $20.83 a week, totaling $854.03 to June 7, 1926. The Harbor Commission was advised by its attorney, Clyde Leach, to pay him, but City Attorney Grafton decided on an appeal to the higher court and the captain must continue to wait for his money. In the meantime he has been given a job as night watchman here by a steamship company, one of scores he served without accident while a pilot.

The Associated Oil Company tanker Solano, which grounded November 3, last at Purisima Point, is to come off drydock at the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Drydock Corporation this afternoon after one of the biggest repair jobs on record. Her entire bottom was remade, the job requiring 500 workmen, and costing $345,000.

H. R. McLauren, agent for several ship lines at Los Angeles, suffered a fractured left ankle yesterday when he slipped while starting to board a vessel at a local dock. Mr. H. MacLampbell said he would be laid up several weeks.

RAINS BRIGHTEN CROP PROSPECT

Condition of Soil and Water Supply Favorable

Local Trade in February Cut by Bad Weather

Heavy rains covering the entire Southwest during the past month have thoroughly saturated agricultural lands to a depth that has not been equalled in several years, and almost insure record crops for 1927, states the monthly summary of conditions issued yesterday by the research department of the First National—Pacific-Southwest banking group.

Ranges and pastures will be replenished by percolation of stream flow and cessation of pumping for many weeks, the review states. With mountain storehouses filled with a heavy snow-pack, a plentiful supply of water for irrigation is assured for the coming season. The soil is in excellent condition for planting of field crops.

QUALITY GOOD

The navel-orange crop now being marketed is of fine quality and good size, it is reported. Markets have continued at strong levels in the face of large production. The Valencia-orange outlook is excellent. Lemon prices, however, are weak. The abundant moisture and cool winter are expected to stimulate deciduous fruit and walnut trees, especially in the south, where the output was very short last year. Vineyards are in good shape.

The winter vegetable season, the book review states, has been unsatisfactory. Production has been increased in most lines and prices have been close to or below cost of production in many cases. Cantaloupe plantings in the Imperial Valley will greatly exceed last year.

TRADE VOLUME HIGH

The volume of business in the Pacific-Southwest territory, as measured by the accepted indices, for February was large, considering the small number of working days in the month. Records of bank clearings and bank debits in Los Angeles show gains of 14.7 and 8 per cent, respectively, over February, 1926, and the seasonal declines of 6 and 8 per cent from January of this year.

Trading at retail and wholesale was quieter, reflecting the effects both of the short month and the inclement weather. Petroleum production again declined slightly, but exceeded the output of a year ago by a considerable margin. New-building permits issued in Los Angeles were moderately less than previous months. Industrial operations, on the other hand, expanded and a number of increases were noted.

The financial situation continues favorable to a high level of business activity. Bank deposits are large, the demand for funds is good and interest rates are at moderate levels in both the metropolitan and country districts. Bond prices have remained firm at close to the high point of the year. Business mortality was somewhat less in number, but considerably greater in aggregate liabilities, due largely to one big failure.

Building-Loan Editor Predicts Large Gain Here

An increase of over $50,000,000 in financing by building and loan companies in Southern California during 1927, or over 40 per cent higher than the total for 1926, is looked for by Henry Rosenthal, editor of the American Building Association News of Cincinnati, who was a visitor to Los Angeles yesterday.

"Building and loan companies here are yet in their infancy," he said, and referred to the fact that in the older concerns in Ohio there is $1,000,000,000 on deposit with such concerns.

This section of California, Mr. Rosenthal declared, is a tremendous field for the financing of new buildings and is on the eve of the most important developments in its history along this line. He referred to the strides made by the companies since his last visit here and noted that they are following the trend of all similar concerns in the east by gravitating toward the center of the city.

As an instance of this, he cited the impending opening of the new offices of the United States Building and Loan Association in the Roosevelt Building. The association recently completed one of the largest deals of its kind in the history of the city by signing a twenty-five-year lease on the ground floor of the building for a total rental of $1,600,000.

WALL STREET PARAGRAPHS

NEW YORK, March 4.—Working on the belief that an extra session of Congress was almost certain and that technical conditions warranted further correction, the bear crowd proceeded to force the issue in the afternoon. Stocks that had been strong earlier were sold freely and morning gains were quickly replaced by substantial recessions. Selling pressure was concentrated principally against the motor shares, presumably on the theory that the recovery here had been too rapid and had left the group vulnerable to attack. General Motors melted before the drive, yielding almost 5 points from the high levels established just after the opening. Studebaker was a special target also, and Mack Trucks, Nash and Hudson felt the strain of the selling in a measure.

United States Rubber Report

Impressive buying was done in United States Rubber before the drive against the motor stocks and the specialities upset the equilibrium of the market anew. Accumulation here was accompanied by reports that the 1926 results of the company will be available on Monday. The figures, it is understood, will make a distinctly satisfactory showing in many ways and will reveal among other things a balance estimated at better than $6 a share for the common stock.

Secondary Reaction Expected

The decline which swept through the list after the turn of the day was not the occasion for any great surprise in speculative quarters. The majority of conservative observers were not satisfied that Wednesday's rather sharp selling movement had gone far enough toward correcting technical weaknesses resulting from recent overdoing of speculation for the rise. And yesterday's abrupt recovery was regarded as merely aggravating the situation. Before midday it was apparent that the market was literally full of stock around the high levels and what followed was in keeping with the expectations of the majority.

The Bear Faction

Bears were able to make progress in a few directions, notably among some of the specialties. Continental Baking shares were readily susceptible to severe pressure, speculative selling forcing considerable liquidation under which both classes of stock were driven down sharply to new low levels. Weakness here was a reflection of growing apprehension over the present $8 dividend on the A stock in view of reports that results obtaining since the turn of the year have not been fully up to earlier expectations.

Pressed Steel Car

Quiet accumulation, which has been evident in Pressed Steel Car, is reputed to be by well-informed people, who are confident that the company has turned the corner. Since the first of the year business has been quite brisk and the company is understood to have considerable further contracts pending. This improvement reflects the resumption of railroad buying after a rather prolonged lull. Feeling is that any appreciable betterment in conditions could easily pave the way for consideration of dividends, in view of the strong financial position of the company. The stock had a book value of upward of $237 a share.

Chrysler Range Narrow

With directors scheduled to act on the dividend after the close of the market, Chrysler changed hands heavily within a comparatively narrow range. For several weeks there has been considerable conjecture on the possibilities of an increase in the present $3 rate. But apparently those who are in a position to know what is to happen have kept the secret to themselves. At any rate, there was a disposition on the part of a good many to realize on profits in advance of the news.

NEWBERRY PROFITS IN YEAR INCREASE

Net profits of the J. J. Newberry Company for the year ended December 31, last, after all charges and taxes, amounted to $762,197, equivalent to $3.06 a share on the outstanding 206,000 shares of common stock, after the payment of preferred dividends.

In 1925 net profits totaled $512,848 or equal to $6.26 a share on the 56,200 shares outstanding at the end of that year. A 300-per cent stock dividend was paid in September, last.

Sales for 1926 amounted to $9,985,073, as compared with $6,897,413 in 1925, and $5,114,338 in 1924. At the close of 1926 the company was operating 112 stores, as compared with eighty-six at the close of 1925, and sixty-eight at the end of 1924.

FILM PLANS ROUNDING OUT

First National Deal May Have More Ramifications; Fox Company Mentioned as Possibility

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Combinations in the exhibition end of the motion-picture industry are going ahead along the line generally predicted last year. The First National-West Coast-Stanley alliance ties together a few more loose ends, and lays the foundation for a strong competitor of the dominant Famous Players-Lasky system. It would not be surprising to hear of further ramifications of this combination before many days pass.

Only a few weeks ago the announcement was made of virtual completion of the consolidation of Producers' and Distributors', De Mille, Keith and Motion Picture Capital companies. This program is sponsored by a group of the younger bankers in Wall street, and is another part of the plan to stabilize and centralize operations in the industry.

OTHER UNITS NAMED

Universal Pictures and Loew's, Inc., are two other units in the industry that have been mentioned in connection with possible merger deals. Fox Film is also a possibility, and may be one of the companies to figure in the further plans of the First National interests. Rumblings of new controlling interests in Fox have been heard recently and it is reported that operations have not been as satisfactory as expected.

The First National deal is the work of the New York Stock Exchange house of Hayden, Stone & Co., which purchased an interest in First National and West Coast Theaters early last year. John Dillon, one of the partners, is now in Los Angeles. It is generally understood that the Hayden-Stone group is working on an ambitious program to center around First National, the result of which will create a company well fortified in all respects.

As the First National combination now stands, the addition of the theaters owned and controlled by West Coast and the Stanley Company of America brings the needed strength to the producing and distributing company that has been lacking. The two theater companies will show a total of about 365 houses in the string, the next largest to Famous Players. Opinion in the industry, however, is that the picture production of First National will call for the introduction of new blood.

OWNS STOCK INTEREST

Perhaps the stimulant may come from Fox Film, since the Fox Company already is tied in through stock ownership in West Coast Theater. About 40 per cent of West Coast is owned by Fox, and probably mutual advantages can be found for a closer relationship. Besides a producing unit the Fox Company can also bring to the combination a number of theaters in the large key cities.

Even with existing 365 houses in the First National combination, the new alliance occupies a position in the front rank as exhibitors. Including the Balaban & Katz string, Famous Players-Lasky, through subsidiaries, operates about 700 houses, while the next largest is the circuit controlled by Universal of about 250 houses. Loew's has about 125 theaters.

LONDON, March 4. (By Wireless)—The preliminary arrangement of the fortnightly settlement shows no increase in speculative positions.

The tone of the markets was good today, although, except for a small rally in the diamond shares, the market was featureless, and investment securities were inclined toward weakness.

French francs were lower. Cables from America indicate that Washington might consent to a French loan in the United States.

Marconi's annual report is being awaited with keen interest, owing to the expected disclosures of big losses and probable changes on the directorate.

The chief feature of the market in the afternoon was the unexpected easing of money rates, and treasury bills were allotted at the lower rate of 4 3-8 per cent. Another unexpected feature was the receipt by the Bank of England of about £200,000 of bar gold.

GARY CALLS SPECIAL MEETING OF BOARD

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, has called a special meeting of the directors for next Tuesday to consider the preliminary draft of the annual report for 1926. It is expected that the board will discuss the form of dividends to be paid on the new stock of the company when it is approved by the stockholders, who will vote on it April 18, next.

Los Angeles and Salt Lake Decision Does Not Alter Status of Valuation Issues

NEW YORK, March 4.—Although the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Los Angeles and Salt Lake case was based on a highly technical point of law, there are probably a few points upon which the average layman investor may safely arrive at definite conclusions.

The first and probably most important of these is that the status of the case from a practical standpoint remains the same as before it was called to the attention of the court, the ruling merely indicating that developments in the valuation fight had not reached the point where the legal authorities were called upon to decide the issue.

The situation might be regarded as somewhat similar to one in which a man purchased a whip with which to beat his horse. The purchase of the whip in itself would not constitute a matter for court action, but if he put it to its intended use a crime might or might not be committed and the act would therefore be suitable grounds for court proceedings.

The effect of the decision cannot be regarded in any way harmful, except that it will keep the issue alive and will therefore maintain the present uncertainty over the final outcome. Nevertheless, most railroad authorities are confident that the question will again come before the courts within a reasonable length of time and that when it does it will be decided in their favor.

A number of points in the methods the Interstate Commerce Commission has employed in arriving at railroad valuations are contested as being unsound by the carrier officials. Probably the most important of these is the failure of the Interstate Commerce Commission to make any allowance for, "going concern" value.

While the valuation contentions raised by the railroad officials are of a highly important character from the standpoint of raising their potential earning capacity, the fact that the Supreme Court did not see fit to rule on them will not react against present earnings. Likewise, current values being warranted by present and indicated returns for 1927, there is every reason to expect they will be maintained.

There are a number of circumstances that may arise which might bring the valuation fight before the Supreme Court again, railroad authorities believe. The possibilities that the commission will attempt to collect so-called excess earnings, however, are regarded by many as the most likely. This, it is held, would bring the issue squarely to a head. Only about $5,000,000 in excess earnings has been paid so far, and a large portion of this has been turned in to the government under protest.

MORTGAGE BOND LIENS ON MARKET

Securities of Carthage Marble Corporation Also Offered Today

New securities announced for offering in this market today include an issue of $2,000,000 ten-year guaranteed gold mortgage bonds of the Mortgage-Bond Company of New York, and an issue of $1,800,000 Carthage Marble Corporation first mortgage 6½ per cent sinking fund gold bonds, Series A.

The liens of the Mortgage-Bond Company, representing Series 12, are due March 1, 1937, and are being offered at a price to yield 5.1-4 per cent. This is the lowest rate at which bonds have been offered by the company in fourteen years, the low yield being in line with the general downward trend of interest rates on high-grade mortgage and other strictly investment issues.

This issue is secured by first mortgages on selected types of city real estate deposited with the United States Trust Company of New York as trustee. The bonds are also direct obligations of the Mortgage-Bond Company, whose capital, surplus and undivided profits of $3,900,000 guarantees the issue.

Taylor, Ewart & Co. is offering the liens of the Carthage Marble Corporation, a company recently formed through acquisition of all the properties and assets of the several companies now operating quarries at Carthage, Mo. The bonds mature March 1, 1942, and are redeemable at 105 and interest on March 1, 1932, the redemption premium decreasing one-half of 1 per cent each year thereafter until such premium shall be reduced to 2 per cent, and then maintained to maturity.

Carthage marble has been produced and marketed for more than forty years, and has been used in the construction of many notable buildings in all sections of the country.

RICHFIELD AND UNION OIL LOWER

Entire Petroleum Group Weak; Edison Common and Investment Also Off

Richfield and Union Oil of California were subjected to considerable liquidation on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday, the former declining sharply to 22 1-2, a net loss of a point, while the latter continued its downward movement to 48 1-4 and closed 1 3-8 points net lower at 48 5-8. Union Oil Associates lost 3-4 of a point to a close at 48 1-4.

Julian Petroleum preferred opened fractionally lower at 8 3-8 and sold irregularly from that to 8 5-8, closing at the high for 1-8 of a point net gain. The common held at 1 1-8. California Petroleum common reacted another 1-4 to 29 3-4, and Bolsa Chica held at 6 1-4. After rallying to 58 in the morning on the strength of excellent earnings report, Standard Oil of California sold off to a close at 57 1-2, a net loss of 1-4 of a point.

Southern California Edison common lost the fractional gain of Thursday, closing yesterday at 33 3-4. Los Angeles Investment was off 2 cents to 2.90. Banditaly Corporation closed in active demand at 112, a firm figure, while Bank of Italy was a point higher at 670. First National sold at 490 and Merchants' National at 387 1-2.

Boundary Cone, Katherine Extension and Sunnyside Consolidated were firm. Western Apex lost a cent to 52, while Morrison Development sold off 1 1-2 cents to a close at 1 cent. Gold Ore added a cent to 16.

LISTING OF NEW STOCK ON DOCKET

Tungsten Company Files Request With Exchange for Admission

Among the listing applications filed with the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and to be passed upon at the meeting of the board of governors next week, is that of the Tungsten Production Company, Inc., of Boulder, Colo., according to a report current on the floor of the exchange yesterday.

The Tungsten Production Company, Inc., organized in May, 1924, as a consolidation of the Tungsten Mountain Mines Company, the Boulder Tungsten Production Company and several other important tungsten properties in that territory, owns approximately 1400 acres in the heart of the famous tungsten fields of Colorado.

Workings in the property total more than 12,000 feet, and consist of eight tunnels ranging from 360 feet to 2400 feet in length, twenty-nine shafts from fifty feet to 600 feet in depth, and numerous adits, shallow holes and short tunnels. The property is located fifty miles west of Denver and eighteen miles from Boulder. Production in 1926 totaled 6908 tons of crude ore of 5 per cent WO3, the gross value of contents being $50 a ton.

The Tungsten Production Company, Inc., has an authorized capital of $5,000,000 of $1 par value stock, of which $3,760,000 is outstanding among 7500 stockholders. Dividends were inaugurated in June, 1926, with a 2 per cent payment, and one distribution was also made in January, last. The stock is nonassessable. Total assets of the company as of January 31, last, amounted to $5,804,110.11.

Officers of the company are J. G. Clark, president and manager; James Cowie, vice-president; M. B. Ray, secretary and treasurer, and J. M. Clark and J. M. Hockinson, directors.

LOCAL PORT TRADE HELD AS GROWING

Foreign Department Bank Head Points to Gains in Exports and Imports

Pacific Coast, and more particularly that territory which is served by the Los Angeles Harbor, is enjoying a steadily growing and greatly diversified field of trade with foreign countries, F. H. Chapman, manager of the foreign department of the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank, stated yesterday. Products passing through this port are of an extremely varied and miscellaneous character.

While lumber is the most prominent of the imports, receipts of coffee, rubber, copra and cocoanut oil are increasing. A great deal of plate and window glass is coming in from Belgium. In this connection, it is interesting to note that Belgium sand is often brought over as ballast and sold at Los Angeles Harbor cheaper than sand from California pits, Mr. Chapman said.

"Strange as it may seem a good deal of fish is imported," Mr. Chapman said. "Usually it is salted, canned or in paste form, and comes from the Scandinavian countries. Fresh mackerel, however, is being received from Ireland. Oriental manufactured articles, such as silk, china and wicker wares, are also prominent among the imports.

"Oil is the chief export, and consists of gasoline, oil, paraffin and lubricating oil. Much of our canned fruit goes out through San Francisco. A few cars of oranges go to Canada during the shipping season. A few miscellaneous shipments picked at random are agricultural implements to New Zealand, seeds to Canada, preserved fruit, tire and automobile accessories to Hawaii, spotlights to Porto Rico, canned fruits to Argentina and rubber stamps to Mexico."

CITIES SERVICE IN FURTHER LIQUIDATION

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—Common stock of Cities Service Company, which broke about 18 points yesterday in excited trading on the curb market, was dealt in heavily again today, about 37,000 shares changing hands by early afternoon, with prices generally above yesterday's closing level. The shares touched 51 1-4 in early trading after having sold at 47 1-8, compared with a low yesterday around 40. The condition of Henry L. Doherty, president, reports of whose illness had been exaggerated, was said to be improving.

Business Philosophy

By William Feather

What a pity it is that more people are not able to put down on paper what they really think.

The life story of every man who does anything worth while is more interesting to me than the best fiction.

For several years I have made a practice of buying the autobiographies of business men, and books on business written by business men.

When these business men put down their real thoughts their stories are 1000 per cent better than the hash that is turned out by the professional biographer or interviewer.

You can feel the breath of life in an autobiography that is honestly written, as you can feel the personality of any author in any honestly written line.

BANK MORTALITY RATE HIGH

NEW YORK, March 4. (Exclusive)—The annoying tide of bank suspensions that rolled up during 1926 reflects primarily the problem of the small institution. At least that is the conclusion drawn by the Federal Reserve Board in its annual report for the year 1926, just published, and in which the board notes that 956 banks with deposits of nearly $295,000,000 suspended operations last year.

In 1925 there were 612 suspensions that represented deposits of $175,000,000 and in 1924 777 suspensions, with deposits of $215,000,000. Both in the number of suspensions and in the volume of deposits involved, therefore, 1926 was a worse year than either of the two preceding years.

Twelve agricultural States accounted for 80 per cent of the total suspensions last year. These States were Iowa, South Dakota, Minnesota, North Dakota, Missouri, Kansas, Michigan, Texas, Oklahoma, Georgia, South Carolina and Florida. This may suggest what obviously is true that the bank failures during the year reflect the outgrowth of a condition that began six or seven years ago. During the period of inflation many banks extended their credit freely and when the decline came in 920 borrowers were unable to meet their obligations, forcing the banks to take over second mortgages in many instances. Naturally the banks in the small communities were hit hardest. For, as a matter of fact, the economic need for the small banks has grown less and less, in many instances, as people in the rural communities have been drawn to the larger centers.

The average bank that suspended in 1926 had a capital of only $35,000 and deposits of $300,000. As the board at Washington itself says, "Some small banks in small communities have found it difficult to make adequate earnings by conducting their business along strictly conservative lines, and have not been able to afford the expense of engaging skillful and experienced managers. The volume of business done by small banks in rural communities, furthermore, has diminished in recent years, as the result of improvement in roads and the wide-spread use of automobiles, which has led many bank customers to prefer to drive to the county seat or other near-by centers and to use the facilities of the larger banks in these towns."

It is, perhaps, only natural and right that the Federal Reserve Board should point out in its report that suspensions during the past three years for the most part have been among nonmember banks. Only about one-eighth of the total suspensions last year were by member banks representing one-fourth of the aggregate deposits of all banks that suspended during the year. To be more specific, of the total 956 suspensions, 796 were nonmember banks. The movement certainly throws fresh light on the problem of the small bank and bears directly upon the changed position that should follow the adoption of the McFadden measure. Hope for the future is to be found not only there, but in the fact that a repetition of the 1926 ills is not likely to come soon again.

HONOLULU, March 4. (AP)—American Factors, Ltd., representing a number of large sugar plantations in Hawaii, made a net profit of $1,343,133 last year, as compared with $1,517,633 and $1,526,110 the previous two years.

Reports to the annual meeting showed that 12 per cent, or $720,000 had been paid in dividends in each of the years 1925 and 1926. The undivided profits were $4,555,901, and the outstanding bonds, $1,200,000.

President A. W. T. Bottomley's report stated that American Factors was in a strong financial condition, and that its prospects for 1927 were "brighter than those we faced a year ago." Assets were $18,033,648.

SHOE STYLE BOOKLET SENT BY TELEPHOTO

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—Telephoto copies of the 1927 style booklet of the shoe industry were distributed throughout the country today. The complete text and illustrations of the eight-page booklet were sent over the wires of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and reproduced exactly for 150 shoe manufacturers in New York, Boston, Atlanta, Chicago, Cleveland, St. Louis, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

(This is the final article of a series explaining the provisions of the Revenue Act relating to income taxes. The articles are supplied by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, Washington.)

No. 36

Under the "information at source" provision of the Revenue Act of 1926, all persons, "in whatever capacity acting," are required to report to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue payments to others during the taxable year of $1500 if the recipient of such payments is single. If the recipient is married, report need not be made if the payments aggregate less than $3500. If the marital status of the payee is unknown to the payor, or if the marital status of the payee changed during the year, the payee is considered a single person for the purpose of filing an information return. A separate return of information for each employee is required of employers. The requirement is not limited to periodical payments, but a single payment must be reported.

Information returns are carefully checked with the individual return of the taxpayer to whom such payments are made. During the year 1926, many delinquent returns were secured as a result of the examination of information returns.

The act requires report of payments of "interest, rent, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensations, remunerations, emoluments, or other fixed or determinable gains, profits, and income." However, payments of the following character, although over $1500, need not be reported in returns of information: Payment of interest on obligations of the United States; payments of any type made to corporations; payments made for merchandise; telegrams, telephone, freight, storage, professional services and similar charges; payments of rent made to real-estate agents (but the agent must report payments to a landlord if the amount paid during the year was $1500 or more to a single person, a partnership, or a fiduciary, or $3500 or more to a married person;) payments made by branch offices of business houses located in foreign countries; and payments made by the United States to sailors and soldiers and to its civilian employees.

Information returns are required on or before March 15, 1927, on Form 1099, and must be accompanied by a letter of transmittal on Form 1096, which shows the number of returns filed. Copies of the form may be obtained from the offices of collectors of internal revenue and branch offices. Collectors, however, are not authorized to receive these returns, which should be addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C., Sorting Section.

Market Reacts After Brief Opening Rally

Continental Baking Slumps Nearly Ten Points

Rails Quiet With Trend of Values Mixed

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—The stock market experienced another sinking spell today after a brief opening rally. The adjournment of Congress without having taken action on important financial bills, leading to the likelihood of an extra session, and the sharp collapse of Continental Baking A, were generally ascribed as the chief causes of the selling movement. Final quotations disclosed a long list of net losses ranging from 1 to nearly 6 points, but many of them were considerably above the day's low levels. Heavy sales again crossed the tape.

Call money held steady at 4 per cent all day, and there was no change in the other monetary accommodations. The weekly mercantile report reported retail business as spotty, but disclosed no signs of general slackening. Statistics published by the Bureau of Mines showed a big increase in gasoline and crude-oil stocks in January. As these failed to have much effect on the oils.

The break in Continental Baking A from 67 to a new low at 57 1-4 revived rumors about the safety of the dividend, action on which is expected a week from Monday. Following closely upon the collapse of Continental common on the curb, it contributed to rather extensive liquidation in other shares, particularly in the drastic decline a year ago had dealt with wide-open breaks in a few individual issues. Floor traders said most of the early selling, but the liquidation soon developed from commission-house sources.

Losses in United States Steel common, General Motors, Allied Chemical, General Electric and a number of other popular industrials were in fractions. American Smelting showed a loss of nearly 2 points, Baldwin, 5 1-4. Chicago Pneumatic Tool, Commercial Investment Trust, Electric Storage Battery, Hudson, Lead, Stewart-Warner and Timken-Detroit Axle preferred also were under hard hit.

Despite the general market trend, bullish operations were not entirely abandoned. Hudson Motors was run up 3 points to a new high at 69 5-8. General Railway Signal touched a record top at 138, with sharp advances were scored by National Mining and Smelting, Paramount Pictures preferred and Manhattan Cloak and Suit.

Rails were fairly quiet with the movements mixed. Wabash preferred B crossed 90 to a new top and Reading common sold above 73, but were unable to maintain its gain. Atchison, New York Central and some of the other high-grade issues were narrow.

Wheat prices were slightly firm

Capital Stock Increase Made by Superior Oil

An increase in the capitalization of the Superior Oil Company from $11,000,000 to $25,000,000, and an increase in the par value of its shares from $1 to $25, were announced yesterday by J. P. Chandler, vice-president, secretary and treasurer of the company. This action was taken earlier in the week at a meeting of stockholders.

At the same time it was announced that two new vice-presidents were added to the official personnel of the company. Fay Wright, geologist, and Clayton Severns, field manager, were given the additional title. They are both directors of the company.

Mr. Chandler stated that the company had no plans at the present which would call for issuance of additional stock, but that it was deemed advisable to prepare for the future. He stated that the company is not for sale, and that future plans call for extended development work on the company's large holdings.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—Trading in the bond market today was rather colorless, but prices held up well in spite of general inactivity. The session in many respects was a repetition of what has gone before. Buyers continued to sit on the side lines awaiting developments, and getting ready for the March tax payments.

The principal interest was outside the listed market, centering in talk of negotiations for new issues. Among these were rumors of a new Italian loan, which some believed to be an advance to the government, while others looked for a $30,000,000 issue for the city of Rome. Progress also was said to have been made on the expected Polish loan, and a $7,000,000 issue for the Bank of East Prussian Landowners' Association was reported almost ready for the market.

Most of the limited demand for listed bonds focused again on such recent favorites as Cranby 7s, Republic Iron and Steel 7s and Brooklyn Union Gas 5½s.

Convertible railway obligations, which have been popular during the past few weeks, were inclined to softness on realizing. Erie convertible 4s and Delaware and Hudson convertible 4s were among the backward issues. Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh 4 1-4s, on the other hand, were in fair demand, possibly because of expectation of improved conditions as predicted in recent statements by President Noonan.

Extreme listlessness pervaded the foreign issues. Even Polish and Italian securities, buoyant in recent sessions, were inclined to heaviness.

Fairly active accumulation of fourth Liberty 4 1-4s featured an otherwise dull day in the United States government division.

Prompt oversubscription of the $15,000,000 Commonwealth Edison Company 4½ per cent bonds attracted considerable interest, as they were sold on a 4.75 yield basis, which is near the low record for public utility liens.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in the open street. To simplify transmission, close is omitted when same as low, and both low and close when same as high.

Wheat Futures Briskly Up on Active Market

CHICAGO, March 4. (Exclusive)—Aggressive buying of wheat futures, headed by houses with eastern connections, caught the local element short at the start, and while there was considerable profit-taking, and also selling by holders of cash wheat, May at the top showed 2c over the close of Thursday, finishing 1.43¾, with a moderate reaction later, the finish at 1.41¾@1.42, or a net gain of 2¾c. New-crop futures were up 1¾c, with July 1.34¾@1.34⅝ and September 1.35.

Corn suffered the strength in wheat to some extent early, but weakened later, and closed unchanged to ½c higher, with May 77⅝@77¾, July 81¢@81¾, and September 85¼@85⅝. Oats were ¼@¾c higher, with May 47¾. July 44¾, while rye was ¾c higher, with May 1.37, and July 1.35.

Possibility of qualifications with March, which grew entirely indicating the possibility of large import deals of wheat by that country, and the attainment of Congress, combined with a decided advance in Liverpool, were instrumental in increasing interest in the market, and trade broadened out materially. Sellers of offers had to scramble to get themselves early, and with buying by exporters that usually act for large eastern trade, a firmer tone was easily attained.

Pronounced strength in Winnipeg wheat futures attracted considerable attention, as May in that market went to 2¼c over Chicago, pulling here for the day, and net gains there were 1¾@2¼c. Liverpool was ¼@1¼d higher on the spot, and Antwerp and Rotterdam, which "liste" corn, reported the aggregate from five ten countries being 8,000,000 bushels for the week, against 18,000,000 bushels the preceding week.

The sentiment was a free buyer of cash wheat with sales estimated at 800,000 to 900,000 bushels in all positions, largely Manitobas, with considerable wheat via the gulf. Julius H. Barnes of Duluth came to talk bullish, and the fact that he did so at that time was a good buyer, but no more change in sentiment. Reports on the winter wheat crop are generally favorable.

May rose sold up to 75¾ early in connection with the strength in wheat, but ran into considerable selling later, and reacted around it to the top and finished at the inside figure of the day, the sentiment slow cash demand and a scattered spot basis being a factor. Receipts 237 cars were small; about 75 cars estimated. Country offerings to arrive were again light, with local buyers inclined to go slow, or at least were on a lower basis. Bunsoe Aron closed unchanged, with March 63 and May 61¾.

Investment buying has appeared in sympathy with the strength in wheat, an advance is generally attributed. Selling by longs and lack of offers was a factor in checking the upward movement, while the late reaction from the top was due to the decline in corn.

There was no material pressure on the market, with wheat strong, it took but scattered notices to absorb about a fair-sized level of wheat tendered, about 200,000 bushels said to be in store.

Provisions were easier at the start in sympathy with a decline of 15@25c in hogs, but were supported by brokers, who usually act for packers, during the commission-house offerings, and the decline was on a good reaction from the inside figures, with lard unchanged to 2½c lower, ribs unchanged to 17½c lower and bellies 2½c higher.

OIL NEWS

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

Further attempt to extend the Long Beach field to the east is being made by Clarence J. Barry, San Pedro operator, who has been active in oil development in the Midway field, according to field reports. Barry has obtained a lease on thirty-five acres on the east side of the Long Beach reservoir, across the street from the Standard Oil Company's Anaheim Union Water Company well, which is the easternmost producing well in the field.

Barry's project is the latest development in a period of activity which is almost unprecedented in the Signal Hill and Yorba Linda districts. The completion of several big wells in unexpected places within a few months has spurred operators to a new interest in the district, with the result that the proven area of the field is being drilled and several new wildcats are trying to establish extensions of the field.

Rate of Wells

The sinking of a derrick by Newton & Jackson, individual operator in the town-lot field at Huntington Beach at the corner of Ocean avenue and Fourth street, adds the last link to the chain of derricks which are strung all along the ocean front of Huntington Beach from the older part of the field, but since the rigs thin out to several blocks there is not a continuous derrick.

Among the operators interested in the drilling of wells east of Seventeenth street are the San Martinez Company, with the most easterly well; Fred W. Roberts, Jackson, J. Bolton, the Concord Oil Association, the Western Drilling and Producing Company, the Crudoil Company and the Ahlburg Gasoline Corporation.

Rate to Set Pipe

The Superior Oil Company has started in its Etchandy No. 1 well in the diamond district of the Richfield field and is ready to set a string of surface casing, according to field reports. The well is down about 600 feet. The Etchandy well is about 800 feet from the Richfield No. 1 well of the Continental Company, which was completed several weeks ago with an initial production of about 500 barrels a day.

Well 200 Feet

The official information regarding the San Martinez Oil Company's well, a closed eastern outpost of the Huntington Beach Town-lot field is unavailable, unofficial reports as to the depth of the well at about 200 feet. Reports as to the showings of oil differ principally in the amount of oil sand penetrated, the most optimistic estimate being that 200 feet has been in oil sand all of the way from 3143 feet where the drilling was set.

Rate for Lease

The McKeon Drilling Company has been negotiating for the lease of about eighty acres on Gaffey street, eleven miles northwest of the Ventura avenue field at Elsmere, according to field reports. The land is the property of J. B. Lankershim and adjoins the Sulphur Mountain Petroleum Company's lease of 200 acres, which is now being operated by the Continental Oil Company.

The Continental has a well drilling on the Sulphur Mountain property at about 1600 feet, and is said to have picked up a good oil sand in indications of production. Small production is known to have been found at shallow depths twenty years ago in this district which is now regarded by several large companies who have holdings there.

Rate Well

The Standard Oil Company yesterday completed a well on the Bolsa Chica Gun Club property at Huntington Beach, according to official reports. The well is the Bolsa No. 27 and was completed at a depth of 2,000 feet, and came in with an initial production of 275 barrels a day of 36 gravity oil.

Rate Arrested

Officials of the authorities of Huntington Beach have placed under arrest Ed Wright, an employee of the Standard Oil Company, on a charge of maintaining a public nuisance. According to City Engineer Merwin Taylor, who made the arrest, Wright is charged with allowing oil and water to drain from the sumphole of a derrick which was in his charge into the street. Wright pleaded guilty, and paid a fine of $50 and costs.

Rate Following the recent rainy weather the streets of the Huntington Beach town-lot field have been rendered muddy by waste flowing from the wells, but Wright's arrest is the first because of the oil companies being held responsible for the situation.

Telephone Talk With Girl Ends in Man's Arrest

Late yesterday afternoon Charles C. Goodenow, 36 years of age, called Miss Lorraine Whipple by phone and proceeded to speak to her plainly and with no qualifications. Miss Whipple's employer, Sam Horowitz, an attorney, got on an extension phone and listened in at the girl's request.

A few hours later Goodenow appeared at Eleventh and Figueroa streets expecting to meet Miss Whipple. Instead he met Detective Lieutenants Ackley and Platt. They hauled him to a cell at Central Station and there he remains on a fugitive charge involving grand larceny in Chicago.

Miss Whipple, at the conclusion of the phone conversation, had promised to meet Goodenow, but she sent the detectives as her emissaries instead after informing them that Goodenow had told her he was wanted in Chicago.

UNIVERSITY RECEPTION ANNOUNCED

Event Next Thursday Will Celebrate Affiliation in Educational Work

Cards of invitation have been issued by the University of California at Los Angeles to the members of the MacDowell Club of Allied Arts and the faculty of the university for a reception next Thursday evening at the university, 855 North Vermont avenue, which will celebrate the culmination of plans for an affiliation between the club and the university.

The program will include an address by Dr. Ernest C. Moore, president, and special music by the music department.

The idea of affiliation, originating with Mrs. Ralph Laughlin, president of the MacDowell Club, and enthusiastically adopted by Dr. Moore, has as its object an extension of the usefulness of the club in the fostering of American creative art in its several branches, a closer bond of interest between the university and the life of the community, and the benefit of students of the fine arts through the programs given twice monthly by the club.

The MacDowell Club of Los Angeles is one of many clubs of the name established throughout the United States as a memorial to Edward MacDowell, the foremost American composer, who was also a painter and a poet. The local organization celebrated its ninth anniversary on the evening of February 26, last, at the present club home, 3801 Beverly Boulevard.

Suicide Madness Adds Four More Student Victims

OAKLAND, March 4. (AP)—Blakely Dales Farrar, 15 years of age, a high-school student here, committed suicide last night by shooting himself with a rifle. His mother ascribed his act to a mild reproof for a "bad conduct" mark on his school report card. He left an incoherent note saying he had killed himself to save his mother and sister humiliation.

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP)—Herbert Willett, a 16-year-old student at Central High School here, committed suicide in the corridor of the school building today, by shooting himself through the head with a pistol. The boy's mother, a teacher in the school, was within hearing of the shot.

CAMBRIDGE (Eng.) March 4. (AP)—The body of Mervyn Rees-Davies, only son of Sir Colin Rees-Davies, former Acting Colonial Secretary, was found hanging in his room as Corpus Christi College, Cambridge University. He was 21 years of age.

HARRISBURG (Pa.) March 4. (AP)—Charles Thomas Shaffer, 19 years of age, a high-school senior, shot and killed himself today in his room where he had gone to study. His parents could give no reason for his act.

Check Passer Suspect Held After Battle

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4. (AP)—George Webster, 37 years of age, an ex-convict who, police say, admits passing hundreds of bad checks in San Francisco and Los Angeles, was captured in a physician's office here today after a desperate battle with a detective.

"Times" Daily Short Story

Telemachus, Friend

By O. HENRY

"'This Chinaman,' goes on Paisley, 'was the one that shot a man named Mullins in the spring of '97, and that was—'"

"I HAD a friend once," said Telemachus Hicks, of the entitlement of Paisley Fish.

"One summer me and Paisley gallops down into these San Andres Mountains for the purpose of a month's surcease and levity, dressed in the natural store habiliments of man. We hit this town of Los Pinos, which certainly was a roof-garden spot of the world, and flowing with condensed milk and honey. It had a street or two, and air, and hens, and a eating-house; and that was enough for us.

"We strikes the town after supper-time, and we concludes to sample whatever efficacy there is in this eating-house dowsed by the railroad tracks. By the time we had sat down and pried up our plates with a knife from the red oil-cloth, along intrudes Widow Jessup with the hot biscuit and fried liver.

"Now, there was a woman that would have tempted an anchovy to forget his vows. She was not so small as she was large; and a kind of welcome air seemed to mitigate her vicinity. The pink of her face was the in boc signo of a culinary temper and a warm disposition, and her smile would have brought out the dogwood blossoms in December.

"Widow Jessup talks to us a lot of garrulousness about the climate and history and Tennyson and prunes and the scarcity of mutton, and finally wants to know where we came from.

"'Spring Valley,' says I.

"'Big Spring Valley,' chips in Paisley, out of a lot of potatoes and knuckle-bone of ham in his mouth.

"That was the first sign I noticed that the old fidus Diogenes business between me and Paisley Fish was ended forever. He knew how I hated a talkative person, and yet he stampedes into the conversation with his amandments and addendums of syntax. On the map it was Big Spring Valley, but I had heard Paisley himself call it Spring Valley a thousand times.

"Without saying any more, we went out after supper and set on the railroad track. We had been pardners too long not to know what was going on in each other's mind.

"'I reckon you understand,' says Paisley, 'that I've made up my mind to accrue that widow womar as part and parcel in and to my hereditaments forever, both domestic, sociable, legal, and otherwise, until death us do part.'

"'Why, yes' says I, 'I read it between the lines, though you only spoke one. And I suppose you are aware,' says I, 'that I have a movement on foot that leads up to the widow's changing her name to Hicks, and leaves you writing to the society column to inquire whether the best man wears a japonica or seamless socks at the wedding!'

"There'll be some hitauses in your program,' says Paisley, chewing up a piece of a railroad tie. 'I'd give in to you,' says he, 'in most any respect if it was secular affairs, but this is not so. The smiles of a woman,' goes on Paisley, 'is the whirlpool of Squills and Chalybeates, into which a vortex the good ship Friendship is often drawn and dismembered. I'd assault a bear that was annoying you,' says Paisley, 'or I'd indorse your note, or rub the place between your shoulder-blades with opodeldoc the same as ever; but there my sense of etiquette ceases. In this fracas with Mrs. Jessup we play it alone. I've notified you fair.'

"And then I collaborates with myself, and offers the following resolutions and by-laws:

"'Friendship between man and man,' says I, 'is an ancient historical virtue enacted in the days when men had to protect each other against lizards with eighty-foot tails and flying turtles. And they've kept up the habit to this day, and stand by each other till the bellboy comes up and tells them the animals are not really there. I've often heard,' I says, 'about ladies stepping in and breaking up a friendship between men. Why should that be? I'll tell you, Paisley, the first sight and hot biscuit of Mrs Jessup appears to have inserted a oscillation into each of our bosoms. Let the best man of us have her. I'll play you a square game, and won't do any underhanded work. I'll do all my courting of her in your presence, so you will have an equal opportunity. With that arrangement I don't see why our steamboat of friendship should fall overboard in the medicinal whirlpools you speak of, whichever of us wins out.'

"'Good old hoss!' says Paisley, shaking my hand. "'And I'll do the same,' says he. 'We'll court the lady synonymously, and without any of the prudery and bloodshed usual to such occasions. And we'll be friends still, win or lose.'

"At one side of Mrs. Jessup's eating-house was a bench under some trees where she used to sit in the breeze after the southbound had been fed and gone. And there me and Paisley used to congregate after supper and make partial payments on our respects to the lady of our choice. And we was so honorable and circuitous in our calls that if one of us got there first we waited for the other before beginning any gallivantery.

"The first evening that Mrs. Jessup knew about our arrangement I got to the bench before Paisley did. Supper was just over, and Mrs. Jessup was out there with a fresh pink dress on, and almost cool enough to handle.

"I sat down and after a while I felt a kind of sensation in my left side—something like dough rising in a crock by the fire. Mrs. Jessup had moved up closer.

"'Oh, Mr. Hicks,' says she, 'when one is alone in the world, don't they feel it more aggravated on a beautiful night like this?'

"I rose up off of the bench at once.

"'Excuse me, ma'am,' says I, 'but I'll have to w

SCRATCHED ITCHING SKIN UNTIL IT BLE

Relieved at once by a simple treatm-

Evens City, Pa., April 2:—"Some time ago I had a bad case of eczema and vine poisoning. At times I scratched my skin until the blood ran. Then our family doctor advised me to use Resinol Soap and Ointment. I obtained relief at once and before long new, healthy skin had taken the place of the sores. If Resinol should ever fail I would never be without it as I do not think there is a soap or ointment on the market their equal, and it seems to me they have tried almost all of them. Resinol Soap is most refreshing and pleasant to use, and Resinol Ointment has a quick healing power. I have recommended these products to many people and expect to do so time to do so." (Signed) L. "THE MIRACLE" ENDS TONIGHT

Epochal Spectacle to Have Grand Finale

Benefit of Performances to City Disclosed

After two years and three months of continued success throughout the United States, "The Miracle," pro-duced by Morris Gest and staged by Max Reinhardt, will close its Ameri-can run tonight at the Shrine Audi-torium. Every principal in the cast who has appeared in the spectacle since its New York premiere on Jan-uary 15, 1924, will take part in the closing performance.

The tremendous success of the pro-duction has been due in large mea-sure to the manner in which it has been backed financially by business men throughout the country. After the season in New York, Gest an-nounced that the run of the spec-tacle was over. A committee of prominent citizens, backed with cer-tified checks and a contract guaran-teeing the expense of moving the gi-gantic production, persuaded the pro-ducer to present "The Miracle" in the Los Angeles auditorium. Municipal committees in charge of backing the production in Cin-cinnati, St. Louis, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia and Kansas City.

Gest brought it to California with a guarantee fund, and it played to capacity houses here as in San Francisco.

Tonight's closing performance will mark the appearance of Lady Diana Manners and Elisabeth Schirmer as the Madonna, and Iris Tree, Elinor Bowmont and Blinchot and Mary Ballancra as the Nuns.

It was announced yesterday that a total of $251,000 had been spent by the production in Los Angeles for rent of the Shrine Auditorium, newspaper advertising, orchestra sal-aries, bands, local persons en-gaged in the chorus, local labor for building the auditorium stage and for local transfer companies and rail-roads.

It was estimated also that $58,800 had been spent here by the 244 members of the company, and that 150,000 vis-itors had witnessed the production and had spent enough additional money to create a grand total of $1,000,000 brought to Los Angeles as a result of the seven weeks' showing of the spectacle.

Lorentz, White, Warburg Are Guests of Famed Scientist and Wife

Special to The Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, March 4.—Dr. H. A. Lorentz, world-famous physicist, Wil-liam Allen White, editor and author, and Paul Warburg, banker of New York City, were the guests of hon-or at a dinner party given by Dr. and Mrs. Robert A. Millikan at the Athenaeum Club tonight.

Dr. Lorentz is from Leyden Uni-versity, winner of one of the Nobel prizes, and is now lec-turing at the California Institute of Technology. Mr. White, editor of the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette, is in Southern California giving a series of lectures at different educational institutions. Mr. Warburg is a win-ter visitor here.

Following the dinner, Dr. Lorentz, who is president of the committee on international co-operation of the League of Nations interested in bring-ing about a better international un-derstanding, led the discussion that followed along that line.

Members of the faculty of California and its sister institutions of the country were invited into the party by all of the men guests. Mr. White discussed the subject of American history and Mr. Warburg called particular attention to the economic aspects of that subject.

WORK SEES DANGER FOR IMPERIAL

Secretary Tells Council Department Sympathetic But Congress Ties Hands

The danger to Imperial Valley from floods this year, due to heavy snow-fall in the mountains, was pointed out yesterday by Secretary of the Interior Work in a telegram received by President Workman of the City Council.

The telegram was in response to a Council resolution presented by Councilman Hall and telegraphed to Washington urging an appropriation by Congress for Imperial Valley pro-tection work.

The failure of Congress to make the appropriation, Secretary Work said, placed the burden of protection on the affected communities, with which the United States Reclamation Service would be glad to co-operate with ad-vice as to the work to be done, as the Federal service could do nothing more on account of lack of funds.

"I share fully your solicitude re-garding danger of injury from floods during the coming summer to the irrigation communities along the low-er Colorado. I trust the communi-ties threatened will take all possible precautionary measures to protect themselves from inundation.

"The Bureau of Reclamation of this department is ready to aid and co-operate in every way possible. In the absence of funds about all that can be done is to share in your counsels and give those interested the benefit of the bureau's experience.

"I hope to inspect the threatened district in company with the Com-missioner of Reclamation about May 1. The failure to reach a vote on the Swing-Johnson bill at this session of Congress is regretted. Its passage would have reassured the imperiled communities and would have inaugu-rated one of the most valuable and beneficent developments of our re-sources undertaken during the pres-ent generation."

Presiding Judge Stutsman of the Municipal Court will act as chair-man of the affair. Judge Haslett of the Superior Court and Prof. Arnold H. Wagner also will speak. Lawrence Jones, an alumnus of the institu-tion, who founded the Pinney Woods Industrial School in Mississippi for negroes, will be present with his Cot-ton Blossom Quartet to furnish mu-sic. MISSION PLAY ON TONIGHT

Great Pageant Drama of Founding of California to be Given Before Invited Patrons

All the color, glamour and romance of early Californian days will live again in old San Gabriel tonight, with the opening performance in the beautiful new Mission Playhouse of John Steven McGroarty's famous Mission Play.

Through sixteen consecutive sea-sons the fine old drama and pageant of California history has been shown to more than 2,000,000 persons, but tonight's opening is distinctive in that the spectacle will be shown for the first time in a $650,000 theater, designed and constructed for this one great play alone.

Tonight's audience will include only invited guests. California men and women who have contributed $100 or more to the fund for the furnishing of the new playhouse, and whose names as patrons will be printed in an elaborate souvenir pro-gram prepared for the opening.

ROLL CALL OF MISSIONS

Pointing to the fact that the Mis-sion Play is a story for all Californ-nia, not a drama emphasizing or idealizing one section of the State alone, a striking feature of the open-ing will be a roll call of the twenty-one missions of California. From So-noma to San Diego delegations will be present to represent their mis-sions, and as the roll call is sound-ed delegates will rise from the audi-

His election as an honorary mem-ber was announced at a luncheon of the All-Year Club's advertising com-mittee at the Alexandria. The ap-preciation of the committee for the help given by Mr. Peck in the adver-tising of Los Angeles and Southern California was voiced to him through an illuminated testimonial that said:

It is the hope of those whom he has aided in the work of the advertising committee that he may accept this honorary membership as a token of their af-fection and esteem and as an evi-dence of their appreciation of the service to Los Angeles and Southern California given through so many years by him."

This was signed by the four mem-bers of the advertising committee: Paul Armstrong, assistant general manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange; John B. Browne, advertising manager of the Ambasse-dor and Alexandria; Don Francisco, Pacific Coast manager of Lord & Thomas & Logan, and C. C. WHITE LAUDS CONSTITUTION

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, March 4.—The idea, uttered by John Locke in the seven-teenth century, that man has certain inalienable rights from birth which the State cannot take from him, has been the guiding force of the development of the American nation, said William Allen White, widely known editor and author of Emporia, Kan., who addressed the student assembly of the California Institute of Technology today.

The sage of Emporia confined most of his remarks to an account of the progress of the first two cycles in American history—the Revolutionary cycle and the antislavery cycle, as he termed them, the latter including the Civil War.

Locke's idea of the rights of man was the cause of both the American Revolution and the Civil War, he said, adding that it should be con-sidered, however, not as a thesis that brings war but as one that promotes the development of the hu-man race.

All the benefits derived from the Revolution and the Civil War could have been obtained without war, White said. War's tragedy is not only in its immediate toll of death and de-struction but in the after effects of the hates it engenders, and in the folly and futility that these hates create. The bravery of battle is not carried home by the soldiers after-ward, he said.

"The Declaration of Independence became a world-wide statement of the thesis of Jesus in political terms," he declared. "Out of it came our Con-stitution, judged pragmatically as the wisest political document written by man. It has worked. Ours is the old-est written charter on the globe which has survived the wrack and expan-sion of modern ideas under which all other written constitutions have crumbled."

Epochs are not begun by men in plug hats, White said, emphasizing the importance of the common man over that of politicians. The politi-cian is a creature of self-interest who identifies himself with one side or another of a public upheaval for his own benefit, and then dies a states-man, he asserted.

His talk was the first of a series of three lectures on American his-tory which he will give before the California Institute of Technology students in the next week.

PROTESTS DENIED

Protests against the paving of Rowena avenue from Aloha street to Los Feliz Boulevard, have been denied by the City Council and the improve-ment ordered to proceed.

As was the case the day previous yesterday's rain was rather general up and down the coast. Lowered temperatures turned the rain to snow on the mountain areas even at com-paratively low altitudes.

SNOW FALLING

Mt. Wilson reported snow falling throughout most of the day, with an-other twelve inches on the level and snow falling at nightfall. Other peaks turned in similar reports. Those in the mountains repeated former warn-ings to automobilists not to attempt to drive on the mountain roads and grades without being properly with skid chains and shovels. One or two cars in trouble on a mountain grade because of improper equipment may spoil a trip for many other cars com-ing behind.

Reports from Ranger Kerr at Se-quoia National Park giving results of a snow-measuring trip made by him-self and Ranger Brooks of Giant For-est a few days ago, showed twelve feet of packed snow on the flat at Panther Meadow at an altitude of 8650 feet. This depth of snow has a water content equivalent to 102 inches of rainfall. A heavy ice cake indi-cated heavy rainfall following the snow, which brought the precipitation total at Giant Forest nearly to the three-and-one-half foot mark, nearly double that of last year. The High Sierra snowfall is expected this year to equal the record year of 1906.

WIRES STILL OUT

Twelve inches of snow fell on Mt. Lowe up to 5 p.m. yesterday, the heaviest fall at any time during the past two years, and the fall was still continuing, though not heavily. Snow reached a depth of eighteen inches on the summit. Opid's camp on the west fork of the San Gabriel also had twelve inches, and Valley Forge, on the same stream, had five inches. There was about fifteen inches of snow on the ground at Prairie Forks, on the east fork of the San Gabriel, and Big Pines recreation park had a similar amount. Roads to Big Pines were reported open.

Mt. Wilson had .50 of an inch of rain, the Big Santa Anita ranger sta-tion .67, Alta Canada .63, Pacoima Lake .62, Teddy's Outpost in the Ar-royo Seco .40, San Gabriel Intake .50, Brydon's Camp 1.00, Thompson Creek Dam .75, Wildwood Lodge in Big Tu-junga Canyon .57.

At several points in the mountains, the County Flood Control District reported telephone communication broken in the recent storm, had not yet been restored and reports were not available.

CATALINA SURE OF ITS WATER SUPPLY

For the first time in its history Catalina Island is assured of an abundant water supply not only for the coming summer season and its thousands of tourists but also for a period of several years. The Thomp-son Dam at Middle Ranch, built two years ago by William Wrigley, Jr., at an expense of close to $1,000,000, is flowing over the spillway. It is es-timated to hold 2,000,000 gallons. The inland lake covers 200 acre feet and has an average depth of 200 feet. The walls of the dam are ninety feet high.

The scarcity of water has long been the handicap of Catalina Island. Be-cause of its dearth the Indians be-came practically extinct on the island and the story goes that for the same reason Gov. Pio Pico traded the island to Don Coverrubias for a horse and silver saddle in the early days of California.

When Catalina was first converted into a tourist resort water for do-mestic purposes had to be shipped over from the mainland. Mr. Wrigley expended a fortune in drilling wells for water and finally to insure the island of an inexhaustible supply

RAIN ENDS LONG DRY CYCLE

Surplus Increases Ground Storage, Providing Crop Insurance for Years Ahead

With the rainfall continuing throughout yesterday and the weather forecast indicating possible showers today, ranchers and growers in general emphasize the fact that every additional inch of rain insures a greater water supply for Southern California to store up underground against dry years. It was pointed out that the end of one of the most protracted dry cycles Southern California has experienced since the Weather Bureau was estab-lished, apparently is at an end.

The average annual rainfall in Los Angeles for the past forty-seven years or so is 15.24 inches. A dry cycle began in 1897-98 with the year's total rainfall 7.06 inches; 1898-99 with 5.59 inches, and 1899-1900 with 7.91 inches.

WET YEARS INTERVENE

These dry years came in between a string of fairly wet years. More recently, beginning with 1918, with a total of 8.58 inches, 1919, with 12.52 inches, 1920 with 13.65 and the win-ter of 1921-22 with 19.66 inches, gave an average annual for those years of only a little more than 13.50 inches. This was then followed by three very dry years, beginning with 1922-23 season with 9.25 inches, 1923-24 with 6.67 inches and 1924-25 with 6.51 inches.

The season's total up to this time last year was only 9.63 inches, but heavy rains the latter part of March and during April pulled it up to 17.56 inches just when it was needed most imperatively. The big total be-ing piled up this year indicates that the prolonged dry cycle is at an end and a series of years with normal rainfall or better is at hand.

STORAGE INCREASED

The importance of this, it is pointed out, lies in the fact that Southern California irrigates by far the greater portion of its irrigated area by pumped water, drawn from underground natural reservoirs, which in turn are fed by the waters that drain through the subterranean gravel beds from the mountain and foot-hill canyons. This great underground water supply requires these years of above-normal rainfall to carry them over during the dry years. That is what the weather man means when he says that the rainfall this year from now on is "pure velvet."

Further replenishment of the wa-ter supply in the canyon gravel beds is promised when the snow begins to melt on the mountains in the spring. The San Gabriel River, for instance, will probably be running water the greater part of the summer, for the first time in years.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

IT OCCURS to me that the friendly old bartender in the corner saloon is not dead, but only purified.

He lives again in the sprightly and attractive personality of the boy at the gasoline station.

THE PUBLIC COMFORTER

Nobody went to the corner sa-loon in the ancient days for the single purpose of imbibing beer.

They went for sympathetic com-mune with the bartender. Clancy wanted to lean over the bar and tell the expert with the bung-starter how his daughter Katie was for getting married to the good-for-nothing son of Nick the Greek. And O'Halloran whispered his polit-ical ambitions.

But the women were deprived of this opportunity for self-expres-sion.

WOMAN'S DAY

Now a feminist age has come to overwhelm us. Girls crowd us out of the barber chairs; and an English girl has just finished a tour as engineer in the mysterious depths of an ocean liner.

And so they have a substitute for the barkeep of their own—the boy at the gas station.

AN IMPROVED MODEL

He is a rebuilt and improved model. In eight cases out of ten he is a college boy of the most charming and sympathetic man-ners.

Natacha Rambova, the former wife of Rudolph Valentino, told me that when she couldn't stand the gabble of Hollywood a minute longer she always went down to the gasoline station and talked to the filling boys; there she could find real intellectual zest and cul-ture.

WHAT PRICE COURTESY

Gasoline stations are inter-esting in other ways.

Nowhere in the world has the commercial value of good manners and courtesy been so well recog-nized as in the American filling stations.

And nowhere does the trade re-act so quickly to discourtesy. An unwilling answer to the request of a man who wants the air in his tires tested will cut down receipts more quickly than bad gas.

A RUDE CITY

This is particularly true of a city like Los Angeles, which is scattered over a wide territory. In a thickly congested city it is dif-ferent.

One time, in New York, I heard a cash customer very rudely treat-ed in a medium-priced restaurant. I asked the proprietor how he could take chances with his trade.

ALL IN THE WASH

This was his answer:

"Well," he said, "it is a matter of general averages. There are rel-atively few cafes in this section. The lunch hour is so short that the cash customers can't stroll very far away for the eating.

"They get mad at me and go to another restuarant; but just as many get mad at the restaurant across the street, and come over to me. So it all comes off in the wash."

THE NEW YORK COP

Take it is a whole, New York is a very rude city—as most cities are which are flooded with strang-ers every day.

...dson Builder of Craft Says American Success on Sea Lies in West Coast Trade

America's success in the world shipping business rests upon her grasping opportunity awaiting her in Pacific trade, according to Harry Tucker, Great Lakes shipbuilder, who arrived here yesterday aboard the ...hat liner Venezuela on his first visit to the Pacific Coast.

"Not until we get daily evidences of great trade development un-derway in the Pacific, particularly in the Orient, Australia and the ...n American west coast," said Mr. Tucker. "America, through her splendid harbors on the Pacific Coast is admirably situated to get in on the ground floor, and if she doesn't, through upbuilding of her merchant marine, the nation will miss one of her greatest opportunities for indus-trial security.

"American business is traveling at such a fast rate that we must reach around the world for our trade; the importation of raw products and the sale of our finished goods. An ade-quate merchant marine under these conditions will mean everything; a guarantee of peace and the best in-surance or commercial security."

Mr. Tucker, as president of the De-troit Shipbuilding Company during the World War, built more than 150 steel freighters under the emergency program of the United States Ship-ping Board, practically all of which are still in service under private own-ership.

He is being accompanied on his present trip by Mrs. Tucker. The couple will remain in California on a pleasure sojourn until April.

BUTLER HEADED FOR CHINA AGAIN

He Leaves Again at Once to Take His Liner

Fighter Going Back Where He Gained Laurels

A quarter century after he fought in the Boxer Rebellion and won the Congressional Medal of Honor "for eminent and conspicuous conduct in battle with the Peking relief column," Brig.-Gen. Smedley D. Butler yesterday sailed from Los Angeles Harbor, again bound for China to protect the sovereign rights of American citizens.

Gen. Butler, appointed commanding general of the United States Marines Expeditionary Force at Shanghai, came up from the Marine Base at San Diego on the coastwise liner Yale and sailed two hours later for San Francisco, where at 4 p.m. today he will depart on the liner President Pierce for China, reaching Shanghai on the 26th inst.

"I don't know just where we are going, boys, or what's ahead of us," he said, "but when we get there you can depend on us to do the job.

READY FOR JOB

"It will feel good to be back on the old stamping grounds. In the spring of 1900 I was a first lieutenant in the old First Marine Regiment, under Col. Robert L. Meade, when we landed on the North China coast and fought our way 400 miles up the river to the relief of Peking.

"The two scraps are widely different in aspect. The Boxer Rebellion was a tong war. The present disturbance is a struggle for supremacy between the war lords of North and South China."

Gen. Butler, when he reaches Shanghai, will take command of the Fourth Marines, the crack regiment that he has spent the past year in training at San Diego and now at Shanghai under Col. C. S. Hill. Also combined with this regiment is the United States Legation Guard from Peking under Col. L. McC. Little, a total of more than 3700 veterans.

Gen. Butler is being accompanied by his staff including Lieut.-Col. Ellis B. Miller as chief-of-staff; Lieut.-Col. Percy F. Archer, assistant chief-of-staff, and Lieut. L. C. Whitaker, aide. His wife and daughter will accompany him to San Francisco but will not go to the Orient.

PLANES SAY ADIEU

As the Yale docked at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday afternoon Gen. Butler was beseiged by an army of newsreel photographers, for which he posed, and later stood obligingly in a downpour of rain while officials of a motion-picture studio presented him with a camera, as their cameramen ground out the scene at length.

Yesterday morning when the steamer rounded Point Loma an entire squadron of tiny pursuit planes from the Marine Base dived down on her from the clouds—the little single-seaters creating a great roar as they hurtled at the liner's decks and then "zoomed" skyward. Gen. Butler stood on the upper deck and waved farewell, the right hand of each pilot snapping up to salute as plane after plane roared by their old chief.

RAIN DELAYS PHONE BOOKS

Rain, always a blessing to Los Angeles, sometimes has its drawbacks also. One of them, at present, is the fact that the recent storms have delayed the issue of the new telephone directory. Instead of being all out now, as was planned, delivery has been slowed up so that it will be the 12th inst. before they all are in the hands of subscribers.

There are 428,500 directories to be distributed—and they are too valuable to become wet in the process. While in fair weather it is easy to send out trucks loaded with the books; in wet weather the loading must be done under cover, tarpaulins must cover the trucks and the books must be handed to householders with due care that they be not dampened in the process. All of which slows up the work materially.

The new directory contains 1416 pages and two inserts. It weighs four pounds and six ounces. In dollars and cents it is a valuable piece of work. The production of it is the largest job of its sort west of Chicago, and only that city and New York equal or exceed it in volume or size.

The Times-Mirror Printing and Binding House, which issues the telephone book, has a special plant devoted wholly to that purpose, with equipment used for no other job, including a gathering and binding machine about half a block long—the only one of this size in the West, invented and perfected for this purpose.

Work on a telephone directory is a continuous job; it had begun on the next issue even before this one was out. The actual printing and binding takes weeks of work, night and day.

So one may appreciate what one receives when a new directory is delivered—and why the delay just at this time, because of the continued rain and the risk of damage to the volumes by the dampness.

MISSION PLAY OPENS TONIGHT

R. D. MacLean, widely known in the past as a portrayer of Shakespearean roles, will appear again in the play in the role of Fray Junipero Serra. Ruthellen Miller, who appeared in "Faust" during the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association's recent season, will open her fourth year as the prima donna of the Mission Play, and Miss Vivienne Morehouse, who was featured in the Pilgrimage Play, also has a leading role.

Juan and Juanita Zorranquinos, Spanish dancers, have important parts again in the big production. During the past sixteen years, Juanita, who is a direct descendant of the early Spanish settlers of San Gabriel, has missed only one performance of the Mission Play, the occasion being the day of her marriage to Juan, her dancing partner. Many of the Indians appearing in the play are descendants of the Indians to whom Father Serra brought Christianity in the early days of California.

LIVE THEIR PARTS

Members of old Spanish families also are cast for various roles in the pageant, and the fact that so many members of the cast will not, in a strict sense, be acting, but will be singing the songs and dancing the dances of their ancestors, lends an atmosphere to the production which lifts it above the usual theatrical performance.

Many of the patrons tonight will meet for dinner near the old grapevine and the historic home of Ramona on the mission grounds, and will be entertained with special music by Roberts's Golden State Band prior to the opening of the performances. Following the performance the audience will be invited to a dance and reception backstage, and also will be taken on a tour of inspection of the new playhouse. The new theater, of mission architecture, stands in a seven-acre garden tract that was formerly part of the cactus-walled compound of the San Gabriel Mission.

BOX HOLDERS

Society en masse will occupy the boxes and loges at the opening of the Mission Play this evening, every box being taken. Among those who are entertaining with parties are Mr. and Mrs. William Irving Hollingsworth, whose guests will include Mrs. R. D. Shepherd, Dr. and Mrs. Rufus Bernard Von KleinSmid and Mr. and Mrs. George McClellan Reynolds of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bent, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. McGarry and Mrs. Oscar A. Trippe will occupy another box, and other box holders include Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McNaughton, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Miley, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Knight Bindge, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Robert Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Allen Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Quinn, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Cochran, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Laurence Doheny, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Miller, Dr. Henry Van Dyke, Paul Whitsett, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, D. W. Pontius and Paul Shoup, Mr. and Mrs. Eli P. Clark and Gen. M. H. Sherman, while others attending will be Frederick William Braun, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Napoleon Brunswig, Mrs. Clara B. Burdette, Morgan Adams, Mrs. William Henry Brophy, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Mott, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. E. Avery McCarthy, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Moultrie, Mr. and Mrs. James Rufus Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. O'Melveny, Hon. James Phelan, Col. and Mrs. George S. Patton, Mrs. Michael Regan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Stern and Mr. and Mrs. Gurdon Wallace Wattles.

Miss Cornelia Cole McLaughlin, the grand-daughter of the late Senator Cole, will represent the Cole family. Mrs. E. Avery McCarthy (Susan Howard) will represent the Howard family. Mrs. McCarthy's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Volney E. Howard, were residents of Alhambra for many years.

CHURCH WILL BE DEDICATED

Plymouth Congregational Celebrates Completion of First Unit at Services Tomorrow

Dedication of the first unit of the Plymouth Congregational Church, Fifty-fourth street and Sixth avenue, will be conducted tomorrow at 10:30 a.m., according to announcement made yesterday by Dr. Henry C. Culbertson, the pastor. The dedication sermon will be by Dr. James H. Lash of the Hollywood Congregational Church and the dedication prayer will be offered by Dr. N. L. Rowell. The Plymouth Choir, under the direction of Robert S. Maile, will furnish music and former pastors of Mess and Plymouth churches (which recently merged into one organization) will assist at the services. A musical program will be given in the evening when the Hollywood Congregational Church choir, led by Prof. D. D. Lash, will present Handel's "Messiah."

The building to be dedicated tomorrow is a beautiful structure of Spanish type, with graceful tower of distinctive appearance, the building being of cream stucco exterior and tile roof. The auditorium is cruciform in shape, and will seat 650 guests. It is so designed that when the church grows it will be easy to move the north wall and double the seating capacity. The cost of the new structure, including furnishings, is about $35,000. The resources coming from the sale of the old Plymouth property will enable the church to commence immediately the erection of a complete community hall and parish house, with modern Sunday-school equipment, gymnasium, social and assembly halls. When completed, the entire plant, including the site, will be worth approximately $100,000, almost all of which is now either pledged or provided for by resources in hand.

BISHOPS TO PREACH

All students are invited to the Student Service to be conducted tomorrow evening at St. Paul's Cathedral when Dean Waugh of the University of Southern California will speak. In the morning Rev. Harry Beal will preach on "The Being of God." The speaker at the noon-day services next week, Monday to Friday, inclusive, will be Dr. L. C. Sanford, bishop of San Joaquin. During the coming weeks, preceding Easter, the noon-day speakers will include Dr. W. B.

Jurist Will be Called in Case of Realty Man

Superior Judge Edmonds will be called as a witness before the county grand jury on Tuesday in the inquiry into the activities of Karl Raentsch and another Hollywood real estate man, it was learned yesterday at the District Attorney's office.

Raentsch was indicted on Thursday by the grand jury on a charge of embezzlement of $2075 from Mrs. Winifred E. Walker of Montecito and Santa Barbara. According to deputy district attorneys, Mrs. Walker gave Raentsch and another man a power of attorney to handle her property, and they converted some of it to their own use. The property involved is said to be worth more than $100,000.

Judge Edmonds stated that he had not advised Raentsch, or the latter's associate, but had advised an associate of his own not to handle certain deeds from Mrs. Walker to Raentsch, without a statement from Mrs. Walker. He said he had not discussed the matter with Raentsch.

BANDITS ROB FIREMAN

Howard B. Paull, city fireman, was minus $68 last night as a result of a brief experience with two fiivver bandits near his home at 1208 Westgate avenue, Sawtelle. The bandits overhauled him in their car near his home, forced him to a halt and took his $68. Then they drove away.

Many Nations Represented at Student Dinner

More than 200 students of all nationalities attended a dinner given by the Federation of World Friendship Clubs, a high-school organization, last night in the Windsor Rooms. Henry Gneesl, American Consul stationed in Los Angeles, was the principal speaker.

The dinner was given to further a movement in the high schools for greater international understanding. Many teachers and faculty members were present and made short talks. Among these were Marion D. Hall of Jefferson High School, and [illegible] rick, head of the social service department of Hollywood High School.

Maitland Browne, president of the federation, explained the purposes of the organization as being to bring about a better understanding between students of other lands. A number of foreign students appeared at the dinner in the costumes of their native land.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN DIES

An unidentified Mexican about 40 years of age was perhaps fatally injured last night when he fell from a street car at the intersection of Brooklyn avenue and Boyle avenue. He suffered a fractured skull and shattered pelvis. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital by Police Surgeon Sebastian. Police are seeking to locate relatives.

BRIGHT ERA PREDICTED IN FARMING

"There never was a moment in the history of agriculture when it was more promising than right now," last night declared J. E. Gardner, Minneapolis manager of the J. I. Case Threshing Machine Company of Racine, Wis., in commenting generally on the industry.

"It is real business," he continued. "It demands the best of brains that the nation has to offer. A fellow who has failed in everything else does not necessarily make a good farmer.

During a stay of three weeks in Southern California, Mr. Gardner says he has been impressed with the Southland's farming industry.

"A little irrigation and you seem able to grow anything under the sun," he declared with enthusiasm.

He was charitable in his impression of Southern California climate. "My wife and I realize that we are here at a disadvantageous season," he said, "but we know that the rain will certainly work out for a great good in the end."

While here, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner spent some time with their nephew, J. J. Gardner, local branch manager for the Case company. J. E. Gardner has been with the organization for twenty-seven years; he also is vice-president and treasurer of the Beeman Tractor Company of Minnesota.

No doubt this is because so many were born in Ireland.

GOD BLESS THE WORK

There used to be an old Irish cop in Los Angeles who was kept on duty at the railroad depots for years—because his tongue had the oil of good manners on it.

He told me it was due to his training as a boy in Ireland.

He said he would have been spanked by his father if he ever passed a group of men at work without politely taking off his cap and saying: "God bless the work."

PEACE LEAGUE FORMED

Chapter of International Organization Inaugurated Here

A Southern California chapter of the Woman's International League for Peace and Freedom was organized yesterday at a conference at the Rossiyn. Miss Ethelwyn Mills of San Diego presided and representatives from Pasadena, Altadena, Pomona, Monrovia, Riverside, Beverly Hills and other communities were present. Miss Jane Addams is the international president of the league, which now includes women in twenty-six nations.

Miss Anne Martin of Nevada, western regional director of the league, spoke at the conference yesterday and pointed to the terrific losses in life and property resulting from the last war.

"We must get the militaristic idea and ideal out of the minds of youth, beginning at the nursery, and in its place plant friendliness and good will toward all nations," she said.

Many Nations Represented at Student Dinner

More than 200 students of all nationalities attended a dinner given by the Federation of World Friendship Clubs, a high-school organization, last night in the Windsor Tea Rooms. Henry Gneeal, Argentine consul stationed in Los Angeles, was the principal speaker.

The dinner was given to further a movement in the high schools for greater international friendship. Many teachers and faculty members were present and made short talks, among these were Marion D. Hart, of Jefferson High School, and S. S. Mosick, head of the social service department of Hollywood High School. Maitland Browne, president of the federation, explained the purposes of the organization as being to bring about a better understanding with students of other lands. A number of foreign students appeared at the dinner in the costumes of their native land.

Why You Should Go To Church

HENRY COE CULBERTSON, LL.D., Pastor Plymouth Congregational Church

By Henry Coe Culbertson, Plymouth Congregational Church

The thoughts of mankind are like a vast psychic ocean, the waters of which are often dark and turgid with hate, fear, lies and greed. God desires this sea of consciousness to be crystal clear, reflecting the sunbeams of love, kindliness, sincerity and faith. Every personality is a river pouring its stream of thoughts into the great sea. Bitter and angry thoughts poison the waters. But when the stream of our thoughts is sweet and shining with forgiveness and good will, then we are helping God to purify the spiritual ocean of life. The right kind of a church service will bring the healing forces of eternity to cleanse the thought-streams of our souls and help us make the whole psychic universe as pure and glorious as the mind of Christ.

WHY BRAINS?

At eleven o'clock in the First Congregational Church
Eight Forty-five South Hope Street.

An impressive liturgical service, featuring excerpts from masterpieces of ecclesiastical music (many numbers contemporary Russian) is produced by a large chorus conducted by John Smallman. This liturgy has been prepared by and for people of discriminating taste who desire to see a dignified and orderly service of worship restored to non-conformist churches.

Dr. Douglas delivers an address at this service, on "The Development of Mental Agility."

By Dr. Frank Dyer, after seeing "The Miracle" the third time.

Dear Friends:

Practically everybody knows that we are in a state of flux in society and politics today. Or doing is sure, while the part will influence, it cannot control. The people who think we shall find deliverance and security by going back, I believe to be blindness. God is marching on, truth is marching on. Marching on with God is the path of progress and security for individuals and institutions. Mighty forces are now gathering to overthrow old divisions. Can the divisions disappear and the truth abide. To end both sure and courage.

We invite you to share with us in a great day tomorrow.

FRANK DYER.

Bad laws, if they exist, should be repealed as soon as possible; still, while they continue in force, for the sake of example they should be religiously observed.

—Abraham Lincoln

NOT A CHANCE

A Kansas legislator has introduced a measure which would forbid politicians and office-holders from passing the buck. It would take much more than an act of the Legislature to check this ancient habit. Men would have to be made over in another mold.

HUMOROUS RECORD

A Texas solons say that the official record of the doings of the Legislature of their State is better reading than the Congressional Record, because there are more jokes in it. Are the Lone Star legislators keeping up to the magnificent standard established by the innocently humorous "Ma"?

A MODERN PARADOX

Some of these funny writers are fond of quoting imaginary "famous last words," which range all the way from "Cook, you're fired," to "I'll tell that traffic cop where to head in." But up to last accounts the columnist who said to the editor, "I'd like to head my stuff 'Light Whines and Cheers'" is still alive.

BIGGEST ON EARTH

The city of Los Angeles now includes 434 square miles of territory and thereby covers more ground than any other municipality on the globe—in fact there are half a dozen different nations who have less area of land than is occupied by our own fair city. No wonder we call it an empire in our exuberant moods.

FISH

Representative Ben Johnson of Kentucky, retiring from Congress after twenty years, declares that his reason for leaving public life is his longing to renew his acquaintance with the trout in the rushing streams of his native State. Could this remark possibly be interpreted into "The more I know of men the better I understand fish"?

HIGH-GEARED KNOWLEDGE

Students at Princeton may no more come to the university in their own cars. The dean has ruled that the use and possession of an auto is not absolutely essential to a modern education. The professor must be crazy. Does he think he can bring up a family without a couple of spare tires? How can a student run through his studies unless he has a six-cylinder car?

SQUIRRELS ARE NUTTY

Out-door folk who have watched the squirrels as they busily store their nuts will be surprised to learn from the watchful naturalist that in a great many cases the animal promptly forgets his cache and never finds it again. The squirrel is scatter-brained to that extent. What would be thought of a man who put money in deposit and then couldn't remember the name of the bank?

ONE ON KANSAS

Years ago Kansas adopted the sunflower as its State floral emblem. It took a long time for the Kansans to realize that the sunflower, as it grows in that State, is only a noxious weed, a pest, soil-sapper and fertility destroyer, but their agricultural department now insists that it is and wants the growth of the blooming thing discouraged. So it is proposed to make the morning glory the State flower. If the Kansas farmers had to fight morning glory in their fields as those of some States on this coast must do they would consider it as bad, if not worse, than the sunflower.

FLOOD CONTROL

The control of that gigantic power pent up in the force of rushing, swirling water has been the problem of mankind from the beginning of time. Babies were once cast into the Ganges to appease and propitiate the river god. Mystic ceremonies were performed on the banks of the Nile in the belief that they would avert sudden and disastrous inundation. Many unavailing chants have been sung over the waters of the rushing Yang-tse-kiang. We who smile at such superstitious folly, who have lost faith in incantation are as infantile as these ancients in our puerile and procrastinative measures.

A BANDIT'S BUDGET

A youthful bandit excuses his criminal drift on the ground that in these days one must have money and that it takes $10 to go as far as a dollar would a generation ago. It was once a wonderful thing for a young man to take his sweetheart to the ice-cream parlor when they were out walking. It was quite an event when he spent 50 cents on the movies and it was a celebration when he squandered a whole dollar on a Sunday buggy ride. Now it takes a dollar's worth of gasoline in a $1500 car to get to the roadhouse where it costs $10 to hold a table long enough to get in a couple of dances. It wrecks a $50 bill to show a modern girl what she calls a good time and she is ripe for action seven nights in the week. This, at least, is the story as told by a youthful bandit.

A SORRY SPECTACLE

Congress adjourned yesterday, after one of the sorriest exhibitions in the Senate that has ever disgraced the legislative department of the Federal government. Filibuster after filibuster wasted time that was necessary for the passage of measures vital to the welfare of the country. A few Senators engaged in petty squabbles, and became so embittered that they made a mockery of legislative practices.

Vice-President Dawes caused the hands of the clock to be turned back in the closing moments while he rebuked the Senate for its failure to function as a legislative body.

"The chair regards the present legislative session as primarily due to defective rules of the Senate," he said, "under which a minority can prevent a majority from exercising their constitutional right of bringing measures to a vote. This is the only legislative body in the world where such practices are permitted."

The Senators who have opposed any material change in the Senate rules were the ones who made use of the filibuster, which has become a form of blackmail. One has but to read over a list of important legislation, already passed by the House of Representatives, which failed of passage on account of the filibuster, to appreciate the damage that has been done.

In the closing hour Senator Warren, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, pleaded with tears in his eyes for a truce to the filibuster long enough to pass a resolution to provide for funds for hospitals for veterans and pensions for widows and orphans. Senator Warren has passed his eightieth year, and he pleaded in a broken voice not to leave widows of 80 and 90 years without sustenance. But Senator Walsh of Massachusetts was obdurate. He cared more for punishing his personal and political enemies than for the welfare of the tens of thousands who are left without protection.

Their case is similar to that of the residents of the Imperial Valley. Selfishness, envy and political ambitions counted for more than the welfare of those who must look to the Senate for relief.

And the voices of those responsible for this failure of the Senate to function properly will now be raised in a cry for a special session of Congress. They will try to shove the blame from their own doorsteps over to those of the executive department.

During the weeks that must follow before the regular session in December the people of the country will have time to meditate over what has happened and to fix the blame. The welfare of the country is too important to be trifled away by men elected to represent the people. There cannot be any increased respect for the law when the lawmakers show themselves so unworthy of respect.

Some good work was done by the present Congress during the early part of the present session; but that was overbalanced by the miserable exhibition of the closing weeks. And the House of Representatives appears in a much better light than the Senate, as is evidenced by the fact that all the important legislation lost through the filibuster had already passed the lower house.

Not only was the session talked to death in the Senate, but, unless The Times interpets the public will badly, some of those who took part in the filibuster also talked themselves to death. They may figure that the public will forget before they come up for re-election; but the tens of thousands suffering from the injustice of the filibusters caused will not forget; and they will remind other tens of thousands when election day approaches.

PLANETS IN THE MAKING

If there is any deeper study than that relating to the formation of planets it would be difficult to name it. Such research strikes at the fundamentals of creation and harks back millions of years before man came into being—at least that is what our physicists say, and it is one point upon which they are agreed, but they disagree upon so many other points as to the formation of worlds such as the one we inhabit that it would seem useless for any of them to scout the biblical theory of creation, for they are as much at odds with one another as they are with scriptural teaching.

Now comes Prof. Thomas Chrowder Chamberlain with what he terms new proof of his fairly-well-known planetesimal hypothesis of the making of our planet, set forth in his numerous writings, among them "The Origin of the Earth." For twenty-three years Prof. Chamberlain has been testing this theory which has been accepted by a group of physicists who have rejected the old nebular theory of Laplace and the astronomer-geologists of a century ago.

The language in which the Chicago geologist sets forth his theory and its "proof" is profoundly erudite, and the lay mind will make little of it, but the outstanding feature of his hypothesis is that the earth never was in a molten condition—that it grew up slowly in a solid state around a core composed of metallic and stony material. This core was originally a very small body shot from the sun with many others in a period of eruptivity stimulated by the approach of a star toward the solar body. This body attracted to it many stray planetoids and these accretions gradually made the earth as it was before it evolved an atmosphere, after which water and land appeared in much the same state as they are today.

As for the learned scientist's proof, it has to do with "rotational hemispheres," "continental embossments" and the "meridianal-ribbed aspects of the continents," all of which, in his opinion, support the planetesimal hypothesis, but if they do so they do it in a way which only learned physicists will be able to perceive, for, like the Einstein theory, they will make no dent in the understanding of the average man.

But the question naturally arises, is not our planet like others of the solar system in a general way and has it not had a similar history? If Jupiter is in a gaseous or molten state, as is agreed by most astronomer-geologists, who say that when its enormous mass has cooled it will slowly assume a solid and much smaller state, would it not be logical to assume that our planet, from a scientific point of view, has gone through the same process?

Learned scientists have an inalienable right to put forth as many theories of creation as they can devise, but one might wish they were a little less contradictory and confusing. Their vital differences and their clashing logic only tend to confirm the orthodox in their belief that in the beginning God created the heaven and the earth in six days and set in 1,000,000 aeons.

DOG DAYS

Three widely separated instances of dogs with rabies biting people were recently recorded in Time. In Pittsburgh a young dog bit its owner, her daughter and two of her neighbors. The dog died and the victims were hurried to an institute for treatment.

English, Ind., had a mad-dog scare. Later on it was discovered that dogs had lapped at certain garbage pails containing residues of bootleg. Instead of being mad they were plain drunk.

In Texas a little buff prairie dog sat on the rear stoop of its owner and scolded the children on their way to school. They stuck out their tongues and threw sticks at it and it bit them about the legs. It died of hydrophobia. The children were treated in Austin.

However, on Christmas night, according to the New York Times, three other dogs immortalized themselves by saving 230 people's lives in different quarters of the globe.

In Alaska within the Arctic Circle a miner was awakened by a dog scratching at his door. It was supposed to be with two other miners at work over a 3000-foot pass. Although 40 degrees below zero, the creature scaled the heights in the dead of night and brought a note tied around his neck: "Come. Both seriously injured. Explosion."

On that same night 103 persons were crowded in a cabin on Mt. Schnoeberg, Switzerland. They had been skiing and celebrating. Having sung the earlier part of the evening away, they fell asleep with an old stove functioning furiously. The inflammable hut caught fire and but for a dog all would have perished miserably.

On that same Christmas night 125 bargemen with their wives and children went to sleep in their floating hamlet on East River. They were stuffed with turkey and drink. In some manner the low-lying barges slipped their moorings and were soon swiftly carried by the outgoing tide down the channel toward Hell Gate with its jagged rocks and foaming surf.

Six million people were in New York and vicinity; but nobody saw nor heard. Nobody but Peggy! Peggy was a dog, the mascot of the city fire-boat George B. McClellan.

The bargemen were finally awakened by the rough seas and noise of the swirling waters and cried for help. Peggy heard and began to bark. She awakened the firemen and their boat, with the help of a tug, finally rescued the imperiled families.

Every dog has his day. But Christmas appears to have been one of the best dog days of recent record.

NO SPREAD-EAGLE

"Southward the Bird of Empire Wings His Way" is the caption. A subhead hangs pyramidal from it as follows, "The Eagle Has Flown in Ever-Widening Circles Over the Old Spanish Main—What Next?"

All the historical dealings with this section are lumped together and give the impression that the American eagle's wing casts a shadow of suspicion rather than of protection.

In 1819 we bought Florida from Spain. It was a straight-forward business proposition, unquestioned until the present time. How it can be construed as a sinister act it is difficult to conceive.

The American eagle forced the British lion to arbitrate its boundary dispute between Guiana and Venezuela in 1894. The lion growled when its tail was twisted; but the little South American country profited.

The age-long conflict between Cuba and Spain ended with Yankee intervention. Cuba obtained her independence and nobody but Spain lamented.

Colombia has been saved from herself repeatedly and given a place in the sun among the nations by the Panama Canal. The republic of Panama was a peaceful partition in 1903. The world as well as Colombia benefited.

Theodore Roosevelt went down to Guatemala in 1906 and demanded a square deal with his "big stick." Honduras was made safe for her own democracy in 1911 and 1913.

Santo Domingo's pot was eternally boiling over until Uncle Sam and John Bull joined hands in 1913 and put out the fire. The landing of troops in Haiti in 1915 settled the perennial disturbances of that island. Uncle Sam did not get much "under his thumb" but splinters.

The Virgin Islands were bought outright at a fair price of $25,000,000 from Denmark in 1917. The eagle's wing has been protective, not shady.

It may be a trifle more difficult to justify the Mexican War. Even Lincoln failed to receive a second nomination for his seat in the House of Representatives because he had been outspoken on that subject.

However, Texas engineered her own revolt from the mother country and then asked to be admitted into the Union. She had precedence for her act in the Revolutionary War. Uncle Sam was born under oppression and has always been soft hearted toward others in like straits.

Nicaragua has been under review for some time. Because another canal will be necessary in a few years to care for the increased ocean traffic Uncle Sam purchased holdings worth millions from that country. Stable government will alone honor these claims.

Protection of citizenry is also demanded. England has already called our attention to the threat to her subjects. We must either grant her askings or surrender the Monroe Doctrine.

Uncle Sam will rush into a neighbor's back yard without compunction and pull off a big bully from a little tad's back—especially if the bully be a foreigner. This is the Monroe Doctrine in homely phrase.

It takes a twisted mind to twist the facts. To slander the eagle that gives shelter manifests a disposition of doubtful quality. Innuendo is a hateful weapon with which to fight a friend.

Uncle Sam is but the big brother of the Western Hemisphere. He wants nothing but peace and, for each nation, large or small, fair play. The great American bird is no spread-eagle!

PORNOGRAPHIC "ART"

While New York is engaged in putting its drama on a basis of decency it and other large cities would do well to start a war on the vulgar publications masquerading as art magazines.

Nothing can be classified as art that has its origin in low purpose. Art is the representation of a beautiful idea for an exalted purpose; anything that is debasing either in its realization or in its origination is the extreme antithesis of art and an insult to the public it invades.

Freedom of the press does not imply the right to distribute licentious and lascivious printed matter and it is within the police power of municipalities to clean out pornographic periodicals from all shops within their limits. Several American cities have recently purged themselves of lewd "art" periodicals that have no purpose on earth except an appeal to vulgar emotions.

Such magazines cannot be eliminated, however, through the good offices of any one city or State. When driven from one region for a time they thrive in another, only to return to places from which they have been driven after the public anger has cooled. But this fact is no excuse for permitting their continued sale here or anywhere else.

Why spend millions for schools to educate boys and girls along proper lines and then permit the sale of periodicals calculated to offset the good effects of this costly effort? It is not good business; it is not good government; it is not good sense; it is the shirking of a moral responsibility by the city as such and by every responsible citizen in it who fails to protest.

Inglorious Exit

"LUFT HANSA"

BY HARRY BOWLING

Germany, only a few years ago supposed to have been beaten to the ground, today leads Europe in the development of commercial aviation. Great Britain was the first nation to construct steel and iron ships in large numbers for ocean traffic and we know what this start did in making England for half a century the leading sea power. Will Germany's successful pioneering in aviation, the coming means of transportation for world commerce, make her for the next fifty years the leading air power?

On the Pacific Coast few realize the phenomenal progress made by Germany in this new science or how soon aviation may become a decisive factor in a nation's commercial record. German commercial air lines not only link up every important city in Germany, but stretch out to each adjoining country and to points as far distant as Moscow, Stockholm, Barcelona and Budapest. All these lines have planes running on regular schedule.

By the end of 1926 German commercial planes were averaging nearly 500,000 miles a month in regular traffic. They were carrying 7500 passengers a month, twenty-five tons of freight and twenty-five tons of mail. German cities are investing thousands of dollars in airdromes for the sake of the business the air development will bring.

On the German air routes ultra-modern planes only are employed, built of steel and aluminum. They have established a record for speed coupled with a high percentage of safety that compares favorably with that achieved by rail and steamship. Airplanes capable of carrying 165 passengers have been designed and are already building. By a strange reversal of form Germany has abandoned the airship which she was the first to sponsor and pins her faith now on the heavier-than-air machine.

The Berlin correspondent of the London Morning Post has been making a special study of the German success in popularizing and developing aviation. He attributes Germany's commanding position in air traffic to one main central factor—the organization of the Luft Hansa, the amalgamation of private enterprises in the field of aviation into one huge and thoroughly financed company.

This great combine not only builds the best airplanes so far designed and finances the transportation air lines, but also spends large sums to educate the people in the advantages and benefits to be secured from the expansion of the business. As a result the whole nation is behind the Luft Hansa and the individual citizen has come to regard the airplane as an everyday form of transport. The Luft Hansa has demonstrated that air travel is not only the speediest, but can be also made the safest.

The Morning Post comments thus on the conclusions of the report: "Financiers, industrialists and cities in Germany are realizing that the air business is really a good, sound investment, and with this popular approval and backing German progress in commercial aviation is phenomenal."

Outside the fine air-mail record made by the Postoffice Department we have done little to push commercial aviation in the United States. Our few private enterprises are scattered and unorganized. What might not a Luft Hansa do for the air future of the richest and most resourceful nation on earth?

Public Servants?

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 28.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Positive importance and a lack of understanding of the people's needs is shown by Mr. Pierson Hall, member of the City Council, and Mr. Arthur Eldridge, member of the Board of Public Works, by their statements which appeared in the Los Angeles Evening Herald editions of February 22 and 23, 1927, in reference to the West Adams storm-drain controversy.

It would seem that a consciousness of a duty to the taxpaying public, to say nothing of the ethical aspect involved, might have been sufficient to have caused these officials to have paused a moment before making statements prejudicial to the interests of the people. We feel sure that many will agree with us when we say that if these gentlemen are expressing the opinion of the official bodies of which they are members, then perhaps the taxpayer will be, indeed, fortunate if the whole nasty mess is thrown into the courts for a thorough airing.

The city government of Los Angeles is surely in a perilous position when a member of the Board of Public Works and a member of the City Council openly advise the supine acceptance of public improvements, regardless of their quality or imperfections, because of threats held over the taxpayers' head by usurious financiers.

It is not forgotten that when the West Adams storm-drain controversy first arose attempts were made by the contractors, plunder-bound, to scare the people into accepting the work without protest.

Articles and statements embodying Mr. Eldridge's and Mr. Hall's declarations were printed in the local sheets and daily papers, but to no avail. Many unpleasant facts came to light. It is unfortunate for these gentlemen that they should allow themselves to be used in a way that is apt to cause the public to think that there is a "nigger" in the official woodpile.

For city officials to make statements that the bonds of the city of Los Angeles will go begging for market because of the fact that the taxpayer demands full value for his tax dollar and that future protests against the brazen and downright crookedness of unscrupulous contractors be avoided, regardless of the gouge taken, shows an utter lack of even the most elemental requirements necessary to the proper functioning of their office.

The West Adams Taxpayers' League believe that these officials have shown themselves entirely out of sympathy with the people's desires, that at a time when their efforts were most needed in the service of those they represent we find them doing all in their power to prejudice the case of the people.

The West Adams Taxpayers' League wishes to go on record as condemning the recent statements of Mr. Hall and Mr. Eldridge and believe the best interests of the city would be served if steps were taken to compel their resignation from public office.

WEST ADAMS TAXPAYERS' LEAGUE.

A Change for the Better

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] "Cincinnati has changed so that I fancy you would hardly recognize it. More than a year ago they changed the city government; took it out of politics and put in a nonpolitical Council of seven (7) members and a city manager who came here from Washington. Since then the old town has had such an awakening as it never knew or dreamed of. Things are moving by leaps and bounds and our people do almost as much boosting these days as do those in the West. It is the right spirit and is backed by a profound faith which the people now have in the city executives."

This is a copy of a letter written by a business woman of Cincinnati, a native daughter who has lived there all her life.

If this would happen in Los Angeles! And what can be done in Cincinnati surely can be in our beloved city.

Pens in the Pen

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] An evening paper has been weeping over the sad letters written by jail birds. Criminals know that if they can get a lot of these silly sob sisters to work on the Governor or pardoning board they will be pardoned, so they write their mournful letters and are laughing in their sleeve while they are doing the writing and wondering how the sob sister will be affected by it. The pen is a fine place to live in. Just as good as the average hotel and better than lots of boarding houses, and they have good beds and are kept clean and have a doctor's care all the time and have a much easier life than the average man outside.

The only thing that is in their way is their lack of liberty. They are not permitted to go out at night and steal, bootleg dope and commit murder, and this is what they want to do, and being shut up is inconvenient to them following their profession, so they work on the sob sisters for sympathy.

The pen warden should not allow such letters to go out. These inmates of the pen are mostly degenerates and the public is much safer with them in the pen than with them out.

ROYAL PROGRESS

I lately saw a royal dame who went touring here and there, and wondered, as she went and came, how she avoided dark despair. There was no moment of the day when she could say, "Oh, help, John, I have a chance to stand still and rest myself a while and pray." There was no moment, day or night, when she could be her human self, with no high pomp and plight, her scepter laid upon the shelf. All day she had to be a queen, at whom the rubes from Fife might stare; it wouldn't do to be seen without a grand and queenly air. The more I see of grand and great the more I pity them; I sympathize; I'm grateful for my low estate and this gratitude is wise. I'm glad that I am obscure, unknown to the county line; I never could know, endure this lifelong pain that some think fine. A quiet home for me, a pantry filled with stronger ale, a seat beneath the apple tree, a good, redhot detective story. If it's too warm I shed a shirt; if still too warm I shed a skin; no one cares a blooming dime whatever I elect to do. Why, when hours of labor end, I mock where I may relax, and then a good old friend comes to cuss the income tax. To a luxury to leave the streets, the rushing throngs, and beneath the cottage eave and vine old books and sing old songs; I sorrowed for that grafting king who had no moment of his day whose every visitor was free to talk about her crown and pelf. I longed to ask her to my home and snore and happily rob her of being back against a lordly throne. But all such longings were in vain for she was guarded well by men who chased me from the train and roundly cussed me for their slaves.

GUEST OUTSTAYS HIS WELCOME

Josef Goldfeder, employed in the research department at Universal City, who is accused of having overstayed his leave in the United States, was taken into custody by Chief Inspector Carr of the Immigration Department yesterday. According to immigration officials, he will be deported.

Goldfeder was admitted to the United States from Poland last October, his permit being good, however, for only three months. Inspector Carr stated yesterday that others who have overstayed the time of their permits also are being sought by officers of the department.

RAIN FAILS TO DAMPEN FUR SHOW

Compton Rabbit Exhibit Program for Pioneer Day Draws Large Attendance

Braving rain and threatening weather yesterday crowds at the Compton industrial, fur and rabbit show witnessed "old-timers," in keeping with special "Pioneer Day" ceremonies, stepping to quadrille and schottische tempos played on old fiddles, which long had accumulated dust in attics.

More than a score of Compton and Domingues Junction early settlers participated in the revival of dances. Among them were Mrs. R. F. Nichols, Mrs. Ella Turner, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Morton, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Kent, Mrs. Florence B. Sibley, Johnathan Debruec and J. D. Jenkins. Most of the dance music was furnished by Mr. Kent with a violin used years ago for Compton dancers.

Although weather cut down the attendance, large delegations of Willowbrook, South Gate and Lynwood citizens went to the show, as the day and night were dedicated in their honor, as well as to the pioneers. Long Beach, San Pedro, Wilmington and adjacent towns will be feted this evening.

An attraction was the device exhibited by G. M. Hargett of Watts, which enables a poultryman to determine which fowls are "layers" and which are "slackers."

A variety of fur foreign to rabbit shows was introduced when Arthur Schleicher of Mt. Lowe put on exhibition a pair of live foxes. They were stationed beside the two opossums which have slept throughout most of the exposition. The manufacture of hats from rabbit fur was an addition to the show's educational side.

CLEMENCY FOR STONE REQUESTED

Keyes and Aides Ask Life Term to Bar Hanging in Martin Girls' Murder

Commutation of the sentence of C. S. Stone, aged night watchman, sentenced to be hanged on the 11th inst. for the murder of Nina and May Martin, 11 and 8 years of age, from the hanging sentence to one of life imprisonment was recommended in three letters sent from the District Attorney's office to Gov. Young. It was learned yesterday. The letters were written, it was stated, by Dist.-Atty. Keyes and Deputies Dennison and Ryan.

The bodies of the two children, badly mutilated, were found in 1924 after a long search in the Glen Airy district, and Stone was arrested eight months later and tried and convicted of the murders. An exhaustive investigation of the case was made by Deputy Sheriffs Weir and Hunter before Stone's arrest and throughout the trial.

After the conviction, Charles B. Bush, defense attorney, prosecuted various appeals, taking the case through the District Court of Appeal and the State Supreme Court. He then attempted to get a commutation of the sentence, declaring he believes Stone innocent. Gov. Young is expected to act on the appeal for commutation within a few days.

Parents Claim Exhumed Body of 'Just Ruth'

The parents and Mrs. Maude Parradis, a sister of the dead girl, will accompany the body to Ogden.

MEXICANS TO OBTAIN HOME LAND

Six Hundred Families in Los Angeles Said to be Planning Return

Eager to benefit by the advantages expected to result from the recently enacted Mexican colonization law, which becomes operative April 5, approximately 600 Mexican families, now resident in Los Angeles and vicinity, are planning a return to their mother country, according to announcement last night by Vice-Consul L. H. Obregon, head of the Mexican Consulate here in the absence of Consul F. A. Pesqueira, now in Mexico.

While Vice-Consul Obregon has no verification of the Mexico City report that returning citizens are to be offered land by farmers in the state of Guanajuato, he declared that lands have been granted returning citizens in the past and that "it is possible a similar policy may be followed under the new law."

"It always has been the policy of the Mexican government to encourage its citizens to remain at home," continued Mr. Obregon. "Further than that, it believes in facilitating the return of citizens and former residents who so desire."

Reports from Mexico City state that means have been devised whereby returning citizens will find taxes and transportation charges on their personal belongings materially lessened.

Contemporaneous word from Ciudad Juarez has it that groups of Mexican laborers may daily be seen on the international bridge seeking the necessary documents to enter the United States. This report adds that fifteen Mexican workers, apprehended by American officials in an attempt to cross the line and evading payment of customs taxes, had been returned to the Mexican territory.

INQUIRY IN GAS DEATH DISMISSED

Prosecutor's Assistants Report J. M. Crighton's Killing Acidental

Official investigation into the circumstances surrounding the death of James M. Creighton, a real-estate man, killed by an explosion of gas in his apartment at 6214 De Longpre avenue on February 23, last, was dropped yesterday by the District Attorney's Office. Dep. Dist.-Attys. Egan and Dennison of the homicide department said they were satisfied with a Coroner's investigation which resulted in the return of a jury verdict that Creighton's death was accidental.

It also was learned yesterday that Creighton carried three life-insurance policies for a total of $23,500, in which Eben W. Hanna of Chicago, a cousin, and a sister, Louise Creighton of Oak Park, Ill., are named beneficiaries. One policy for $7500 lapsed on December 23, last, according to Lee R. James, local agent for the company.

Officials of a second company with which Creighton carried $10,000, said they are certain this amount will be paid his estate. The third policy for $5000 is held by an Illinois company which has no local agent.

An inquest was conducted when it was revealed Creighton had addressed a note to Hanna, and his sister in which he indicated his intention of committing suicide. At the inquest Hanna at first denied he knew of the existence of such a note, but later admitted such a one was turned over to him by Mrs. Elsie Hopmans, Creighton's landlady, after a photostatic copy was introduced. He said he tore up the note, believing it was not authentic. Mrs. Hopmans asserted she found the note in the ruins of Creighton's apartment.

The body of Creighton has been sent to Chicago for interment. He did not leave a will.

JUNIORS OF "TIMES" TO GIVE DANCE

Charity Ball Tonight Will Create Fund to Aid Less Fortunate Members

With over 1000 members expected to be present, the first charity ball to be held under the sponsorship of the senior division of The Times Junior Club will be given this evening in the auditorium of the Grosse Studio Building, 3008 West Seventh street.

The proceeds from this ball will be added to the fund which is used, under the direction of a special senior-division committee, in the alleviation of distress among the less fortunate members of the club in Southern California.

Music for dancing will be supplied by Leroy Parry's ten-piece jazz orchestra, with a touch of dreamy Hawaii added by Sol Hoppii and his four players. Entertainment will be supplied by the Garvin Sisters and other members of the Players' Club of The Times' junior organization.

Novel decorations and lighting effects have been arranged, including a floodlight system that assures bizarre color effects. There will be iced drinks and other refreshments.

The doors of the auditorium, which is one of the largest in Los Angeles, will be opened promptly at 7:45 p.m. A previous announcement had stated that this charity ball would be held in the clubhouse of the Echo Park recreation center. owever, the facilities there were not found large enough to accommodate all those who had made reservations.

JEWELERS ORDERED TO FACE TRIAL

More Than Score Held to Court on Indictments in Purported Trust

More than a score of leading California jewelers must stand trial on charges of violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, United States District Judge James ruled yesterday in denying motions to quash the indictments against the defendant companies. Pleas in abatement and a demurrer to the indictment also were overruled by Judge James.

The jewelry concerns recently were indicted by the Federal grand jury sitting in Los Angeles. They are charged with having attempted to freeze out cut-rate and upstairs jewelers by boycotting jobbers and manufacturers who sold to that type of store.

The plea for abatement was based on the fact that during the grand jury session, a stenographer was present in the room. It was shown by the United States Attorney's office, however, that the stenographer had been sworn in as a special deputy United States Attorney and therefore could not be considered as an outsider.

The concerns facing trial, according to the indictments, were members of "The 18-Carat Club," and included stores in Los Angeles, Oakland and San Francisco.

DEATH CALLS FORMER HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT

The body of Robert Fuller, 22 years of age, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Fuller, pioneer Los Angeles residents, was brought to the Sharpe and Nolan undertaking parlors yesterday from White Water Springs where the young man died Thursday night. Young Fuller, who suffered a breakdown several months ago, was one of the organizers of the fraternal order of DeMolay in Venice, and also obtained an enviable reputation when a youth in high school by compiling and supervising the printing of the first book of ordinances for Venice.

DE MILLE SHIFTS DIRECTORS

Julian Instead of Howard to Make "Country Doctor;" Joseph Schenck to Produce Duncan Comedy; Brown's "Stark Love" a Sensation

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

An important shift of directors has taken place at the De Mille studios and it has been decided that Rupert Julian, instead of William K. Howard, will direct "The Country Doctor," an adaptation of a play by Izola Forrester and Mann Page.

Rudolph Schildkraut has been chosen to play the name part in this important production for Producers' Distributors Corporation. The role is a very important one, that of the country physician who performs all sorts of medical miracles in the course of his long and wearisome day, accomplishing excellent results in a quiet way, and with the poorest equipment. There is a wealth of humor as well as of pathos in the part and it was felt that the skillful Schildkraut was eminently suited to play the difficult role.

William K. Howard is to direct "A Friend of Napoleon," by Richard Connell. This fulfills a long cherished desire of Howard's. When he was with Paramount he asked to be allowed to film the story and at one time that firm decided to make it with Emil Jannings in the leading role. Later, however, the firm gave Jannings another story.

Duncan's New Play

Those busy youngsters, the Duncan sisters, Rosetta and Vivian, have been at their typewriters again, with the result that they have completed the first act of a new comedy, which probably will be done with music, just as "Topsy and Eva" was.

ROSETTA DUNCAN

The new play is called "The Heavenly Twins," and is really a story of the lives of these two young geniuses, who, almost unaided have fought their way up in the theatrical world to an enviably famous peak, with recognition as two of the most brilliant young women who have ever adorned the stage.

But this is by no means all the good news. It is understood that Joseph Schenck is to produce the play, probably in New York. It will, without doubt, be filmed by United Artists also.

Karl Brown Comes Home

Brown, formerly a cameraman, sold an idea to Jesse L. Lasky of Paramount almost a year ago. He spent months executing it, braving perils and almost insurmountable obstacles. The result was "Stark Love," perhaps the most daring experiment in dramatic motion-picture production ever filmed.

"Stark Love" presents the first intimate view of America's lost race, the isolated mountaineers of North Carolina and Tennessee, ever presented. Brown took only two men into the mountains with him, a cameraman and a business manager. He had a story, written by himself and based on his first-hand knowledge of the mountain people gained when he was a boy living in their region. He overcame the menacing prejudice to strangers among them, which is so frequently fatal. He persuaded the natives to play the roles in his story. He contended with the feuds of warring factions. He worked patiently, many months, and finally brought out of the mountains what has been acclaimed as one of the most vivid slices of life ever shown on the screen.

But it was a question as to how the public would accept so radical a departure from the usual in films. Last Sunday the picture was shown to the world for the first time at the Cameo Theater in New York. The result was astounding. There has not been a vacant seat in the house since.

Every critic acclaimed the picture. It is one of the sensations of the year. Jesse L. Lasky and Walter Wanger, general manager of production, went to the supper show a night or two ago, the time of day when attendance is lightest, and had to stand for half an hour before they could obtain seats.

Von Sternberg to Make It

A switch of directors has occurred on Paramount's "Underworld." Arthur Rosson was originally assigned to the task of directing the dramatic action for the picture, with Joseph Von Sternberg in charge of photographic innovations. However, Rosson's services were needed to direct Betty Bronson's next picture "Grounds for "Marriage," according to the announcement of B. P. Schulberg, associate producer.

Evelyn Brent

Josef Von Sternberg therefore has been definitely assigned the task of directing "Underworld." The story is from the pen of Ben Hecht, as you have been told before.

Hazel Deane Ill

Just when film circles were eagerly awaiting the chime of the wedding bells proclaiming the marriage of Hazel Deane, the picture actress, to Duke Worne, producer and director of Duke Worne Productions, Cupid's plans have been indefinitely postponed, the reason being that Miss Deane is seriously ill.

Ernst Vajda's Home Here

Ernst Vajda, noted Hungarian playwright under contract to Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, is planning to remain permanently in America. He left Hollywood yesterday accompanied by his brother Victor to meet his wife and child in New York. Mrs. Vajda and the son, Tom, have just arrived from Europe. The Vajda family will return to Los Angeles the latter part of March. They have purchased a home in Beverly Hills.

Cosmo Bellew Signs

Cosmo Bellew, the young son of the late Kyrle Bellew, one of the most famous of modern stage actors, had no sooner arrived in Hollywood and taken a sightseeing bus around the city than he was signed up by Sam Goldwyn to play one of the outstanding roles in "King Harlequin," being produced by Henry King for Mr. Goldwyn's organization.

COSMO BELLEW

"King Harlequin" is an adaptation of the well-known play of the same name by Rudolph L. Othar, starring Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky. In the production young Bellew plays the part of the husband who gets killed.

Bellew has been a headliner in vaudeville and has just come to Hollywood from creating a great success as the aviator in the stage play, "Louie the Fourteenth."

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS WILL HEAR CONCERT

It has long been the wish of J. H. McEldowney of Bell to interest members of the Knights of Pythias in the Sunday afternoon popular concerts of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra. To this end he has been working with the result that tomorrow afternoon some fifty members and friends of the Huntington Park Lodge Knights of Pythias wil have as the guests of the lodge the Huntington Park High School orchestra, consisting of fifty pupil members, under the direction of Conductor Hawkins.

This is only the beginning of a series of similar occasions to be participated in by other high schools and lodges, under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias District Convention No. 30.

GIVEN OPPORTUNITY

May McAvoy is rapidly nearing the completion of her first starring vehicle under her new contract with Warner Brothers. The story is called "Matinee Ladies," and is said to afford tiny May similar opportunities which she had in such successes as "Sentimental Tommy" and "The Enchanted Cottage," it is claimed.

SWITCHBOARD IS STRATEGIC PLACE

BY MARQUIS BUSBY

There's just no keeping track of that Cinderella girl. She bobs up in the strangest places. This week she's plugging away at a telephone switchboard, but that doesn't prevent her winning a husband with $40,000,000 in her spare moments.

"Orchids and Ermine," at Loew's State, is yet another version of Cinderella and Prince Charming. This is not to be taken that the picture is lacking in originality or interest. Far from it.

Colleen Moore is the Cinderella telephone operator, and Colleen in the picture is the most roguish and adorable little minx that ever stepped out of a Fourth-avenue, shiny blue serge dress into a Fifth-avenue modiste's creation. Long may she ride in pumpkin coaches if in the final reel a Rollys-Royce is at her disposal.

There isn't much to tell about the plot of "Orchids and Ermine," for the very good and sufficient reason that there isn't much of a plot. A young Oklahoma millionaire, visiting in New York, has his valet impersonate him in order that he may safely escape the wiles of alluring blond "forty-niners." As a valet, the hero courts the telephone operator at the hotel pay station.

However, in spite of the will-o'-the-wisp plot, everything is done with a light, joyous touch, and Colleen seems again to be the particularly bright star she was in "Irene" and "Sally."

I don't know who was responsible for the titles in "Orchids and Ermine." Some of them are very funny, but there are far too many of them. Part of the time it seemed that the action illustrated the subtitles, as a consequence, at times the sequence is jumpy.

The title, by the way, comes from the fervent wish of the shabby telephone girl to some day wear orchids and ermine—"even if it's only rabbit skin."

In the supporting cast Gwen Lee is excellent as the blond, and wise-cracking hotel flower girl, who has man-handling down to a fine point. Her idea of a rich dish, according to a title is, "one old egg; mix in lots of applesauce; use well before shaking."

Again, this time to a boastful "butter and egg" man from the West:

"The program is coming in strong. What's your rave length?"

Jack Mulhall is the young millionaire. Jack is a nice-looking chap with a merry Irish grin, but the role affords him little opportunity. Neither does he look well with austere pincenez. Sam Hardy, as the masquerading millionaire dresses like a stevedore's dream of Utopia. To say that his wardrobe was bombastic is to put it mildly, but he is a good farceur. Others in the cast are Jed Prouty, Alma Bennett, Hedda Hopper, Kate Price, Emily Fitzroy, Caroline Snowden, Yola D'Avril, Brooks Benedict and Marjorie Bonner.

Alfred Santell directed this First National picture.

THERE WAS MORE THAN ONE LUNATIC

Just who the lunatic was in "The Lunatic At Large," the attraction that opened its engagement yesterday at the Upton Theater, is an extremely difficult thing to say; in fact, by the time that the film flashed off the screen one begins to doubt severely the exactness of his own mental faculties.

As the name implies, the story was all about a lunatic asylum, and every type of the mentally deficient from "Napoleon" to the "alley cat" was introduced.

The whole thing started when he unwittingly changed clothes with a gentleman who introduced himself as a millionaire.

As a result of the change, the unsuspecting Leon found himself locked in with a score of lunatics, with no apparent way of escape. When things looked the darkest, however, he met a young chap who, also laid a claim to sanity, saying that his twin brother doped him and sent him to the asylum, to rob him of the girl he was to marry.

Leon thereby promised the chap to discover some way of escape to rescue the girl and the rest of the film was given over to a series of laughs and thrills, occasioned by a most nerve-wracking dirigible episode.

Of course, the girl was rescued, and the boy escaped from the asylum and rewarded Leon with a roll of bills, the first installment on the $10,000 that he promised him if his venture was successful.

UNDER CONSIDERATION

RACHMANINOFF MASTER PIANIST

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

If Rachmaninoff were not so cosmopolitan an artist one might be tempted to call him the czar of pianists. He is high above the horde of professional pianists of this world, most of whom spend too much time catering to their audiences. He pays tribute to his art alone.

Playing straight through a monumental program without encores and with only a minute between numbers, Rachmaninoff gave an astounding exhibition of power at the Philharmonic Auditorium last night. He builded upon the firm foundation of the Beethoven sonata Op. 26, which is the one with the funeral march. It was impeccable Beethoven, without a flaw but also without emotion.

In Brahms the liquid notes under his fingers were warmed by an emotion closer to the surface and therefore more readily perceptible to the layman. The Intermezzo Opus 118 and Ballade, are rare recital numbers.

Abstract Chopin is also a rarity. Rachmaninoff achieves it. The Rondo, Opus 16, a comparatively little-known Nocturne and waltz were without sentimentality, without sex. There was not a maudlin note nor a one without ineffable charm.

Continuing the extraordinary concert list, the pianist interpolated two fairy tales by Medtner, the only touch of modernism. They were of such sound musicality as to lose nothing by proximity to the classic masterpieces that had gone before.

The Prelude was not the inevitable one. The whirlwind Rakoczy March, by Liszt closed a remarkable program, remarkable for its musical worth, for its dignity and for the valuable example this great composer-pianist sets the music-world by his adherence to the highest principles of playing and program building.

Morning Show New Innovation for Playhouse

The marionettes will appear in "Cinderella" today and next Saturday, as the forerunners of a plan to make the Hollywood Playhouse a general rendezvous for the entertainment of children during the mornings of their Saturday holidays. Advance reservations indicate that the youngsters have been besieging their elders to take them to see these puppets which present the fairy tales so dear to the child's heart.

It is said that marionettes are the oldest actors in the world—they have been found in Sanskript drama; their remains have been unearthed in the ruins of ancient Rome, and the Chinese have always had puppets in many of their religious ceremonies.

Comedy Reigns in Romance of Tourist Camps

Intimate glimpses into the life of the "tin-can tourists" are provided by Alan Hale, director of "Rubber Tires," featuring Harrison Ford and Bessie Love, which will be on view at the Hillstreet Theater next week.

This human comedy of the auto camps, which Zelda Sears and Tay Garnett adapted from the story by Frank Condon, chronicles the overland motor jaunt of a typical New York family via the auto tourist camps. Miss Love, as Mary Ellen Stack, the heroine, after losing her job in New York City, trades her household belongings for an automobile of ancient vintage, and motors west with her dependent family.

En route she meets the hero, portrayed by Harrison Ford, and the experiences encountered during the trip from Atlantic to the Pacific, it is said, furnish laughs galore.

"Rubber Tires" was filmed during a trip of several thousand miles, with all of the scenes taken in various auto camps at which the company stopped en route. In addition to Miss Love and Ford, the cast includes May Robson, Junior Coghlan, John Patrick and Erwin Connelly.

TRAVELERS — AND DIRECTORS

Preparing for a picture, Del Lord finds, is like the intelligent planning of a journey abroad. The good traveler, he argues, knows what he is going to see, where to spend the most time and what to eliminate. He makes out a careful itinerary and departs from it only when it is an advantage. Lord is putting in long hours in his preparations for "Topsy and Eva," which will bring the Duncan sisters to the screen, and announces that he will be ready to start shooting in a few days, in all probability on the United Artists' stages.

IMAGINE, ADOLPHE AS COUNTRY SWAIN

However, Immaculate Star Does Mend His Way Later in "Evening Clothes"

BY ALMA WHITAKER

Any amount of good fun in "Evening Clothes" at the Metropolitan this week, with Adolphe Menjou as a bearded countrified Frenchman (oh, only for a reel or two—he soon smartens up!) and Virginia Valli as his lovely, frightfully ladylike, but rather tiresome, wife.

John McDermott has made a good story out of the French play, and Luther Reed recovers the reputation as a director, which he nearly lost with "New York." Lots of clever little touches in this that are quite "Lubitchish" in their artfulness.

Menjou is worth 40,000,000 francs, and oh, he loves the girl. But, alas, he also loves horses, dogs, pigs, calves and yearns to express his love for the girl through them. Which she, romantic dear, doesn't appreciate at all—besides, papa is making her marry the forty millions. So we see Virginia weeping on her bridal night, and Menjou, as an unappreciated bridegroom in an old-fashioned nightshirt and a beard. But Adolphe is rather more than a perfect gentleman. When he understands the horrid situation he turns three-fourths of his fortune over to Virginia and leaves her an unkissed bride.

But a dear friend is at hand, played by Arnold Kent, who diagnoses the case. Wife wants a man who knows more about women and less about pigs. So Adolphe goes to Paris—and it is no end of a relief to see him with the beard off and evening clothes on. There are a couple of minxes who do their best toward his education. Restaurant scenes, of course—what sophisticates could do without restaurants? But even these are handled with a "Woman of Paris" Chaplinesqus touch—and we are suitably amused.

Lots of men in the audience, and there was a masculine gurgle of approval very obvious when the friend tells Menjou not to worry about a woman who doesn't love him as he can get all the trouble he wants from some that do. However, we are to understand that Adolphe defends his purity to the end—in fact, we are given an example of how—which is where the "woman scorned" comes in.

And the woman scorned (Louise Brooks,) unofficially belongs to Monsieur Le Baron, (Noah Beery,) who, it transpires, is really a mere bailiff. But Adolphe has run through the trumpery ten millions he reserved from himself . . . so the unofficial baron becomes a very official bailiff with most uncomfortable results. We see our Adolphe and his friend starving—surrounded by gorgeous plenty and Luther Reed gets in some of his best fun on this. Adolphe is reduced to parading in evening dress in the rain as a sandwich-board man.

But a dashing made charmer like Adolphe couldn't fail to win the lady's love in the end, and Virginia relents and repents and they all live happy ever after.

Bob Nelson's orchestra is very Irish this week—four leaved clovers all over the place and St. Patrick very much in the ascendant. And Felix was creating rain in the desert to sell umbrellas to shiek . . . so what with this rain and the rain Menjou got so wet in, it was all in the picture to come out into rain in Los Angeles as well. It didn't affect the attendance any.

It is worth a wetting to see Menjou learning how not to be so innocent.

IBSEN PLAY GIVEN AT OATMAN SCHOOL

With a curtain as precisely fifteen minutes late as the most approved professional performance, Ibsen's "A Doll's House" was given last night as the fourth of a series of four presentations by the Marta Oatman Players. The place was the "Sum-Toy-Sho," which is at the Marta Oatman School of the Theater on South Figueroa street.

It is understandable why so many nonprofessional producers often favor the plays of Henrik Ibsen. They are essentially "theater"—which is to say that they are, on the surface, easily "actable." Their pitfall lies in the fact that, unless they are given the most studied interpretations, their characters remain as two-dimensional as those in a melodrama. Most of Ibsen's people have a faint streak of madness in them; and, unless the players are unremittingly watchful, the streak broadens dangerously.

Making allowances, then, for this circumstance, those taking part in "A Doll's House" last night acquitted themselves quite creditably. Dayton Lummis, in particular, brought to the role of Torvald Helmer a commendable degree of sincerity and restraint. And if, at times, he seemed a rather boyish Torvald, it is probably because he is a rather boyish Dayton—which is justification enough. W. Burrwood Jones was adequately philosophical as Doctor Rank, to whom, in this play, fall most of the sermonizing lines which bear the tag, "Ibsen speaking."

Margaret Day Dolan, in the extremely difficult role of Nora Helmer, threw herself into it with a wholesouled enthusiasm that would have astonished even the venerable Henrik, had his astral spirit chanced into the Sum-Toy-Sho last evening. One wonders how the role was interpreted the three previous nights—for, like the Nun and the Madonna in "The Miracle," on each occasion a different young lady played it.

Pete Ziegler, as the villainous Nils Krogstad, won a round of applause on making his exit; but, as he was also the stage manager, there is a possibility, at least, that this was what caused the demonstration. As a matter of fact, the single set was rather pleasing, considering the limitations of the stage.

Others in the cast were Janet Gordon, Marie MacLean and Alice Briody.

CHAPLIN REVIVAL AT BROADWAY PALACE

The Broadway Palace announces, starting today, the western premiere of a nation-wide revival of Charlie Chaplin's comedy, "Shoulder Arms," considered by many to be as funny as any comedy Charlie ever made.

Reports from various parts of the country where the revival is now in full swing are to the effect that Charlie's war-time comedy is playing to as large audiences as greeted it on its first appearance.

On the same bill comes the first Los Angeles showing of Fred Thomson's "A Regular Scout." The picture is officially indorsed by the Boy Scouts of America and the cast includes Mary Carr, T. Roy Barnes and Robert McKim.

STRAIN BREAKS DEATH WITNESS

Mrs. Clancy Collapses as Kidnaping Fails

Woman Held Incomunicado in Murder Case

Armed Guard Set to Halt Further Trouble

Her nerves shattered by a recent attempt to kidnap her when she was drugged and thrown beneath a porch, Mrs. Bernice Clancy, 22 years of age, principal witness at the forthcoming trial of Dr. W. K. Williams on a murder charge, collapsed yesterday at the home of Investigator Horn, where she has been living under guard.

MRS BERNICE CLANCY

As a result of the collapse of Mrs. Clancy, Dep. Dist.-Attys. Egan and Dennison, who will prosecute Dr. Williams at his trial, which is scheduled to open next Tuesday in Superior Court, ordered the woman held incommunicado with instructions not to permit her to go out on the street unless accompanied by an armed escort.

Investigator Horn reported to Egan that Mrs. Clancy collapsed on the rear porch of his home when a lineman working at the rear of his property made some joking remark to her, which she misinterpreted. She was unconscious for almost half an hour and it was necessary to call a physician to revive her, Horn reported.

Several days ago at her home, 2129½ La Verna avenue, Eagle Rock, she went to the back porch, where a gloved hand closed over her face and she lost consciousness. Her father found her half an hour later under a porch, a dish towel tied over her face and her feet bound. She was revived at the Receiving Hospital.

Dr. Williams is charged with the murder of Frances Taylor, former student at the University of California at Los Angeles. It is charged she died ten days after an operation. Dr. Williams is at liberty under $10,000 bond.

FOX PERMIT FOR STOCKS EXPEDITED

Friedlander Starts Work as Corporation Chief by Quick Authorization

It will be the policy of the Corporation Department to expedite the issuance of permits to legitimate business, according to an announcement made by Commissioner Friedlander yesterday when within twenty-four hours after application for a permit was made, he authorized the Fox Realty Corporation to issue stock.

Under the terms of the permit, which was the first Friedlander signed since he took office, practically all the stock will be issued to the Fox Film Company in consideration of the transfer of three large real estate holdings.

The three properties involved in the transfer are the Orpheum Building in Oakland, the Fox Studios at Western avenue and Sunset Boulevard, and the Fox Hills Studios near Westwood. They are listed as having a total net value of $7,722,979.

Various appraisals show the land value of the Western avenue site to be between $1,800,000 and $2,092,000. The buildings are appraised at $1,851,000.

Three appraisers estimated the 100 acres in the Fox Hills Studios to be worth from $2,000,000 to $2,300,000. Buildings on this property are said to be valued at $758,000.

The Fox Realty Corporation also has filed a preliminary application for permission to issue bonds to the amount of $4,000,000.

Auto Club Denies Backing Bill for Speed Increase

Published reports to the effect that the Automobile Club of Southern California would back a bill before the State Legislature to increase the speed limit on State highways from thirty-five to forty miles an hour were denied yesterday by Ivan Kelso, general counsel for the Auto Club.

"There is considerable sentiment in some quarters for an increase in the speed limit on the open road, and it may be that friends of this proposal have enough backing to insure the passage of such an amendment to the law," Mr. Kelso said.

"However, the Automobile Club of Southern California has never asked or even suggested such a change. It has consistently discouraged those who have sought to enlist its aid in such a movement."

The report that the local organization would support such a measure came from Sacramento in the form of a dispatch. The club was one of three organizations mentioned in the report as sponsoring such a move.

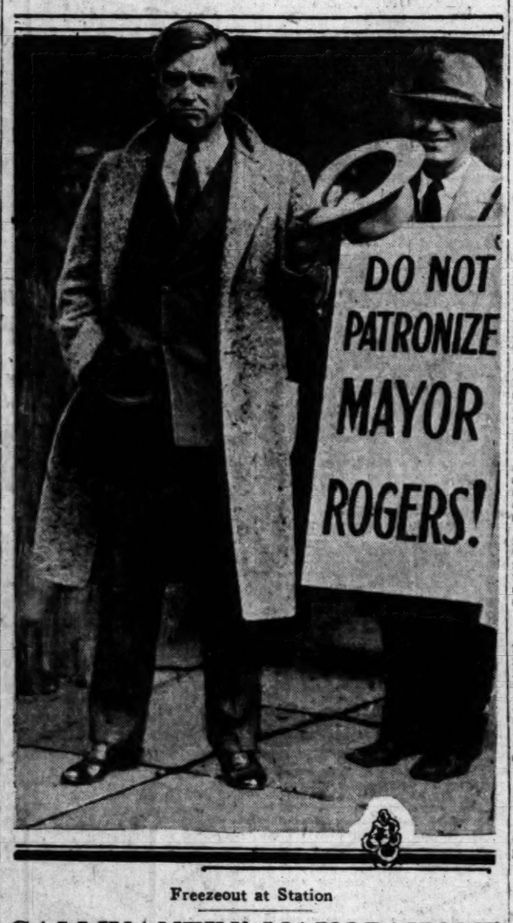
Added Appeal Made Here for Haste on Tax

Income taxpayers should make their returns for 1926 immediately if they wish to avoid a last-minute rush, Collector of Internal Revenue Welch announced yesterday. Indications now are that returns during the next week will set a record for the number filed, Mr. Welch stated, as a number of taxpayers have been postponing making their returns due to inclement weather.

Tax returns may be mailed accompanied by check, draft or money order. At least one-quarter of the tax due must accompany the return.

For the convenience of taxpayers the Internal Revenue office on the second floor of the Postoffice Building, Temple and Main streets, will remain open until midnight on the 15th inst., the final day for filing returns.

Cold Welcome for Leading Citizen



Freezeout at Station

GALLIVANTIN' MAYOR HOME

Will Rogers Says He's Going to Settle Down, Settle Beverly Hills and Settle Weather

Will Rogers, the commuting Mayor of Beverly Hills, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday noon on The Apache and, after spending a few brief hours in his bailiwick, showed the true commuting spirit and caught the next train out. Either his comings and goings are so frequent that they fail to attract notice any longer or his subjects are a bit annoyed over his protracted absence from the seat of government, for the committee of welcome consisted of Stanley Anderson. The Mayor's most ardent supporters for his recent appointment to office were conspicuous by their absence.

Rogers stepped off the train and made the distance to Mr. Anderson's waiting motor in about five leaps. While he didn't say it in so many words, his actions indicated that he was in somewhat of a hurry. However, he did toss off a few quips to those who went trailing along in his wake and paused a moment for a photograph.

SORRY FOR FLORIDA

He remarked that he is sorry to see by the papers that Florida is having a cold snap. The remark was accompanied by an expansive grin and one eye appeared to be twitching.

Asked when he is going to give some time to the job of being Mayor he laughed and shrugged his shoulders in a manner which indicated that perhaps he doesn't regard his responsibilities with the solemnity and reverence due his office and his townspeople.

"There's a few more places that I haven't told about Beverly yet," he said. "As soon as I settle that job I'll come back and settle Beverly. I'll do something about this weather, too." And he pulled his coat collar up around his ears.

RIVAL ON SCENE

Eddie Cantor, a political rival of Mayor Rogers, sent representatives to the train in the person of men wearing sandwich signs with messages extolling his own virtues and others derogatory to the Mayor. The Mayor appeared not one whit disconcerted thereby.

After spending an hour or two with his family in Beverly, Rogers took the train for Santa Barbara, where he spoke last night. Today he will commute to San Diego for an engagement there. On Monday night he will speak in Riverside and on Tuesday night in Pomona. He will appear in Los Angeles on Wednesday night, the 9th inst., at the Philharmonic Auditorium. That will complete his speaking tour for the season and he intends to settle down in Beverly for the summer.

STORES BACKING ALL-YEAR CLUB

Third Meeting of Week With Full Subscriptions

City's Business Leaders Tell of Benefits Received

For the third time during the current week a 100 per cent solid subscription meeting for the All-Year Club and the Chamber of Commerce was conducted yesterday. It added $56,000 to the collection that is swelling toward the goal of $1,200,000.

The money was subscribed by twenty-four of the retail dry goods stores of Los Angeles. Each store represented subdivided. And subscriptions ranged from $10,000 to $50. About 200 stores remain to be canvassed. When each is represented in the collection the list of subscribers is to be published.

J. G. Bullock, president of Bullock's and in charge of collection among the stores, expressed hope that dry-goods stores would exceed all other divisions. There is one division, not dry goods, with a quota of $120,000.

The other two 100 per cent meetings of the week were Monday by the banks and Thursday by the railroads. The banks, with all joining through the clearinghouse, subscribed $50,000 and the railroads subscribed $75,000 or $25,000 each.

BRIEF TALKS GIVEN

The taking of the subscriptions followed brief talks by Mr. Bullock, Henry S. McKee, president of Barker Brothers, former United States Senator Frank P. Flint, chairman of the board of directors of the All-Year Club, S. F. MacFarlane, Myc Siegel, Chairman of the meeting and Victor Girard, chairman of the joint financial committee of the All-Year Club and of the Chamber of Commerce that is raising the $1,200,000.

"Until this year," said Mr. Bullock, "I had not realized the effectiveness and importance of the work the All-Year Club is doing. Now I do. It is a vital factor in my own business. It is the one great organization we have that advertises productively, that is, it makes more business for all of us. My subscription is a straight business proposition."

Mr. McKee pointed out that if the population increases at the rate of 100,000 a year, as it has under the stimulus of All-Year Club advertising, that it is hard to imagine any of the newcomers spending less than $1000 a year. "Thus, in the first year of their living here," he said, "they add $100,000,000 to the money spent in Los Angeles. We all get a share. And remember they spend as much each year thereafter and we have a continuing new accumulation."

COMMUNITY AGENCY

Senator Flint emphasized the character of the All-Year Club. He pointed out that it is a pure community agency with no profit to anyone. He said it has a paid secretary and necessary employees, but that all others are in the work purely because of the good that comes to them as a result of it. The All-Year Club has, so far as is known, the lowest overhead expense of any of the larger community organizations here or elsewhere.

Victor Girard showed several exhibits, the most striking of these one on Florida advertising. "Most people," he said, "believe Florida quiet and no longer a compelling factor, but this year Florida will spend at least five times as much on its advertising for one season as we will spend for both our summer and winter season."

The Retail Merchants' Dry Goods Association, consisting of twelve of the largest of the downtown stores, was host at the meeting. It was a luncheon in the Biltmore Hotel. Myer Siegel, president of the association, presided.

Buy New Ones

If the tip has come off the youngster's shoe lace, don't try to get along without a new pair. They are very cheap and little things of this sort make the boy late for school and thoroughly irritated before the day is started. His shoes should be in order just as much as buttons on his suits.

Find of Plane Held Proof of Smuggling Plot

As a result of the arrest yesterday near Riverside of two Chinese and an Indian mechanic, Riverside authorities believe they have discovered a smuggling ring using airplanes to transport orientals to Southern California from Mexico.

The airplane, with the two raindrenched Chinese hiding beneath it, was found by Riverside deputy sheriffs in a grain field near Murrietta, thirty miles south of Riverside. The Indian, Claude Blackfoot, was found near by in a wrecked automobile. It is believed by the deputy sheriff that Blackfoot was summoned to the spot to repair the plane, but that his car was wrecked when it left the road. The owner of the plane is being sought in Los Angeles by officers.

MOVE TO CURB REDS STARTS

Patriotic Committee Organizing to Combat Spread of Sovietism Among Foreign-Born

First steps toward organizing a patriotic committee of 100, to combat the spread of sovietism and to instill a spirit of genuine Americanism in foreign-born residents, were taken at a meeting last night in Woodrow Wilson Hall of the Patriotic Building, 1816 South Figueroa street.

More than a score of patriotic organizations were represented and Capt. Edward Pallette presided. The principal speakers were Col. Arthur Williams, Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe, Col. Perry Widener, Judge Dailey Stafford and several others. All were agreed that the public school affords the best opportunity for instilling and fostering patrotic ideals and the work of the Parent-Teachers' Association along this line was highly commended.

Attention was called to the fact that twenty-two radical schools in Los Angeles are circulating un-American propaganda and it was reported that copies of a soviet paper recently were distributed in one of the junior high schools of the city. One article in this paper, it was said, objected to loyalty to the United States government being taught in the public schools and there were other articles of similar nature. This paper is still being published, according to one of the speakers at the meeting and, under the Constitution, it seems there is no way to suppress it.

The only alternative, said Capt. Pallette, is to show that such doctrine is false. America, he said, is the finest place in the world to live in and aliens, who are most susceptible to propaganda of the red brand, must be convinced that they are enjoying freedom and privileges under the Stars and Stripes which they could find nowhere else.

Col. Williams was designated as temporary chairman of the committee, which is to be composed of representatives of every patriotic body in the city. A permanent organization is expected to be formed within the next few months.

SWIFT EXPLAINS MEAT USE

Packer, Visiting Here, Says Flesh Diet Holding Own Through Ads Stressing Wholesomeness

Despite the teachings of food experts who would have the populace eschew the eating of meat, this form of foodstuff remains as popular as ever, according to Louis F. Swift, president of Swift & Co., Chicago meat packers, who arrived at the Biltmore yesterday.

"The per capita consumption of meat today is as large as it was twenty years ago," said Mr. Swift. "This may be in part due to the fact that the meat-packing interests of late years have advertised more than in former years, stressing the wholesomeness of a meat diet. In any event, there appears to have been no noticeable falling off in the eating of flesh foods."

Commenting on the plentiful rainfall in California during the present season the packing magnate said this will be of material benefit to the production of meats.

"It will be followed by a marked improvemt in range conditions which will result in both greater abundance and better quality of meats," he said. "Large production of meats on the Pacific Coast will aid the food situation of the entire country."

He spoke optimistically of the condition of business throughout the country as a whole, saying the situation never was better. He would not comment on politics except to say that, in his opinion, if President Coolidge is a candidate on the Republican ticket in 1928 he is almost certain of re-election.

Mr. Swift came to the coast to attend the recent opening of the new union stockyards in San Francisco. He will leave for Santa Barbara today, where he will spend some time at his winter home.

Miss Florence McDonald

YACHT GIRL ON VISIT TO SOUTHLAND

Florence McDonald, Sister of Polar Expedition's Backer, Plans Flight Here

Miss Florence McDonald, 21-year-old New York society girl, sister of Eugene Francis McDonald, who was responsible for the financing of the Polar expedition of Donald Baxter McMillan, arrived in Los Angeles Harbor yesterday morning aboard the Panama Mail liner Venezuela on her first trip to the Pacific Coast.

An expert flyer herself, Miss McDonald is also one of a few women in the United States to hold master's papers to captain a yacht.

When her brother sailed as second in command of the McMillan expedition as captain of the S. S. Perry, his sister was sojourning in Europe. A cable asked that she return to Chicago and take charge of her brother's yacht, the Zenith. She sailed immediately and during her brother's Polar trip, cruised the Great Lakes as skipper of the palatial yacht, Zenith, with a crew of twenty-three men.

With her mother, Mrs. E. F. McDonald, the pretty American girl is on a tour of the Pacific Coast. She stated that she was looking forward to her visit to Los Angeles and while here intended to make several airplane flights to gain a birdseye view of Southern California.

Miss McDonald is one of the foremost all-around athletes in social circles of the East, and declared that she intends to witness many of California's winter and spring outdoor sports while she is in California.

Colonel's Garb Protested by French Consul

Protests were made yesterday to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Thoms, head of the District Attorney's office, by Henri Didot, local French Consul, to the asserted wearing without authority by Enrico Jean Ballieu, a singer, of the uniform of a French colonel.

As the matter was declared to contain no offense so far as the State is concerned, it was referred to the United States authorities by Mr. Thoms.

Eagle Room Expanded to Large Roof Suite

Recent Program Given by Concertina Club

Special National Quartet of Legion Sings

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

Fifteen years ago, when The Times building was erected at First and Broadway, there was little use for space in the tower structure or on the roof.

Since the beginning of its radio department, five years ago, however, broadcast space and equipment has gradually expanded from the original little room on the fifth floor, which was operating room, studio, office and reception salon all in one.

Visitors who today visit The Times radio department find the operating room on the fifth floor, with all of the control apparatus, panels and instruments, while next door the batteries and other technical apparatus are housed. Visitors are not allowed to inspect the operating room, but may broadcast a glass window affords a fleeting glance.

Directly ahead the reception room and office acts in the dual capacity of quarters for the radio booking and general office procedure.

VISITORS' GALLERY

To the left is the visitors' gallery, with a glass roof and aplenty of room for visitors during broadcast periods. Pictures of radio talent of yesterday and today adorn the walls and the various rooms in the broadcasting suite.

With the newest march of the radio fan has encroached upon the old gallery and now the first two stories of the gallery visitors can see the studio, which is used for certain afternoons for tryouts and one evening for the regular broadcast.

Besides the usual equipment of comfortable furnishings the studio has the piano, another of the regular type, the little celeste, an old-fashioned cottage organ, and the usual studio canaries, Kindness, Happiness and Joy.

Of the rewards of broadcast fame is the host of radio friends the announcer from each station in the course of years. John finds scores of visitors each week from different places, who call in to see the program and invariably to shake hands with their radio friends. They come from all parts of the compass and while his time only to say "hello," he is glad of the human element that makes broadcast such a vitally interesting activity.

LITERARY REVIEW

The KHJ broadcast of the speaking art last night brought to the air Dr. Thomas F. Ford, literary editor of The Sunday Times, with his weekly book reviews; Dr. Charles S. Nutter, pastor of the Wilshire All-Church, with the weekly Council of International Relations talk, "Preparation of the Mind for Christ," Rev. Albert F. Reitz, pastor of the Fairview Heights Baptist Church of Inglewood, in the series of Scripture readings, and the weekly child hour broadcast of Friday with Mrs. Roberta Bush, the "Fireside" in popular songs; Bettimae Brown, "Bobolink," in some more popular tunes; Richard Hesdrick, the boy minister, in the first of a series of radio Bible stories for children; Harriette Poland, "Forget-Me-Not," in a group of readings, following by literary forget-me-not, Lindsay Bringham, in a vocal and pianologue solo; Billy Lord, with pianologue jokes and a story; Lawrence Bond, violinist, accompanied by Dorothy Tipton. Added was given the children's program of the evening because yesterday was the wedding anniversary of Jack, who furnishes all the jokes for youngsters, as well as the role of the Fairy Godmother of Uncle Tom's hour, who writes most of the

PINCHES DRIVE WIFE TO COURT

Husband's Playful Tactics Told in Divorce Action When She Rebels

Frank E. Koen, according to the strange tale Mildred Koen told Judge Summerfield, pinched too hard.

Shortly after their marriage in 1919 he began pinching her, she testified. He pinched her into hysteria, and when she was taken to a hospital to recover he followed her and pinched her further, she related. He even pinched another woman who was ill in the same ward, and finally the hospital authorities threw him out, Mrs. Koen said.

Another broadcast of Friday will be that of Roberta Bush, the "Fireside Lady" of popular songs; "Bettimae Bedelink," in some more serious vein; Richard Headrick, the "Boy Reader," in the first of a series of Bible stories for children; Ralph Poland, "Forget-Me-Not Man," in a group of readings, following Rosary forget-me-nots; Ruth Bingham, in a vocal and piano recital; Billy Lord, with his funny jokes and a story; Ruth Reed, violinist, accompanied by Dorothy Tipton. CONCERTINA CLUB

A new group to radio was presented at KHJ last evening in the form of the concertina section of the Southern California Concertina Club, Henry Schepp, Gust Klumae, Jim Miller, Oscar Guenther and Paul Kraft, concertinas, with Hugo Diuhoa, violinist. They offered a group of four numbers, including one descriptive piece, "Napoleon's Last Charge" march.

Bill Henry took part in the program again with some ballads, and J. J. Wetmore gave some piano solos with variations; Carl Hanson, with his musical saw, entertained with a group of three tunes; Grace Currey, harp soloist, played two groups, and Abe Jacobson, in some more "Bad Time Stories."

A group new to KHJ, but well known through personal appearances, was Clare Young's Keno Four, a quartet which was officially adopted as the national quartet by the headquarters of the American Legion. They have appeared in twenty-eight States during the Legion endowment drive, and are now in California, flying from place to place. They will take an airship to San Diego for an engagement, and later to Sacramento for another appearance. A good many local people saw the Keno Four in the Shrine Auditorium at the Legion '48 show.

Clare F. Young is baritone, C. Ranson Samuelson, bass and pianist; George Reineking, first tenor, and Max Baehr, second tenor. The group always appears in cowboy attire, and they did some roping in the studio last night while some photo shots were made. "Cowboy Joe" and "That Old Gang of Mine" were among their best received numbers.

EX-FIRE CHIEF AND WIFE GAS VICTIMS

LEE DAVIS AND SPOUSE NEAR DEATH FROM FUMES OF MONOXIDE

Lee Davis, former deputy fire chief of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Davis were convalescing yesterday at their home, 4048 Echo street, from carbon monoxide poisoning, which came near killing both Thursday night.

They were sitting talking, Davis said, when Mrs. Davis suddenly fell from her chair unconscious. He sprang to her aid and was himself overcome, but revived sufficiently to crawl to a window and throw it open. It was some moments before he was able to reach the telephone and call Dr. Gerald Smith, his physician. Dr. Smith revived both.

SLEEPER KILLED BY MONOXIDE POISON

A victim of carbon monoxide poisoning, Charles Godfrey, 76 years of age, was found dead in bed yesterday in his room at 850 South Norton avenue. A gas heater in the room was lighted, and the windows and door had been closed. The body was taken to the County Morgue.

Apostle of Free Trade Sees Breakers Ahead

America's Tariff Plan Fatal, Club Women Told

Sir George Paish Absorbing Speaker, Despite Topic

BY ALMA WHITAKER

Sir George Paish, English international financial expert, boggled the Friday Morning Club with his talk on international credit and dizzy billions at its luncheon yesterday.

But he managed to make it very clear that, while the world is in debt to the United States, and while this country sells more than it buys, with Europe working long hours for small pay to earn money not only to pay debts, but also to make goods it cannot sell, we, too, are heading toward a financial crisis.

He brought the vast subject down to understandable dimensions by showing us how our own lives are controlled by credits; how we in this country are buying clothes, houses, cars on the credit system and what would happen to us if that credit were to cease—which he pessimistically predicts surely will happen if the nations of the world and America in particular, do not leave off raising tariff barriers against international trade.

LOOKS THE PART

Sir George is an unofficial missionary who has this cause very ardently at heart. And in spite of the fact that he is the savoire-faire, patrician type of Englishman, even unto the aristocratic little gray moustache and the Prince Albert coat and the House-of-Lords nose, he was human enough to pause and blush and say "Oh, please don't go," when a lady with an urgent date left the audience. He couldn't bear to think he might be a bore. He wasn't.

In spite of the fact that Mrs. Caroline Rouse, who is impresario-ing for Sir George in this city, so begrudged me a twenty-minute interview with him that she did most of the chatting with him herself, I managed to cull a few views from the Baronet before his speech.

He is a Liberal, now in opposition in England, having fallen out with Bonar Law on the subject of tariffs—for he is an ardent free-trader. His sympathies were also with the miners in the recent disastrous coal strike, although he concedes that the settlement, which reduced wages—except in that it only increases them on the basis of a larger output—was inevitable and necessary for the well being of the country as a whole.

SEES ENGLAND DRY

Sir George also is an ardent teetotaler and believes that a form of prohibition is due in England very soon. But, he said, while the women were largely responsible for prohibition in this country, it will be the working men themselves who will initiate it in England and therefore enforcement will be much simpler, since the men will largely do their own enforcing, as is the English way.

Sir George also denied the rumor that he deplored modern styles for women. On the contrary, he assured me, he entirely approves of bobbed hair and short skirts ("if they are not too very short") and he considers that women have shone with distinction in all the responsibilities of public life they have so far been intrusted with. In fact, he is strong for the sex, believes in them and, he added, slyly, on that account he deplores paint and powder and lipsticks, "because they are so charming without it."

Which will account for the fact that his entirely feminine audience at the Friday Morning Club, he being the one lone man present, felt this sympatica aura of his and so found even a lecture on so dismal a subject as pending financial disaster interesting.

Sir George will play golf on Sunday morning, make a couple of more addresses, and leave this city on Monday.

RICE SOUP

Heat four tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan, add four tablespoonfuls of washed rice and four tablespoonfuls of sifted flour; heat, stir in slowly six cupfuls of chicken broth and simmer until the rice becomes tender. Stir carefully so as not to break the rice, and do not let burn. When rice is tender stir in slowly the yolks of two eggs beaten with one and a half cupfuls of cream. Stir until the eggs are set, do not boil, add a seasoning of salt, paprika and nutmeg. Remove from the fire and stir in the strained juice of one lemon. Serve in cups.

BOILED CHICKEN

Clean a four or five-pound fat hen, rub inside and out with salt and pepper, place an onion and a bay leaf inside; flour a wet, clean cloth, place in a pot with three quarts of boiling water one scraped carrot, two stalks of celery and one small onion stuck with two whole cloves. Cover and simmer twenty minutes to the pound. Remove the chicken, take off the cloth, set in a roasting pan, brush with melted butter and brown in the oven. Reduce the broth to six cupfuls, strain and use for the rice soup.

PARSLEY SAUCE

Beat six tablespoonfuls of butter to a cream and beat into it two tablespoonfuls of strained lemon juice, two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley, and a seasoning of salt and pepper. Spread over the browned chicken and serve.

LIBERTY SALAD

Boil two celery roots, cool, peel and cut in small dice; place the celery root dice in a cold bowl and mix with one cupful of peeled and sliced celery, one cupful of stoned cherries, one cupful of peeled and diced grapefruit, and half a cupful of lemon French dressing. Drain and mound on six lettuce covered plates, place a tablespoonful of mayonnaise on each salad and serve.

ANGEL PARFAIT

Fill eight-ounce stem glasses one-quarter full with strawberry ice cream, lay on this layer of sliced bananas, add another quarter of vanilla ice cream. Cover with peeled and diced oranges, add another layer of vanilla ice cream, fill glass with whipped cream and sprinkle with chopped walnut meats.

WELSH RAREBIT SOUFFLE

Melt a teaspoonful of butter in the top of a double boiler, add one cupful of cream, half a teaspoonful of mustard, a seasoning of salt and paprika, and one cupful of fresh bread crumbs. Bring to a boil, stir in one cupful of finely chopped rich American cheese and stir until smooth. Add the beaten yolks of two eggs, stir one minute, remove from the fire and add the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Pour over slices of toast on hot plates and serve.

YOUR BABY and MINE

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

There is no subject within recent years which has caused so much comment and discussion as this idea of making children eat what is good for them despite their apparent aversion to it.

Not that this is a new idea, because when a child is put in a hospital as a result of malnutrition, it is obvious that he is given what he should have, and not what he thinks he wants.

No one ever called this brutality or even thought of it as such. In fact a parent who put a child in a hospital to have it fed correctly would be immensely upset if the nurse would tell her as the child grew weaker and weaker, that they prepared the right foods for the child but it wouldn't eat them.

The question of discipline in foods and discipline in action have a common result in that if a child learns from infancy that he is expected to eat the food the mother prepares for him, he is also going to be much more likely to obey her other injunctions, provided they are not so many and so confusing that he can't possibly obey them all.

All food except milk is strange to them and some babies refuse strange things on general principles.

Small Amounts Recommended

But this is no reason for letting them continue to refuse them. The food should be tempting and palatable . . . it should be offered to the baby in very small amounts and in a manner so convince him that this is something he is going to enjoy. If the mother takes a spoonful of cereal first (not with the same spoon) and appears to enjoy it a lot, the baby will imitate her actions and enjoyment.

If the baby spits it out, experimentally, that is the time to show him that this is not what you expected of him. Wipe his mouth, take a fresh spoonful and try again. Keep on until the baby has decided that he may as well swallow this food, since spitting it out seems to get him nowhere.

Obviously all of this is easier when the food is first offered to a baby than later when he has learned that his mother is helpless if he doesn't want to eat something. It doesn't take him long to learn that fact and to act upon it.

New Method Questioned

Some persons have a feeling that forcing a baby to eat food which he spits out, or vomits (a very easy thing for most babies to do, by the way) is against those newer methods of discipline which say a child should have perfect freedom for the exercise of his will.

This is as untrue as it would be if we allowed Jimmie to drown himself because we thought it would thwart his will to keep him from running into the water.

We are not so sure about this newer method of discipline, in fact it is still in the experimental stage, children reared under this principle still being children and not adults . . . but we do know what is good for their small stomachs and what they must have to become hearty, healthy adults.

It is our duty as parents to see that they get it, and if the child sees that we are earnest in our endeavors and not moved by his refusals to eat, he will settle down and eat.

Be Firm

In forcing food discipline too much stress can not be laid upon the method used. The mother should always be firm . . . but kind and gentle. To spank a child for not eating is sheer brutality and makes him hate what you are trying to make him do.

It is the parent's attitude, rather than her actions, that convinces him she is serious.

In fact, the most successful attitude is to assume that, of course, the baby is going to "love" this . . . and then be as indifferent and matter of fact about the whole thing as one can be.

There is one warning which cannot be omitted from this discourse. Some babies cannot digest eggs, some cannot take orange juice without trouble and others find milk difficult to digestion.

These are exceptional children, for if new foods are started in very, very small amounts, not to exceed a teaspoonful for a week or so, they seldom cause trouble.

If the foods actually cause diarrhea, eczema, hives, etc., this baby must have different treatment, naturally. In our general discussions we do not consider the abnormal baby.

Mrs. Eldred has a leaflet on forcible feeding for infants and older children which may be obtained for a self-addressed, stamped envelope sent to this department.

DON'T HAVE CANCER! (PART 6)

Today I will finish my series of articles on cancer. I have devoted the whole week to this subject because of its importance and because of the very numerous requests from our readers to write on it.

From experience, I know I shall receive very many letters asking personal advice on this subject. Please let me say here that I cannot give you personal advice and you must not waste valuable time in writing to me if you have any condition that needs attention.

My heart aches many times when I read the pathetic letters that I get from some of you. But if you think for a moment, you will realize that I cannot take, nor should I take, the place of your personal physician.

If you think your doctor is not scientific and is not keeping up with the advanced methods of his profession, and if he does not give you a thorough physical examination, then go to another doctor. Unfortunately, the members of the medical profession, as of other professions, are not all equally competent.

Today I shall give you a summary on cancer:

First—Cancer is curable if discovered early and treated properly, immediately.

Second—Unfortunately, there may be no pain at all in beginning cancers.

Third — Cancer is first a small growth which can be safely and easily removed by a skilfull surgeon or perhaps a skin specialist.

Fourth—Sores, cracks, lacerations, lumps and ulcers which do not heal, and warts, moles or birthmarks which change in size, color or appearance, or that are in a position to be irritated, may run into cancer unless treated and cured. (The brownish scales which sometimes occur on old people's faces and hands should be watched and be picked at!)

Fifth—Every lump in the breast should be looked upon with suspicion. It may not be a cancer but it may degenerate into one. And the removal of a small noncancerous lump is a very minor operation, which may be done under a local anaesthesia; while if it goes on to cancer, the entire breast and the muscles on that side and the glands under the arm would have to be removed.

Sixth—Abnormal bleeding or discharge from the uterus or vagina at any time, or any return of bleeding after the change of life, should be investigated.

Seventh—Overeating in general, and the eating of very hot foods, may cause cancer of the stomach, and intestines. Unbalanced diets, especially with too little of the natural foods with vegetables and fruits and milk—and too much of the devitalized foods may also alter the chemistry of the body so that it is favorable to the development of cancer as well as of other diseases. Primitive peoples, who live on a natural diet and have considerable outdoor life and exercise, rarely have cancer.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

To Soften Woolen Underwear

One Mother Says:

When the children's woolen underwear gets somewhat shrunken and loses its softness through frequent washing I improve it by washing it carefully in quite warm, fluffy soap suds. Then rinse in several waters in which a dash of borax has been added and hang them on the line in the wind, without wringing the water out at all. The garments stretch to their original shape and the stiffness disappears.

MOTHER AND GIRL IN COURT

Well represented was the family Tarada yesterday in the liquor division of the Municipal Court as mother and daughter appeared in different courtrooms, the former for trial and the girl for arraignment on charges of Wright Act violations.

Miss Nur Tarada, pretty Japanese girl, appeared before Municipal Judge Turney to answer to charges of sale and possession of liquor at the store of her mother at 208½ North Alameda street. She was arrested Thursday night by Officer Washburn after she had sold an operative a pint of whisky. More liquor was found in a plant at the rear of the place of business.

While the girl was appearing in Division 8, the mother, Mrs. S. Tarada, came before Municipal Judge Stafford's jury division for trial on a charge of possession of liquor growing out of her arrest on January 15, last, at 1002 South San Pedro street. The mother was arrested by Officer Rudolph.

When the daughter asked trial by the court, Judge Turney set the case for the 16th inst., and fixed bail at $1300.

In the neighboring courtroom Mrs. Tarada exercised her woman's prerogative and changed her plea to guilty after Deputy City Prosecutor Eberhard had prepared for trial, Judge Stafford set date for sentence on the 7th inst.

Considerable liquor was found in each arrest, according to the reports of the arresting officers, and the finds were made when the officers went to the different stores to investigate reports of bootlegging.

ASTRONOMER IN PASADENA RACE

Dr. Merrill of Mt. Wilson Out for Director

Other Candidates Announce Their Intentions

C. B. Murphy, Defeated for Congress, Files

PASADENA, March 4.—Dr. Paul W. Merrill, astronomer of the Mt. Wilson Observatory staff, will be a candidate for election to the Board of City Directors in the coming campaign, according to an announcement made by the Modern Government League today.

Dr. Merrill, who lives at 718 North Michigan avenue, will take the place on the slate of the Modern Government League which was left vacant when Walter J. Lawrence was forced to withdraw because of poor health. Dr. Merrill lives in District No. 4.

More fuel was added to the political flame today when Charles B. Murphy, who was an unsuccessful Democratic candidate for Congress in this district last November, announced his candidacy for the Board of Directors and issued a statement vigorously denouncing the Modern Government League, which is sponsoring a complete ticket of seven candidates.

Another independent candidate officially in the field today is James Elms, president of the California Tile and Mantel Company, who has the support of a large number of church organizations.

In his campaign statement today Murphy said in part: "There is nothing modern about the Modern Government League. It is a misnomer. It is an archaic method of political control, long since discarded by intelligent and liberty-loving people. Why should a dozen self-appointed gentlemen be as presumptous as to seek to handpick the Directors of this city for the next two years? That they seek the control of the city through the seven men of their choice is self-evident."

Apartments in San Diego Face Condemnation

SAN DIEGO, March 4.—More than 175 of the city's apartment houses and hotels are facing condemnation by the City Board of Health because of flagrant violations of city and State health laws, it was announced today by E. W. Beale, chief city plumbing inspector, who explained that the State Board of Health has just completed a survey of conditions here.

Beale said further that more than 100 homes, recently condemned by the State Board of Health, are inhabited at present despite warnings from the health board.

Among the apartment-houses and hotels that are not complying with the State laws are some of San Diego's newest and most modern structures, Beale said.

Beale blames his inability to lower the number of violations here on his inadequate force of three deputy inspectors furnished for him by the City Council.

RITES CONDUCTED FOR MRS. FLOYD POMEROY

SAN FERNANDO, Mar. 4.—Funeral services were held at the Presbyterian Church yesterday morning for Mrs. Mollie Pomeroy, wife of Mayor Floyd A. Pomeroy, who passed away on Monday after a prolonged illness. The Rev. Fred W. Willman, pastor of the church, was in charge of services and burial was made at Forest Lawn, Glendale. Mrs. Pomeroy is survived by a husband and two sons, Marion, age 18, and Everett, 15. She was a member of the Presbyterian Church and the Ebell Club, taking an active interest in both. Pall-bearers were representatives of different civic organizations, being Clifton W. Judy and H. G. Muegge of the City Council; Chas. W. Waite of the Chamber of Commerce, and Harry Gillmor and C. S. McCormick of the Kiwanis Club.

FULLERTON TO HAVE TOASTMASTERS' CLUB

FULLERTON, March 4.—A toastmasters' club is being organized in Fullerton, according to Dr. Roy H. Summers, who has been attending meetings of the Anaheim club. The first meeting of the new club will be held next Tuesday at the Mission Inn at 6:30 o'clock. The business of the first meeting will be to talk over plans for the formation of the club, to organize the charter members and to elect officers for the year. The Anaheim club has accepted an invitation to come here at the first meeting and help in the organization.

Education Fund of Kiwanis Club to be Increased

RIVERSIDE, March 4.—The scholarship fund maintained by the Riverside Kiwanis Club, by which several Riverside students are annually financed through college will be materially increased following unanimous approval at luncheon yesterday of a proposal to tax each member $10 extra a year, the money to be placed at the disposition of the educational committee.

The clubmen have taken particular pride in their scholarship fund and enthusiasm for the proposal ran so high yesterday that several proffered larger sums for enlargement of the principal.

An annual opera is given to obtain money for the fund, but H. S. Reed, chairman of the educational committee, explained that the fund is now in need of $1200 adequately to provide for the many applications of deserving students who desire to complete their education.

A. G. Paul, principal of the high school and junior college, highly commended the undertaking and asserted that the loans have stimulated perseverance and interest among the recipients. Dr. Keith Walker, a member of the scholarship committee, presented a report revealing admirable records made by several students financed by the fund.

FIGHT EXPECTED

Controversy Looked for Over Change of Name of Tustin

TUSTIN, March 4.—A movement to change the name of this community from Tustin to Valencia has been started, it was announced today. Letters have been written to postoffice officials at Washington asking that steps be taken to change the name of the town, it is reported.

The matter has been taken up by the Chamber of Commerce, it is said. Several prominent business men, whose names have not been made public, are said to be behind the movement to change the name of the town.

A number of business men and property owners do not favor the plan, and it is probable that an organized movement will be started to oppose the effort to change the name, according to reports. Those who favor the change declare that the name is not distinctive enough. They declare that Valencia would indicate the wealthy /alencia orange section about Tustin, and would be a much more appropriate name.

Other persons, who wish the name to remain as it is, declare that the present name is distinctive enough. They point to the many years it would take to accustom the public to the use of a new name, and to the trouble experienced in changing the name of a town.

It is expected that the matter will be a topic of much controversy in the community during the next few weeks.

WHITE WILL ADDRESS POMONA CIVIC CLUBS

CLAREMONT, Mar. 4.—Arrangements were concluded here today for William Allen White to attend and address a joint luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions' Service Clubs at Pomona next Wednesday noon. On Wednesday afternoon, he will lead a round-table discussion on "Propaganda and News" in Holmes Auditorium, Pomona College, at 4:15 p.m. In the evening he will be the guest at an informal dinner served in joint honor of Mr. White and William H. Porterfield, well-known San Diego journalist.

GLENDALE COUPLE OVERCOME BY GAS

GLENDALE, March 4.—The inhalator squad of the fire department was called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Pitts, 1110 East Broadway, today after the couple were reported to have been overcome by gas. Pitts was found in a semiconscious condition on the front porch and Mrs. Pitts was lying in the front room when the firemen arrived. Twenty minutes' work by the inhalator squad was required before the couple revived.

SAN FERNANDO, March 4.—Landscape improvements totaling $26,000 are under way at the United States Veterans' Hospital, according to Dr. S. H. James, commandant. The improvements will consist of 5000 shade trees and 5000 shrubs and flowers. Arthur E. Simpson, formerly connected with the San Fernando Nursery, has contracted for a part of the landscaping.

TRIBULATIONS COME DOUBLE

Building and Loan Head at Ontario Twice Charged

First He is Accused of Crime of Embezzlement

Second Complaint States He Committed Forgery

ONTARIO, March 4.—Rion W. Watts, former manager of the local branch of the Protective Building and Loan Association at 127 West B street, who has been held in the County Jail at San Bernardino since his arrest there early this week by Constable W. O. Hardy of Ontario, on a warrant charging him with embezzlement, found more trouble in store for him when he was brought before Judge George R. Holbrook here today for arraignment.

Yesterday Judge Holbrook issued a second warrant for Watts, charging the ex-manager with forgery. This complaint, as was the former one, was sworn to by W. M. Pierson of Los Angeles, vice-president of the building and loan concern.

Watts was arraigned on both charges this morning and his bail on the forgery complaint was fixed at $2000. The bail on the embezzlement charge had previously been set at $10,000, which Watts has been unable to raise. He was remanded to the custody of the Sheriff following his arraignment today.

Pierson, who with his brother, S. Pierson, has taken charge of the local office, states that the shortage will be approximately $10,000, as nearly as he can estimate at this time, but that depositors' claims will be paid in full as soon as verified.

RAIN CLOSES TRAIL

Jack Rabbit Road Barred to Traffic Until Storm Ends

RIVERSIDE, March 4.—The Jack Rabbit Trail was closed to all traffic late yesterday afternoon by Capt. Lyle Sanard of the State motor patrol. It will not be open until the present storm is over.

Yesterday's rain sent a new stream of water down the San Timoteo Creek bed too deep for traffic. The bridge on the trail spanning the usual dry wash was swept away by the heavy February flood, but traffic was resumed when the creek returned to its dry state.

Slides in the canyons through which the trail runs blocked it so only one-way traffic could be resumed.

The Palm Springs Road from Whitewater is open to light traffic, according to Sanard. All trucks are barred from the temporary corduroy road. It will be placed under control Saturday and Sunday.

The Nuevo highway is open to traffic up to three-ton trucks, according to Snard, while the Perris-Hemet highway will carry traffic up to nine-ton trucks.

The foothill road from the base of Jackrabbit Trail to San Jacinto is open to the bridge beyond Gilman Hot Springs.

The Santa Ana Canyon highway is closed and no date of reopening has been set.

Installation of officers will be held Thursday evening, April 7. Next Tuesday night the Santa Monica Elks have their annual dinner-dance at the Ship Cafe, Venice.

FOOTPAD SUSPECTS NABBED AT SAWTELLE

SAWTELLE, March 4.—Losing their nerve, though armed with a vicious-looking blackjack made of a bar of steel wrapped with tape, according to Detective Lieutenant Evan of the Sawtelle division, Ramon Minus and Gonsales E. Pino, young Mexicans, failed to stage a hold-up last night, though they admitted having planned violence. Harry Myers, clothing merchant of 1603 Sawtelle Boulevard, was the intended victim of the blackjack. When the pair left his establishment, Myer's watch was missing, suggesting that light-fingered methods had been substituted when the heavy idea was abandoned. Sergeant Fore and Detective Smithson later arrested the two Mexicans, who are booked on suspicion of grand larceny.

FALSE MARRIAGES WAR INAUGURATED

BAKERSFIELD, March 4.—In an attempt to check numerous false marriages consummated through perjury and more often than not with bigamy in the background, County Clerk Frank E. Smith will present to Dist.-Atty. Bailey data on thirteen marriages which were void at the outset, based on perjury, and in five instances, bigamy was implied, according to Mr. Smith's statement today.

Five of these marriages which have resulted in annulments were performed outside of this county, and the annulments secured here, the clerk said. Upon investigation, and according to the pleadings made in the local Superior Court, the principals were alleged to have had wives or husbands living at the time of the last marriage.

NEW ROAD PLANS EXPLAINED

Proposed Outlets for Kern County Traffic Will Give Oil Producers Paved Highway

BAKERSFIELD, March 4.—Nucleus of a road-building program to tap extensive regions in the northern part of the county, provide another outlet for Kern county traffic, plans for a new oil field road for the Mt. Poso district and a consideration of proposals to pave the Woody highway were explained in an interview with Supervisor J. O. Hart at the office of J. B. Thornton, County Surveyor, today. Supervisor Hart, with Supervisor J. B. McFarland and oil company officials have just completed a survey of the new Poso oil fields and have made tentative plans for a new road to penetrate the Poso district.

This traverse will have its starting point one-half mile west of the power plant on the woody road north of Oil Belt. From this point the road will penetrate directly into the heart of the rich new oil territory.

"If the companies will deed us the rights of way, we will give them a new road, probably by this fall," said Supervisor Hart, "but the rights of way must first be deeded to the county. You can say this for Mr. McFarland and me that we intend to give the oil companies every legitimate service in this matter. They are opening a rich oil field, from present indications, and as they pay a great percentage of the taxes, they are entitled to consideration."

The other highway being proposed by residents of Wasco and Shafter in Kern county, and residents of Tulare county, has been mapped on paper over a route parallel to the Santa Fe from the northern boundary of the county. The road, as it was first suggested, would be constructed near the railroad and following it south to Bakersfield.

A recent proposal, which is receiving more favorable consideration, according to Supervisor Hart, is to route the road into Kern county at a point south of Alpaugh in Tulare county and six and one-half miles west of where the Santa Fe enters the county. This proposed road would run into Wasco and Shafter and connect the latter over the route already constructed with Bakersfield.

NEW POSTMASTER AT GLENDALE 16TH INST.

GLENDALE, March 4.—Edwin F. Heisser, recently appointed postmaster, will take over the affairs of the office on the 16th inst., according to an agreement that was reached at a conference held today between him and D. Ripley Jackson, the outgoing postmaster. Heisser's commission, dated February 10, and covering a four-year period, was received here yesterday, after the filing of his bond and his oath of office and their approval by the postal authorities in Washington.

The new appointee will spend the time between now and the date when he assumes charge in studying the workings of the office.

Since Postmaster Jackson's appointment in 1921, when the Glendale office was separated from the Los Angeles postoffice organization and made an independent office, the receipts have increased from $81,544.27 to $238,259.42 for the calendar year of 1926, and the quarters of the office have been enlarged three times.

ASSAULT CHARGED IN SHOOTING FRAY

SANTA ANA, March 4. — Charged with assault with a deadly weapon, John Cunningham, Costa Mesa man, was arraigned before Justice Kenneth Morrison. Bail was fixed at $500 and the examining date set for the 15th inst., at 10 a.m. Cunningham is alleged to have shot R. S. Erbe, his neighbor, through the left hand in an argument said to have taken place in the Erbe garage at 8 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Cunningham used a revolver and only one shot was fired, it was said. A complaint was issued against Cunningham yesterday and he appeared in court without being arrested.

FARM PRODUCTS FAIR WILL BE REPEATED

LEMOORE, Mar. 4.—Another community fair, an event which proved very successful here last year, is to be repeated and the Lemoore Chamber of Commerce has just issued a letter requesting ranchers to select and preserve choice samples from their orchards, vineyards and truck farms for exhibition. With the abundant rainfall the fruit season ahead looks encouraging for unusually good displays of all of the numerous fruits grown in this locality.

RATTLING HARBINGER OF SPRINGTIME SEEN

SPRINGVILLE, March 4.—A traditional harbinger of spring—a rattlesnake—has made its appearance at Worth, near here. Avy La Bachotte reports killing a baby rattler, only about two feet in length, but supplied with the usual rattle on the tip of its tail. It consisted only of the "button" and segment of the newly forming joint of a rattle, which it used most effectively. This is the first rattler reported this season.

Husband Dies in Blast, Wife Badly Burned

BAKERSFIELD, March 4.—Trapped in the flames from an exploded gasoline stove Ricardo Mendoceno, 35-year-old employee of the Santa Fe Railroad at Wasco, yesterday received burns which this morning resulted in death at the San Joaquin Hospital. Mrs. Mendoceno was slightly burned when the flames enveloped the room, and for a short time the lives of two children were endangered when the house threatened to catch fire from the seething stove.

According to meager details of the accident learned from the grief-stricken widow, the only eye witness of the tragedy, Mendoceno, was bending over the stove, preparatory to lighting it, and as he struck a match, fumes from the gasoline tank ignited, causing an explosion, which threw its searing flames throughout the room, charring the man's entire body and burning his wife, who was standing on the other side of the kitchen.

DECISION AFFIRMED IN PARTNERSHIP SUIT

HANFORD, March 4.—The suit for $18,000 instituted by A. N. Vaughan against J. S. Caldwell, et all, in a dispute over the settlement of accounts of a copartnership in the paving business has been finally settled after being in court for two and a half years. In the Superior Court here in September of 1924, Former Judge Short gave a decision for Vaughan against defendant Caldwell and also against Clark Applegate, worker copartner. Caldwell appealed from the judgment, but Applegate did not. The Supreme Court has just handed down a decision affirming the judgment of the lower court in the case.

EMPIRE WATER SUIT BECOMING TANGLED

STRATFORD, March 4.—The suit instituted by owners of Empire ranch lands near here, representing some 7000 acres of that tract, against the Empire Water Company, whose place of business is in Los Angeles, has been considerably complicated by the filing of other parts of a petition to be included in the suit as intervenors. The original suit was Frank L. Moody et al vs. the Empire Water Company. The proposed intervenors are owners of large and small acreage, nine individual owners and the East Side Ranch and the Swiss Colony Ranch.

GENUINE PIONEER OF VENTURA COUNTY DIES

VENTURA, March 4.—Mrs. Julia Dempsey, 96 years of age, of one of the best-known pioneer families of Ventura county, died early this morning after a brief illness. Mrs. Dempsey was the widow of David Dempsey, Oxnard rancher. The Dempsey Road which runs south of Oxnard, was named for the Dempsey family. Mrs. Dempsey was born in Ireland and came to Ventura county more than sixty years ago. She is survived by four generations, which include nine great-great-grandchildren.

YOUTH GIVEN DRINK, OIL WORKER HELD

SANTA ANA, March 4.—Ed Delaney, 32, Garden Grove oil worker, was arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriffs Carn and McCaue on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He was arraigned before Justice Morrison and his examining trial set for 10 a.m. the 8th inst. According to the complaint signed by L. A. Ware, county probation officer, Delaney is alleged to have furnished liquor to a 17-year-old boy on February 26. The youth was later arrested while driving an automobile. Delaney was released on his own recognizance.

GRAND JURY SWORN

VISALIA, March 4.—The 1927 Tulare county grand jury was formally drawn and sworn by Superior Judge Frank Lamberson this morning. The call was for 10 o'clock and business of selecting and swearing the nineteen jurors was quickly dispatched. Horace N. Evans of Exeter was appointed foreman.

AWARD HARBOR CONTRACT

Construction of Breakwater to be Started at Santa Barbara; Many Protests Filed

SANTA BARBARA, March 4.—Santa Barbara City Council, late last night, after a stubborn fight had been waged by proponents of caisson harbor construction, awarded a contract to A. J. Grier of Santa Barbara to construct 1200 feet of rubble mound breakwater on his bid of $360,800.

The vote on the harbor was 4 to 0, Mayor Adrian, proponent of the caisson type of construction, failing to vote.

Mr. Grier, who runs a rock quarry in Santa Barbara, said today that he would move his equipment at once to Santa Cruz Island where the huge ten-ton slabs for the breakwater will be cut from the solid rock cliffs of the island.

Citizens almost a year ago voted $300,000 in bonds for the breakwater to match the $300,000 gift of Maj. Max C. Fleishmann. Of the gallery of several hundred persons in the Council chambers last night, only one defended the choice of the harbor board, its engineer, Francis Betts "Drydock" Smith and its consulting engineer, Col. Charles P. Leeds of Los Angeles.

Representatives from every walk of life appeared to protest the rubble construction, including Capt. E. Price Mitchell, U.S.N., retired; John B. Henck, engineer who built the London terminal system; Earle Ovington, yachtsman and aviator. However, the fact that caisson construction never has been tested in the open sea in Pacific Coast ports caused the engineers and Council to decide on a breakwater similar to that built in Los Angeles Harbor. The breakwater is designed so that it may later be extended to any length desired.

MEDICS WIN IN HOSPITAL FIGHT

Osteopaths and Others Lose at Long Beach

Community Institution Let to Regulars Again

Lease Renewed When Council Votes in Favor

LONG BEACH, March 4.—A battle between osteopaths and members of other medical schools, on the one hand, and the so-called regular physicians and the City Council, on the other, which has raged for months over the conduct of affairs at Community Hospital here, came to a temporary halt today when the City Council voted for a "closed-door" policy for the hospital for another year, thus shutting out the osteopaths and others not classed as "regulars."

The Council directed that an ordinance be adopted authorizing the city to renew a lease, granting the management of the hospital to the Long Beach Community Hospital Association for another year, on the same terms and conditions that prevail this year.

Recently demands were made on the Council by Dr. Warren B. Davis and other spokesmen for the osteopaths to refuse to renew the lease unless the hospital be opened equally to osteopaths and the regulars. Councilman C. Callahan put himself up with the osteopaths as the sole city father on that side of the controversy.

Mayor Filmore Condit, called the father of the Community Hospital and one of its chief benefactors, in urging renewal of the lease to the regulars declared that the hospital could not be successfully managed if the change of policy requested by the osteopaths was made.

A professional war between the osteopaths and others schools with the "regulars" exists in Long Beach, he declared, and that the general experience of hospitals proves it is impossible to conduct an institution with members of the warring schools participating in its management.

Mayor Condit served notice that unless the "regulars" were continued in control he would sever all connection with the institution. The Council voted for renewal of the lease to the regulars by a vote of 5 to 1, Councilman Callahan voting against the lease renewal.

THIS SHOW PUTS 'EM INTO SOUND SLEEP

INGLEWOOD, March 4. — Clinton Woodworth, 11 years old, of 414 Grevilles avenue, went to sleep during the second show at the Inglewood theater last night and remained so while the audience filed out and the house was locked up. He woke up about 1 o'clock this morning and for a time was one of the most frightened boys in the Cintenela Valley. Groping his way to the doors the youngster set up such a pounding and outcry that the noise soon brought a night policeman, Officer Jolly, to the scene, armed to the teeth and prepared to put down an insurrection.

The lad explained that even the opening hour of the second show was past his usual bedtime, and hence his inability to stay awake. Manager DeWitt B. VanDeusen of the Inglewood and Granada theaters is today being chaffed by his friends on presenting a show that "puts 'em to sleep."

ABALONE POACHER FINED FOR CATCH

SANTA ANA, March 4. — Imposing a fine of $35 on U. Tonka, a Japanese, who pleaded guilty to taking abalone out of season at the Three Arches below Laguna, the authorities punished the first offender of that nature to be reported this year. Tonka's case, in fact, is one of the few such offenses to come to official notice in this county recently, according to W. E. Adkinson, County Game Warden, who made the arrest of the Japanese yesterday. Tonka pleaded guilty when brought before Justice Kenneth Emmerson, who assessed the fine stated. Adkinson declared his belief that an organized effort is being made to raid the abalone supply out of season. The closed season, he said, is from January 14 to the 16th inst.

Calexico Gets Federal Grant for New Road

CALEXICO, March 4.—According to a telegram received from Washington by the Chamber of Commerce here today, a bill providing a right of way across twelve miles of public land east of Imperial Valley for the purpose of completing Calexico's new highway system, was passed and signed by President Coolidge just before the adjournment of Congress.

Contractors hav been working all winter on a thirty-eight-mile paving contract which will provide an eighteen-foot macadam road across the entire width of Imperial Valley from the east high-line canal to Seeley, by way of Calexico.

The road project which is being financed jointly by the city of Calexico and ranches in the adjoining territory, is intended eventually to connect with the Yuma-El Centro road near Gray's well.

It was found impossible to construct the twelve-mile line across the government land completing the eastern extension, however, without a special act of Congress.

With this granted, the local Chamber of Commerce is laying plans to close the final gap and provide Imperial Valley with its first complete east-to-west paved road.

BEAN GROWERS TO SEED LAND TO BEETS

RANCHERS PLAN TO ROTATE CROPS THIS YEAR FOR BENEFIT OF SOIL

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 4. Several hundred acres of land in the farming district back of this city will revert to growing beets during the coming year, it was announced yesterday at the annual meeting of the Smeltzer Lima Bean Association.

The association just closed its most successful season, according to a report submitted by H. T. Dunning, manager. More than 80,000 sacks of beans were shipped from the plant at Smeltzer, and the association handled more than 200,000 sacks of beans in its several bean houses.

It is expected that the bean crop for the coming season will be less than half what it was during the past year because of the extensive beet planting.

Officers of the bean association were elected at the meeting. H. T. Dunning, prominent Huntington Beach man, was re-elected manager. Directors elected were Emil Kettler, Albert Bnoff, Charles Ward, Vernon Heiland, C. Clinton Dimoec. George Moore was elected to the central board.

Contractor's Effort to Build May Succeed

LONG BEACH, March 4.—Asserted attempt this morning by M. Hutcheson, 50 years of age, well-known Long Beach contractor, his life may succeed, it was learned at Seaside Hospital this afternoon. Hutcheson had been rushed to the hospital in an ambulance, following an strenuous work by the city's two resident pulmotor squad to restore his life. A combination of financial worries and matrimonial difficulties were ascribed as the cause of his alleged attempt to commit suicide, by means of gas.

Called to his apartments at 1030 East Fourth street by the landlady shortly after noon today, Sergeants Cota and Wright broke down the door and found the unconscious contractor huddled on the floor, his face close to a gas jet. An overcoat spread over his head to prevent the escape of the gas into the rooms. Doctors said he had been laying there for hours.

On a table near by was a safety razor and two bottles of poison. Chances for recovery are good, doctors said.

EVANS NAMED CHOIRMASTER

MONROVIA, March 4.—Frederick Vance Evans, prominent bass-baritone soloist, chorus director and Monrovia business man, today received formal notice of his appointment as choirmaster of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Eighth and Hope streets, Los Angeles, of which Dr. Elmer E. Helms is pastor. Mr. Evans will assume his new position Sunday, May 1, succeeding Arthur Myers, well-known Los Angeles musician, who has held the position two years.

Mr. Evans came to Monrovia seven years ago on a year's leave of absence from Lawrence University, at Appleton, Wis., where he was dean of music for eight years. Deciding to remain in California, he became associated with his father, Dean E. B. Evans, in the Evans Realty and Investment Company here. Although this is his first attempt to re-enter the professional music world, he has been prominently identified with music circles here and is now choir director of the Monrovia First Methodist Church. Last year, he presented a choir of 200 voices in "The Messiah" in three performances here and in Pasadena. This series made the twenty-sixth time that he has directed "The Messiah" during his career.

Before going to Lawrence University, Mr. Evans was acting dean of the school of music at Drake University in Des Moines, and later head of the voice department of Highland Park School of Music in the same city. His outstanding achievement at Des Moines was the organization and direction for several years of the Philharmonic choir, which numbered 350 voices, augmented at times to 1000.

In his new position, Mr. Evans will have charge of music for what is said to be the largest congregation in Methodism. The church auditorium has a seating capacity of more than 4000 persons and services are broadcast each Sunday over KHJ, The Times.
